JFK Seeks Aid Of Mills On Program

Talks Personally With Powerful House Chairman

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy talked personally Saturday with a powerful House leader who holds the key to four of the top new frontier programs to be submitted to the coming session of Congress which convenes Wednesday.

Later in the day, he headed for Columbus, Ohio to make a political speech.

SEEKS SUPPORT

In an hour-long White House meeting, the President sought to enlist the support of Rep. Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. The committee will have control over such vital administration programs as medical care for the aged, liberalization of the President's tariff-making powers, tax revision and an overhaul of federal programs for aiding the needy.

The Arkansas Democrat declined to discuss the conference as he left the White House. Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon sat in on the meeting.

The White House announced the President has scheduled two meetings with congressional leaders next week in advance of the opening of the election-year session.

On Monday, he and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will confer with 15 House and Senate leaders representing both parties.

On Tuesday, he will hold a breakfast conference with Democratic leaders. Both Mills and Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, will attend the Tuesday meeting. Byrd's committee has jurisdiction over the same legislation as Mills' group.

Last session, Kennedy's proposals that medical care for the aged be placed under the social security system and a tax incentive program for U. S. industry were spiked in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Kennedy's Ohio speaking appearance—to address a Democratic banquet in honor of Gov. Michael V Disalle's birthday — was his first political venture of the year. In the 1960 presidential election, he lost the Buckeye state by about 270,000 votes.

Byrd Assails Plan To Buy U.N. Bonds

Rep. Gross Also Against Kennedy Proposed Action

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Saturday denounced President Kennedy's proposal to purchase bonds to keep the United Nations from going bankrupt. He said it was a financially unsound "ruse to collect funds from delinquent U. N. members."

Byrd, chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee, had support from Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, who said he would introduce legislation Wednesday to block such action until other U.N. members pay up their delinquent assessments.

CITES OBJECTIONS

Byrd first stated his opposition in a recent United Press International interview. He detailed his objections Saturday in a prepared statement. He said he would oppose the proposed U.S. purchase of $100 million worth of a $200 million bond issue on grounds that it would put this country into a fund-collecting scheme that "is not likely to succeed."

Purchase of the 25-year, two per cent bonds "would be unsound under any and all tests for prudent financial investment," he said, and in addition, would only increase the current federal debt.

Gross agreed. "With the continued refusal of such strange bedfellows as the Soviet Bloc, many of the Arab states, France, Belgium, Portugal and South Africa to pay what they owe," he said, "it would be foolish to believe that the United Nations ever will have the money to redeem the bonds."

The U. N. bond issue was one subject of a talk Saturday between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Britain's Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath, the United Kingdom's chief negotiator for the Common Market.

Heath said the bond issue came

Guards Fire On Youth Trying To Reach West Area

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist border guards Saturday fired on and captured an East German trying to reach refuge in the American Sector of West Berlin but two other youths made it safely through the barricades and "death zone" dividing the city.

On the French Sector border, workmen guarded by armed Vopos (people's police) and police dogs demolished cottages and one-family houses along Klemke Strasse to provide Communist border patrols with a wider range of fire to stop refugees.

QUESTION STATUS

Informed sources, meantime, said the Soviet Union questioned the four-power status of Berlin in rejecting American protests against Communist German interence with official U.S. traffic crossing the East - West Berlin border.

The sources said the Russians implied the Western allies no longer had any rights in East Berlin and said that Western allied traffic across the city borders must be subjected to East Berlin police controls.

Western experts on Soviet strategy considered it significant that the Russian commandant addressed his note rejecting the U.S. protests to the American commandant in West Berlin instead of the American commandant in Berlin.

By using the word "West" the Soviets were serving notice they no longer considered the post-war four-power agreements on Berlin to apply to the Communist party of the city, the experts said.

The Russian notes rejected protests of Dec. 23 sent by Walter C. Dowling, U.S. ambassador to West Germany, and Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, Berlin's U. S. commandant.

The notes protested the refusal of East German police to pass Watson through the Friedrichstrasse crossing point because his civilian aides refused to show identity cards.

Col. A. V. Solovyev, Berlin's Soviet commandant, brushed off Watson's contention that the East German police checks violated the Western rights of free move-

Snow, Sleet Cripple East Half Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A blustery storm loaded with snow, sleet and torrential rains battered the eastern half of the nation Saturday and ran up a grim toll of multiple deaths on ice-slicked or fog-shrouded highways.

The vast storm grounded planes in a number of major cities, disrupted bus schedules and caused a rash of traffic accidents that will take police several days to compile in some localities.

FATAL CRASHES

Eight persons riding in one car were killed when their vehicle and a semitrailer truck collided in rainy, foggy weather in southeastern Illinois.

A few hours later, three high school students were killed in a head-on collision of their car and a semitrailer truck less than 20 miles away from the other accident scene.

Four deaf mutes, traveling from Michigan to Toledo to play in a basketball game were killed when their car skidded across the icy Toledo-Detroit Expressway near Toledo and slammed into a tractor-trailer in the opposite lane.

The storm buried Kansas City under 10 inches of snow. Snow fell throughout the day in Chicago and was expected to rise to a depth of 6 to 10 inches.

Snow, sleet and freezing rain made driving hazardous in a storm zone stretching from Texas to New England.

Operations at Idlewild Airport in New York were brought to a virtual standstill as fog and rain blotted out ceiling and visibility. In Chicago, both Midway and O'Hare airports were closed down temporarily when heavy falling

WARMING EXPECTED

Snow And Freeze Strike In Area

Light snow fell over the Twin City area Saturday as well as other parts of northern Louisiana in the state's first snowfall of winter and of the new year which left freezing temperatures throughout the state as well as frigid winds kicking up waves in the gulf.

Although only a trace of snow was seen here, and also in Shreveport, Minden and Greenwood, an inch was reported to have fallen in Kiethville. The slight amount of snow which fell in the Twin City area melted as soon as it reached earth.

The high temperature in Monroe for Saturday reached 35 degrees and the low dropped to 26 degrees around 9 p.m., as recorded by the Federal Aviation Agency at Selman Field. The temperature at Shreveport, at 11 a.m. Saturday was only 30 degrees.

WARMER TODAY

Yesterday's forecast called for freezing temperatures throughout the state except along the coast. Small craft warnings were issued along the Gulf coast for rough seas and northerly winds up to 35 miles per hour.

The Twin City's weather for today is expected to be mostly cloudy and cold with a definite warming trend over the next few days. The Jackson, Miss. Weather Bureau forecast the high temperature for this area for today

Dischargee Settles His Grievance

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Many a serviceman has vowed to settle a grievance with his sergeant if he ever met him in civilian life. But an airman at Truax Air Force Base was not content to await such an unlikely chance meeting.

Moments after receiving his honorable discharge Friday, Airman Sidney Harding, 22, marched back to his company headquarters and punched his sergeant, according to Dane County Dist. Atty. John Byrne.

Sgt. Cletus Lewis, 32, sprawled through a window. It took eight stitches to close a cut in his head. By the time he was patched up and signed an assault and battery complaint with the district attorney, Harding, his wife and two children were long gone and headed for their home in Fredericksburg, Va.

Authorities said they had no plans to seek extradition.

Cuban Boat Hijacked In Asylum Bid

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)— The captain and two crewmen of a 110-foot Cuban gunboat brought the vessel into the Key West coast base Saturday turned over 14 other crewmen locked in a cabin and asked for political asylum.

Coast Guard and Immigration authorities did not release names of the captain or crew members who commandeered the gunboat, but said there were no signs of a struggle and that the 14 men locked in the cabin did not protest when they found themselves in this country.

Authorities said they had not questioned the Cubans enough to learn just where they took command of the gunboat, the "Las Villas," an American-built World War II type craft.

The vessel was held by authorities in Key West pending a decision on whether to return it to Cuba. The boat sailed into Key West under its own power Saturday morning, but evidently had indicated to U.S. military vessels in the area what its mission was.

The boat was built as a subchaser but was apparently being used as a patrol boat by the Cubans, the Coast Guard said. It had two guns mounted on its deck.

Another Cuban gunboat, a 40-footer, came here under similar circumstances last July and was eventually returned to Cuba by a special three - man crew flown here from Havana. Its regular grew was granted asylum in the United States.

17-MONTH BREAK ENDS

U.S., Dominican Renew Relations

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republica (UPI)—The United States and Dominican Republic formally resumed diplomatic relations Saturday after a 17-month break which saw the downfall of the Trujillo dictatorship.

The traditional formalities, carried out simultaneously in brief ceremonies here and in Washington, followed by two days the decision of the Council of the Organization of American States to lift sanctions against the Dominican Republic imposed in August, 1960.

Restoration means the United States can go ahead with steps to include the Dominican Republic in its Alliance for Progress to lift Latin-American living standards through a 10-year, $10-billion program of grants and loans.

DUE WINDFALL

It means also that the way is cleared for the Dominican Republic to pick up an estimated $25-million windfall in sugar sales to the United States by claiming its share of the import allotment once held by Communist-dominated Cuba.

No time is being lost on bringing the Dominican Republic into the Alliance for Progress and a mission headed by Teodoro Moscoso is due at the republic's capital of Santo Domingo Sunday. Moscoso heads the Latin-American division of the agency for International Development, the U.S. over-all foreign-aid agency.

The OAS action, in effect, recognized Dominican leaders were now making strides toward representative and responsible government after more than 30 years of iron rule by the late Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo and his family.

U. S. Consul General John C. Hill, acting Saturday as charge d'affaires—embassy status—presented the traditional "cabinet letter" to Dominican Foreign Minister Ambrosio Alvarez Aybar. Then they exchanged polite expressions of hope for good relations.

In Washington, a similar pro-

Influenza Hits Town, Aid Sought

VALMEYER, Ill. (AP)—One of every five residents in this community of 2,500 has the flu and an urgent appeal was made Saturday for medical help. Valmeyer's only doctor is in South America on vacation.

State police brought a physician from East St. Louis, 25 miles away. Another doctor who volunteered was standing by to make the trip if needed. A five-inch snowfall Saturday added to the town's misery.

Mayor George Andres appealed to the East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce for help.

"They get sort of frantic," he said. "We need a doctor. If you have to load up someone who is sick and take them several miles for help . . . We've had one death and some people think she could have been saved if we had a doctor."

The nearest hospitals are in East St. Louis and Redbud. Doctors at the nearby communities of Waterloo, Columbia and Dupo have made emergency trips to Valmeyer but, the mayor said, have their hands full in their own towns.

A 52-year-old woman died of pneumonia Friday, 24 hours after an ambulance trip to a hospital with oxygen administered en route. Relatives asked her name be withheld.

Paper Company Plans Work At Bastrop Mills

BASTROP (Special) — More than $3,000,000 in alterations and improvements have been announced at the Louisiana and Bastrop Mills of International Paper Co. here by Ian P. Sim and J. E. Pate, mill managers.

The work will provide added flexibility to the two mills, the managers said.

Work is scheduled to begin within the next few weeks, and will involve paper machine changes at both mills as well as alterations to the bleach plant and pulp mill of the Louisiana Mill.

The bulk of the new construction projects will be carried out at the Louisiana Mill, and initial phases of construction will include minor repairs previously slated there.

The entire program should be completed by the end of August, Sim said.

Kennedy Says Red Bloc Has Begun To Crack

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—President Kennedy said Saturday night the Western alliance is gaining strength while the Communist bloc has begun to crack.

"The past 18 months has seen the beginning of the fragmentation of the Communist empire," Kennedy told a Democratic fund-raising banquet here.

Kennedy flew in from Washington in the rain to address the banquet at the state fairgrounds in honor of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's 54th birthday anniversary.

The President said East Germany, Poland and Hungary have beeen forced to stick with the Communist front.

Red China and Albania, he said, have started to move away.

Blowing apart Communist predictions, Kennedy said the Western world has received its "greatest impetus toward unity in history."

Kennedy declared that, "Freedom is the handmaiden of abundance."

At the same time, he declared that anyone who contends there is nothing left to be done and that the function of the federal government is to "sit and rest at anchor" is wholly wrong.

The President called for support of his administration's proposals to make 1962 a "year of progress" in this country and abroad.

Boy Perishes In Rescue Try

HELENA, N.Y. (AP)—An 11-year-old boy and the young sister he tried to rescue perished Saturday in a fire that destroyed their home in this northern New York hamlet.

Their mother and two brothers suffered serious burns but three sisters escaped safely and raced, barefoot and in pajamas, to a nearby restaurant. The temperature was near zero.

The bodies of Thomas Fregoe and his sister Eugenie, 2, were found in charred wreckage in the basement. State police said the boy apparently got out of the two-story frame house safely but ran back for Eugenie and both were trapped when the kitchen floor collapsed.

PLAN SPACE LAUNCH

U.S. To Test Giant New Echo Balloon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency in the next few days will launch a gigantic "Super Echo" balloon to an altitude of nearly 1,000 miles where it is expected to be visible throughout Eastern United States as a very bright moving star with a slightly greenish cast.

The launching, at Cape Canaveral, Fla., is scheduled as an up-and-down test of ejection and inflation equipment before putting a new and more durable Echo communication satellite into orbit some time after April 1.

Officials did not announce the date of the launching but said it would not be before next Thursday.

The shiny 135-foot sphere, as tall as a 13-story building, weighs 500 pounds. It is 35 feet greater in diameter and nearly four times as heavy as the original 100-foot, 136-pound Echo I launched Aug. 12, 1960.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said two cameras will accompany the sphere aloft to "provide new and unusual means" of observing its ejection from the rocket nose and subsequent inflation.

A Thor rocket will hurl the sphere into the sky some time between 6 and 7 a.m. EST. The balloon is expected to soar about 950 miles up and 600 miles down range from the Cape. Both rocket and balloon are expected to burn up on descent through the atmosphere.

But one of the cameras, sealed in a protective capsule, will parachute into the sea 250 miles northeast of San Salvador about

Second Crash Fatal For Man

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—John Harvey Campbell, Newllano taxi driver, was killed Saturday after he escaped injury in an another accident.

Campbell was driving his cab from Ft. Polk to Leesville when it was struck by a hit-run driver. While Campbell and military policemen were examining the damage, another car ran into the taxi and knocked it into Campbell and Spec. 4 Andrew Kish, Ft. Polk military policeman. Kish received a broken leg.

Officers identified the driver of the third vehicle as Pfc. Douglas Gold, 23, Ft. Polk.

FIRST WIFE SLAIN

Convicted Slayer, Young Widow Wed

WAYNESBORO, Miss. (UPI)—Convicted wife-slayer John Lewis McPhearson of Silas, Ala., Saturday married Mrs. Mary Louise Robertson, a widow linked romantically with the wealthy timber man during his murder trials.

The 38-year-old former Choctaw County political power married the 24-year-old Bladon Springs, Ala., woman at the home of Justice of the Peace Ernest Overstreet.

McPhearson was convicted of second - degree murder in the shooting death of his wife Irma Lee, 35. He was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment Dec. 1, after an 11-day trial.

The latest move taken by McPhearson's attorneys was to ask an appeal be set aside. The up explained action would pave the way for the convicted man to begin serving his prison term. A hearing on the motion is expected to be heard soon before Mobile circuit judge William G. Lindsey.

The lumberman's first trial ended in a conviction and life imprisonment sentence. The Alabama Supreme Court later reversed the sentence on a technicality and the second trial ended in mistrial.

McPhearson contended the shooting of his wife was accidental and occurred as they scuffled over the weapon during an argument.

The convicted man was accused of shooting his wife, the mother of four children, with a 30-30 rifle, then dumping her body down a disused well and bulldozing 12 feet of earth over it.

The advance outlook for Monday shows cool temperature becoming warmer with cloudy to partly cloudy skies and a slight chance of scattered thundershowers through this area.

U.S. Accused Of Pushing U.N. In Katanga War

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Katanga President Moise Tshombe accused the U.S. State Department Saturday of having pushed the United Nations into a "murderous war" in Katanga. But he said he was sure only a minority of the American people were to blame.

His statement was issued through the Katangan delegation here.

Tshombe said "It appears that it is more under the impulse of the State Department than on its own that the U.N. organization set itself on Katanga up to the point of leading there a murderous war."

Protesting the destruction, he said "The reply which (U.S. Ambaseador Edmond) Gullion gave me in Ndola, 'Beggars cannot choose,' is a perfect illustration of this mentality. To these people it does not matter whether children and women die."

But, Tshombe said, "in fact the American people are perhaps the ones most attached to freedom. They believe freedom is one of the forces which can lift the world."

Tshombe said it warmed his heart to discover many friends in the "true America."

He listed among them Sens. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and the American Committee for Aid to the Katangan Freedom Fighters.

U.S. To Test Giant New Echo Balloon

30 minutes after launch. It will be picked up by Air Force recovery units.

About 150 miles above the earth on the way up, the 70-pound canister containing the folded sphere will be ejected from the head of the rocket. At about 230 miles it will release the balloon, which will be inflated by an evaporating powder.

NASA said that at this altitude the balloon will be caught in the rays of the sun and will be visible, if weather conditions are right, all along the east coast of Florida and as far north as Southern Georgia.

At peak altitude it should be visible throughout the eastern United States as a very bright star in the Southern sky. A chemical coating applied for temperature control purposes gives the sphere a faintly green tint.

Special controls will keep the two cameras pointed at the inflating sphere during flight. One, a television camera, will permit scientists at Cape Canaveral to observe the process for about 20 minutes. The other, specially designed for this test, will shoot about 400 feet of film for about 12 minutes. This is the one NASA hopes to recover.

Additional information will be obtained by ground cameras and radars and by radio from the rocket.

The original Echo, whose aluminized plastic skin is about half as thick as the wrapper of a cigarette package, is still going strong after more than 16 months in orbit.

It is still useful for reflecting radio signals in communication experiments. But it is only about 40 per cent as reflective as it was in the first weeks of its life because of wrinkling of its skin and loss of shape.

The new Echo is made of two layers of thin aluminum foil with a plastic film between them. Its skin is about two ten-thousandths of an inch thicker than Echo I's, and it is expected to retain its smooth spherical shape in space.

NASA expects to launch the first of the new Echo satellites into a 700-mile-high polar orbit from the Pacific missile range with a Thor-Agena B rocket in the April-May-June period.

Then, in 1963, the agency plans to launch three Echo spheres at once with an Atlas-Agena B. This multiple launch program is known as Project Rebound.

snow cut visibility almost to zero.

Planes were grounded at Rochester, N.Y. Fog shut down International Airport at Philadelphia for five hours. Two incoming flights were canceled at Portland, Maine, Municipal Airport because of ice on the runways.

Meanwhile, a new storm center developed in the Dakotas causing severe blizzard conditions in the western half and some northeastern sections of North Dakota.

The Chicago Weather Bureau said the centers of the two storms could join Sunday causing heavy snow in northern Michigan.

Cold weather pushed into the southeast, threatening added misery to victims of a tornado that killed a baby girl, injured 60 persons and made between 600 and 700 persons homeless at Crestview in northern Florida.

An ice blanket covered portions of Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York and most of New England.

In ice-glazed Greater Boston, police reported skidding accidents "by the hundreds."

New Hampshire motorists were advised to stay off roads unless driving was necessary.

Much of Michigan was coated with ice after another night of freezing rain and sleet that closed many schools throughout the state Friday.

Scores of accidents, many multiple occurred on ice-slicked roads in upstate New York. Three tractor-trailers jackknifed on a hill near Utica, N.Y., causing a 25-car tieup for several hours. Fog also covered the area.

Planes were grounded at Rochester, N.Y. and fog shut down the International Airport at Philadelphia for five hours. Northeast Airlines cancelled the day's first two incoming flights at the Portland, Maine municipal airport because of ice on the runways.

Some bus schedules in Maine were delayed for about three hours. A Greyhound bus en route from New York City to Albany skidded into a traffic mall on the outskirts of Albany. No one was injured.

Violent winds rode the southern edge of the storm area. A twister smashed through two rural areas near Jefferson, Ga., toppling trees and cutting power and telephone lines. A highway and railroad right of way were blocked by debris temporarily.

Oklahoma counted four traffic deaths as the skies cleared and temperatures dropped in the northwestern part of that state. Oklahoma City and Tulsa had five inches of snow on the ground. Highways in the northern part of the state were coated with snow and ice.

The storm, moving eastward from the Great Plains dumped up to 10 inches of snow on Kansas, 7 inches on parts of Missouri, 8 inches on parts of Iowa. Three deaths were attributed to the storm in Kansas and Missouri.

G. M. Pervukhin, Soviet ambassador to East Germany, did little more than acknowledge Dowling's protest, the sources said. He called attention to Solovyev's rejection of Watson protests and said it was not necessary for him to add anything.

The dispute over traffic within the city did not affect U.S. traffic to and from Berlin over the 110-mile highway through Communist East Germany. That traffic does not pass through East Berlin. The U.S. Army ordered a small military convoy to return to Berlin Saturday from "training" in West Germany and another was to come back Sunday.

British Doctors Expect 'Twist' To Aid Incomes

LONDON (AP)—British doctors expect to reap a rich harvest from the twist—you know, that dance where the dancers look as if they were caught in an automatic washer.

With the twist epidemic spreading from the United States to Britain, a lot of Britons are going to wind up with slipped discs, Dr. Hames Cyriax, a leading British orthopedic surgeon, said Saturday.

In a lecture at the School of Physiotherapy at London's St. Thomas's Hospital, Cyriax said:

"The twist involves radiating the trunk on the pelvis, or the pelvis on the trunk, while the spinal joints are bent backwards or forwards—sometimes to the full.

"The alternating rotation at extremes of range is well calculated to damage a cartilage in both lumbar and theractic spinal joints. This leads to recurrent displacements."

In lay language, twisters are liable to slip a disc.

"There are plenty of slipped discs about already and the devotees of the twist are destined to increase their numbers," Cyriax said.

cedure was followed when Dr. Marco A. de Pena, designated charge d'affaires of the Dominican Republic, presented his credentials to the State Department.

The OAS vote to restore the Dominican Republic to the Western Hemisphere community was 20 to 0, with Cuba abstaining. The original sanction measures had been voted in reaction to growing excesses of the Trujillo regime, domestically and in its foreign relations.

President Joaquin Balaguer, who came to power with Trujillo's assassination, recently reached agreement with opposition elements on a schedule for free general elections here next September.

Meanwhile, his government continued its efforts to erase the last vestiges of Trujillo rule. Attorney General Antonio Garcia Vasquez announced that criminal proceedings were being started against Jose Arismendi (Petan) Trujillo, a brother of the late dictator, for allegedly embezzling 10,000 pesos from funds designated for use in building a social club in Bonao. The club was never built.

His extradition will be sought, the attorney general said.

LEGISLATURE, RACES

1962 Seen As Big Political Year For Louisianians

By SAM HANNA
World Staff Writer

Politics in Louisiana is heading for a banner year in 1962 with a hot session of the Legislature in the spring, plus at least two races that will play a big part in the 1964 governor's race.

Undoubtedly the most import- and race of the year, as far as Louisiana's political destiny is concerned, is the Senate campaign this summer when U. S. Sen. Russell B. Long seeks re-election.

Long, feared more than any other political figure by politicians now that the late Earl K. Long is off the scene, has all gubernatorial hopefuls dangling on a string.

The political futures of several men depend on what Russell does. And Russell may or may not run for governor in '64, regardless of the outcome of this summer's campaign.

This means that Long will have the support of almost all the key politicians, some of whom, for personal reasons, want to see him back in Washington — to stay.

When Russell Long's plans will bear more weight on state politics than anything else, the mayor's race in New Orleans can't be taken lightly.

NEEDS VOTE

Any candidate for governor has to depend on a sizeable vote from New Orleans, whether he's an upstate hillbilly or not. North Louisiana can't elect a governor alone, nor can New Orleans.

Now that Chep Morrison, the departed mayor turned ambassador, has lost control of the scene in New Orleans, the Crescent City is up for grabs.

That's why the mayor's race this month is important in state polities. If Morrison's man, Sen. Adrain Duplantier, wins, then it would be reasonable to assume that Morison still must be contended with in Louisiana.

Morrison, a two - time loser for governor, has the mansion in his blood still, although he could make a break for the U. S. Senate should Long decide to run for governor.

However, if the Old Regulars return to power in New Orleans, then the Long faction will be sitting tall in the saddle. The Old Regulars and the Longs got together to help elect Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

MAY DRIFT

Meantime, the 1962 Legislature should have shades of the coming governor's race. Several ambitious lawmakers who have been close to Davis in the past may drift from the governor's camp for greener pasters.

Davis, on the other hand, no doubt will have financial worries when the Legislature goes to Baton Rouge. He has a deficit to contend with, plus a state with expanding services.

And the Little Hoover Commission is expected to propose some drastic changes. Add to this the fact that Davis will be half - way finished as governor and the Legislature could show more signs of independence.

Perhaps, however, this is saying too much, because the governor, by hook or crook, generally controls the Legislature.

Closer to home, in the Fifth District, Congressman Otto E. Passman will come up for re-election this year. Several men have their eyes on Passman's post, but so far no man has indicated a desire to take Passman on.

Drop in a few local races, such as the mayor's election in West Monroe, and '62 should shape up like a hot stew bubbling in the ole political pot.

Auditions Slated For Students By Local Orchestra

Approximately 20 junior and senior high school students from the Monroe trade area will audition Sunday at Northeast State for positions with the Twin City Symphony Orchestra.

The auditions will be held in Biedenharn Hall Auditorium from 2-5 p.m.

Winners will participate with the orchestra in concert on Feb. 15 when presented by the Northeast State Concerts Association in Neville High School Auditorium.

Frank Parker, Monroe piano teacher, is chairman of the Twin City Symphony auditions committee. Judges will be Dr. Clifford Shipp, Northwestern State; James T. Poulos, instructor of music at Northeast; and Dr. Harry Lemert, dean of the division of fine arts at Northeast.

Earle Spicer Is Scheduled For Concert

Earle Spicer, New York baritone and well known singer of ballads, will be presented in a program Sunday, Jan. 15, by the Northeast State Concerts Association.

The concert will be in Neville High School Auditorium, starting at 8:15 p.m.

Spicer has sung with many of the leading symphony orchestras and oratorio societies here and in England — for the English nobility, the governor - general of Canada, and at the White House.

He was feature soloist for three years on one of the leading N.B.C. programs with Donald Voorhees and his orchestra.

Reviewers say that he is a great favorite with students everywhere because of his manly voice, magnetic personality, down-to-earth informal manner and grand sense of humor.

He will present a most entertaining Shakespeare "quiz," and he has the reputation of singing "Frankie and Johnny" as well as anyone of the concert stage today.

He has given more than 1200 engagements at more than 440 of the leading colleges.

Season memberships will be sold at the door of the concert and also at the office of Dr. Harry Lemert, dean of the division of fine arts at Northeast State, telephone FA 5-6361, extension 211.

Plans Made For Event At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — Plans are being made for the third annual Fathers' Weekend to be held at Louisiana Tech on Saturday, Feb. 3, under sponsorship of the Student Senate of the college.

Activities for the afternoon and night include registration and coffee in Memorial Gymnasium, from 1 to 2:30 p.m.; welcome by President R. L. Ropp, 2:45 p.m.; movie of the 1961 Tech - Northeast football game and an exhibition of archery, 3 to 4 p.m.; a tour of campus buildings, 4 to 5:30 p.m.; meal in the cafeteria, 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.; open house at church centers, 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., and a basketball game between Louisiana Tech and Arkansas Tech at 8 p.m.

The visiting fathers will be admitted free to the basketball game, accompanying their sons. The Student Center will be open after the game. The fathers will be invited to stay in the boys' dormitories.

Dr. J. R. Fair To Speak At ASC Meeting

A supervisor of engineering research will be featured speaker at the January meeting of the South Arkansas Section of the American Chemical Society, Dr. August G. Danti, chairman of the membership and publicity committee, has announced.

The meeting will be held Jan. 15 at 7 p.m. in the Plantation Room of Rufus Garrett Hotel in El Dorado, Ark.

The speaker will be Dr. James R. Fair, supervisor of the engineering research section of Monsanto Chemical Company of St. Louis. He will discuss "New Development in Distillation Technology."

Reservations for the dinner meeting, at $1.85 per person, should be made by 10 a.m. Jan. 15, to F. R. Blevins, American Oil Company, El Dorado, Ark.

Dr. Fair received his bachelor's degree from Georgia Institute of Technology in 1942, his M.S.E. degree from the University of Michigan in 1949, and his Ph.D. degree in chemical engineering from the University of Texas in 1954.

His professional career includes some 17 years of industrial experience, partly with Shell Development Company but primarily with Monsanto.

He received the Monsanto Academic Leave Award in 1948 and later held Gulf Oil and Humble Oil graduate fellowships. He has a number of publications in the general area of diffusional processes, and is contributor to a forthcoming McGraw-Hill book on equilibrium stage processes.

A member of several honorary and professional societies, he is also a member of the Technical Advisory Committee of Fractionation Research, Inc. Recently he concluded an assignment on the Committee for Dynamic Objection and the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Actress Claims Beating, Sues

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Professional golfer Frank Stranahan was sued for $300,000 Friday by an actress who said he beat her because she resisted his armorous advances in a hotel last Feb. 21.

Joan Marchesani, 23, known professionally as Joan March, said the 6-foot, 200-pound champion golfer beat her about the head, face, arms and body "without justification or provacation."

Scout Banquet Is Scheduled January 17th

Gunnar Berg, dean of professional training for the Boy Scouts of America, will be the featured speaker at the Annual Scouter Recognition Banquet in Monroe on January 17.

"We have been trying for some-ime to get Mr. Berg here as to our speaker for the annual ban-quet," explained Scout Executive Jack Pankey.

"He's one of the top men in the Scouting profession," he add-ed.

Bert is located at the National Training School, Mendham, N.J.

The banquet will be held at the Paragon Club at 7 p.m. on January 17 with about 400 persons in attendance. Scouters and their wives are urged to make reservations with the Monroe office now.

Highlighting the banquet, according to Hollis Fant, chairman, will be the presentation of the Silver Beaver awards — highest award that the Ouachita Valley Council can make to a Scouter.

Fant pointed out that the awards will be kept secret until time for the presentation at the banquet.

In addition, other recognition awards will be presented to Scouters who have performed in an outstanding manner during the previous year.

Officers for 1962 will be installed. Lewis M. Cocksey, the present council president, of Delhi will be re-installed as president.

Other officers include Donald B. Fiske, vice-president, Oak Grove, W. W. Stevens, vi cpe-rsidenet, W. W. Stevens, vice - president, Monroe, Dr. George T. Walker, vice president, Monroe, Frank Kirby, commissioner, Monroe, William Staab, treasurer, Monroe, Floyd B. James, national council represntative, Ruston, also James W. Moore, Monroe, Dr. Marvin Green, Ruston, and J. W. Walters, West Monroe.

A new executive board comprised of 35 Scouters will be installed also.

According to Fant, as special guest will include Snead Clift, deputy regional executive, of Memphis, Tenn. He will introduce Berg.

CUTS MILE-LONG PATH

Tornado Losses Heavy In Florida

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (UPI)—Residents of this tornado-shattered farm community gave shelter Saturday to fellow townsmen made homeless by the devastating winds that claimed the life an an infant and injured 26 other persons.

The twister hit just before dusk Friday and cut a mile-long swath of destruction through the north side of this Florida panhandle town.

Power and telephone lines were knocked out and the community of 10,000 left in blackness through the night. Rescuers used flashlights and other emergency lighting to carry out their work.

It wasn't until dawn that residents got their first good look at the damage.

They were confronted with an appalling sight of shattered homes, streets covered with fallen wires and towering pines with their tops snapped like twigs.

Several television antennas were found driven through the walls of buildings and two huge spools of construction wire were picked up and hurled into the front of one house.

Sheriff Ray Wilson said at least 15 homes—ranging in cost from $3,00 to $25,000—were destroyed or suffered major damage. He said several hundred more received lesser varying degrees of damage.

The infant killed was six-month-old Donna Johnson. The little girl was sitting in her grandmother's lap when the twister overturned their trailer home. Her grandmother was listed among he injured.

Wilson said of the 26 injured, 2 were treated at Okloosa Memorial Hospital and released. Five others were admitted and one was sent to a Pensacola hospital in critical condition.

The Crestview tornado was only one of several that struck Florida, Alabama and Georgia during the early morning hours. At least five small tornadoes struck in Georgia near Quitman, Baxley, Alma and Jeffersonville early Saturday. There was no loss of life.

CPA's Get Look At New Form For State Tax

The new forms to be used in filing Louisiana state income tax returns were introduced to the Monroe chapter of Certified Public Accountants at their monthly meeting this past week.

The forms were discussed by the guest speaker for the occasion, Ben Grasser, who is head of the office audit section of the Income Tax Division of the Louisiana Department of Revenue.

He discussed some of the problems encountered as a result of the income tax withholding procedure installed by the state revenue department last year.

He also commented on the new automatic data processing equipment installed by the federal system and the effects it will have on increased tax enforcement.

Other guests at the meeting included Fred Ussrey Jr., assistant manager of the Monroe office of the state revenue department; C. S. Allen and Bill Peek, both of the Monroe office.

Fog, Rain Hamper N.Y. Plane Flights

NEW YORK (AP)—Operations at Idlewild Airport were brought to a virtual standstill Saturday as fog and rain blotted out ceiling and visibility.

In the late afternon the airport had zero visibility and ceiling zero, with ramp automobiles using headlights to get around.

About 250 domestic flights were canceled from midnight through the evening flights.

Cuba Budget, Income Taxes Hit New High

HAVANA (UPI) — A record Cuban budget was unveiled by the Fidel Castro government Saturday along with a new income tax increase to help pay for it.

The total budget as approved by the council of ministers was announced at 1,953,50,000 pesos. Missing from the public account sheet was any mention of defense funds.

The peso officially is pegged at a rate of one to the U.S. dollar. The actual exchange rate varies between four and five pesos to the U. S. dollar.

It was described as the island's "first scientific budget." The government said it would involve "no deficit" and took a step toward fulfilling this forecast by a new tax law which boils down more than 10 national taxes into 1 major categories.

Under the new tax rates approved by the cabinet, Cubans making up to 25 pesos a month will pay 11.9 per cent in taxes.

Before the Castro takeover in Jan. 1, 1959, persons in this category paid roughly one per cent.

The rate then increases progressively in a system of flat rate and percentage deduction. Persons making 25 to 30 pesos will pay 29.75 pesos monthly plus 14 per cent of the excess of 250. For example, a person making 260 pesos monthly would pay 29.75 of that to the government plus 14 per cent of the additional 1 pesos flate rate, plus 7 per cent of the excess over 2,500.

"General expenses in education" took the biggest announced share of the budget, 237.6 million pesos. A total of 228 million pesos was allocated for "basic services to the community" and 208.3 million went to industrial developments.

The government noted that the figure for health, 32.7 million pesos, was "three times more than the biggest figure before Jan. 1, 1959" — the date of Castro's takeover. Another 32.7 million was allocated for "science" and "culture."

Fire Department Answers 2 Calls

The Monroe fire department enjoyed a relatively quiet day yesterday, making only two runs on minor calls.

At 1:40 a.m. Saturday, trucks two and four answered a call at the stave mill on Jackson Street. They reported the sawdust burning in the fuel room which took several hours before it was completely out. The firemen had to dig through the sawdust and keep wetting it down to make sure it was not smoldering.

At 11:55 a.m., trucks ten, one and four and ladder one answered a call at Sixth and Wood streets but found only a skillet in an oven causing a lot of smoke. The West Monroe department had no calls yesterday.

ON LONDON NEWSPAPER

Princess' Husband To Work For Pay

LONDON (UPI) — Ex-photographer Anthony Armstrong - Jones is headed back to work on Fleet Street, London's newspaper row, but nobody really expects him to be one of the boys.

The London Sunday Times said that Armstrong-Jones, the husband of Princess Margaret, and now Lord Snowdon, will be doing a "real job of work" as "artistic adviser."

Accepting a "real job" for pay is something of a break in tradition for a member of the British Royal Family; few have ever worked for pay, or even worked at all.

The British press, which recently had roasted Lord Snowdon for not earning the 15,000 pounds ($42,00) a year he receives from the government, looked with favor on his return to the journalistic trade.

The press comments were restrained, but the Daily Mail said, "We welcome Lord Snowdon back into the ranks of working journalism. . .it's a good thing for the Royal Family and for the country, and not a bad thing for the Sunday Times either."

C. D. Hamilton, editor of the Sunday Times, announced Armstrong - Jones' appointment, but did not make public his salary. Hamilton said the Princess' husband would report for work after their current "second honeymoon" in the Caribbean.

The editor did not elaborate on Armstrong-Jones' duties but he said he will not handle "hot news" and will not help cover the "Royal Family. He will do some office work, though not on a regular schedule, and "when the occasion arises he will take photographs."

The Daily Sketch guessed Armstrong-Jones would be paid about 10,000 pounds ($28,000) a year in his new job. That's quite a bit more than most press photographers — in Britian or anywhere else.

DEATHS

Eugene Wheeler

JONESVILLE (Special) — Funeral arrangements for Eugene Wheeler, 37, will be held in the Lismore Baptist Church with the Rev. J. O. McNair officiating. Time of services had not been announced last night.

Mr. Wheeler died early Friday morning in an Alexandria hospital following a short illness.

Burial will be held in the Oswald Cemetery under the direction of Kinner and Stevens Funeral Home.

Survivors include four sisters, Mrs. Maude Schnider, Lismore; Mrs. Elsie Schnider, Pineville; Mrs. Mildred Duggar, Lake Charles; and Mrs. Mary Ella Morace, South America; two brothers, Walter Wheeler, Lismore; and Steve Wheeler, North Little Rock, Ark.

Four Airlines Fail To Receive Pentagon Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Saturday four of eight nonscheduled airlines which had been checked for safety since a November crash killed 74 soldiers had failed to receive defense approval for airlifting military personnel.

The department declined, however, to identify the four companies.

Instead, it listed those which had received approval since the Defense Department on Nov. 17 announced that only carriers inspected and approved by the Military Air Transport Service could receive contracts.

The Pentagon said the four companies which had received approval were: American Flyers Airline Corp.; Modern Air Transport, Inc.; Quaker City Airways, Inc. which also uses the name of Admial Airways, and Saturn Airways, Inc.

Six other nonscheduled airlines already had approval.

The department issued its safety inspection clearance order following the crash of an Imperial Airlines transport near Richmond, Va. on Nov. 8. The plane was carrying recruits to Charleston, S.C. All 74 GIs and three crewmen aboard were killed.

Jonesboro Man Gunshot Victim, Is Said Critical

JONESBORO (Special) — A 23-year-old Jonesboro man, John R. Dendy, was in a Shreveport hospital late last night suffering from a very critical head wound received from a .22 caliber gun.

The Jackson parish sheriff's department was undecided last night as to the way the wound was inflicted because of the serious condition of Dendy, but they were investigating.

He was found at his residence in Jonesboro by his brother, David Dendy at about 7 a.m. Saturday.

The wounded man was immediately taken to a local clinic for treatment and then transferred to a Shreveport hospital later in the morning.

Jackson Parish Coroner, Dr. John Robinson, said that the man was in very critical condition.

Man Is Booked On Three Counts After Accident

A 47-year-old Downsville man was booked on three counts in Monroe yesterday after clipping off a telephone pole with a loaded butane truck at the corner of Pine and Walnut streets.

Chief James C. Kelly said Stancil T. Lowery of Route Two, Downsville, was booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, reckless driving and damage to city property and held under a $1,000 bond.

Lowery broke the telephone pole in half at the Pine-Walnut streets intersection at 4:45 p.m. and was apprehended minutes later at Pear and South Grand streets.

He was convicted of DWI and reckless driving in November of last year, fined $1,000 on the counts and his license suspended for 60 days. The license suspension date ended Jan. 3 of this year.

SEC Report To Get Study By Senators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Banking and Currency Committee is planning to take a close look at the Securities and Exchange Commission's report strongly criticizing operations of the American Stock Exchange, it was learned Saturday.

Committee members also will consult with members of the SEC to see if remedial legislation is required.

Sen. Willis A. Robertson, D-Va., chairman of the committee, reported that a subcommittee on securities was "ready, willing and able to review any new legislative proposals the SEC feels it appropriate to make."

careful consideration of any other suggestions.

So far the American Exchange Amex has made no comment on the SEC staff study which charged America's second biggest stock market with "general deficiency of standards and a fundamental failure of controls."

The exchange is now faced with a choice between more effective self - regulation or tougher policing by the SEC. The SEC study itself, prepared by a special staff headed by Chicago attorney Milton H. Cohen, was the most sweeping and critical assessment of a securities market ever made by the commission.

Singled out for censure in the 127-page report were Edward T. McCormick, president of the exchange from 1951 until last month and Gilligan, Will & Co., a member firm.

The report suggested that McCormick was incapable of being "an impartial administrator" because of his personal stock dealings.

It also sharply criticized failure of Amex members to observe exchange rules, and the alleged unwillingess of Amex officers to crack down on abuses.

BAN RAILWAY DRINKS

BERLIN (AP)—East Berlin has banned sale of alcoholic drinks on the city's elevated railway platforms. Officials said passengers who drink too much make life too dangerous on the Communist-operated railway.

KNOW WHERE YOU STAND

Good motto for life and business. Electric Co-ops developed rural areas nobody else would serve, bringing great progress to town and country. But they have no guarantee of adequate power sources at reasonable rates.

"You took too much for granted"

To know where they stand, electric co-ops may have to ask for legislation defining and protecting their territorial integrity.

1961 YEAREND REPORT

Ashley County Has Good Year

By JANICE CLARK
Correspondent

CROSSETT, Ark. — The year 1961 was a good year for Ashley County, marked by growth on the industrial front, planned expansion and expenditures on the educational level, increased income from agricultural produce, and civic progress.

On the industrial front there were a number of important growth steps. Among the major expansions was the completion of a new $6 million flakeboard plant by The Crossett Company for the manufacture of a medium density wood shavings board from gum wood.

The Crossett Company already manufactures lumber, paper, paper bags, food board, charcoal, and chemicals from wood. This major expansion step is part of The Crossett Company's Lumber Division, under the management of H. S. Mersereau.

Finishing touches are now being put on the new plant before it goes into production. The operation, which is the second of its kind in the nation, will manufacture wood shavings board for veneers used in fine furniture and wall paneling manufacturing and for other laminated finishes such as plastics and composition for cabinets and sinks.

One of the most highly automated plants in the country, it will employ 115 persons and have an annual payroll of more than $500,000. The plant will operate 24 hours a day on a three-shift basis. Capacity of the operation will be 100 tons per day, or approximately 25 million square feet per year on the basis of ¾ inch board. Annual wood requirement will amount to about 38,000 cords which will be harvested from The Crossett Company's over one-half million acres of managed forest land.

While other firms manufacture a wide variety of medium density compostion boards, this is only the second "Behr Process" plant in the country. The "Behr" system, which is designed to produce the highest grades of wood shavings board, is well known in Europe.

The new product will be marketed under the trade name of "Crossett Flakeboard."

Crossett Lumber Company took another step forward in 1961 when it changed over to the manufacture of all pine products. The move enabled the Lumber Division to increase its production of Pine lumber to more than 100 million board felt annually, thus making it the largest pine-producing plant in the South.

The Lumber Division also added another huge lumber storage biulding. The giant structure, built principally of wood, houses up to 2½ million board feet of dressed lumber ready for instant shipment.

The Crossett Company launched a $4 million expansion program in 1961 that will double the capacity for production fo electrical power at Crossett Paper Mills.

This expansion is described as "a necessary forerunner to further industrial growth at Crossett."

Included in the installation is a 20,000 kilowatt steam turbine generator, a bark-and-gas-fired boiler with an hourly capacity of 300,000 pounds of steam, systems for conveying waste fuels from other Crossett manufacturing divisions and lines to return power and steam to them. Total capacity at Crossett Paper Mills will be raised to about one million pounds of steam per hour and some 36,000 kilowatts of electricity. It is anticipated that about 75 per cent of the power potential will be required initially, with the remaining capacity held in reserve to accommodate later plant expansions.

The Simplex Paper Corporation in Crossett is investing $1 million in the construction of a biulding for laminating Polyethylene to milk carton stock. The new addition to their present plant is expected to go into operation by April, and will employ about 50 additional people.

New homes have gone up all over Ashley County during 1961, with $382,500 in building permits issued in Crossett alone for home construction. New businesses built in Crossett during the past year include a $150,000 ten-lane bowling alley, three model shell homes (Jim Walter, Terza Homes and Better Built), one store building and a Dairy Queen.

In the educational field in Crossett a $200,000 addition to the T. W. Daniel School will include six classrooms, a Trade and Industry department, an instrumental music department and gymnasium. Started in the fall, the addition is expected to be completeed by June.

The citizens of Crossett voted overwhelmingly in favor of a two-mill tax increase in December, raising their school tax from 29 mills to 31 mills. This made possible a faculty salary increase of $300 a year for each faculty member.

Water and gas ran through lines to the $607,000 North Crossett water, gas, and fire-fighting improvement districts early last summer, giving them an 8th Class fire rating.

A $40,000 recreation center for Negroes was completed in July, providing facilities for both teenagers' adn adults' recreation and meetings.

The Crossett City Council approved a 1962 budget which will include funds for the employing of a three-man full-time fire department. This, it is hoped, will reduce the steadily increasing fire losses in the city.

Effecting the Delta towns of Wilmot, Parkdale, Portland and Montrose, as well as the farm-dependent towns of Fountain Hill and Hamburg, was the increased income from agricultural produce in 1961. Following the drouth year of 1960, income from tomatoes was up $100,000 to a total of $200,000 in 1961, with 75 new growers. Soybeans brought $2½ million, up $75,000 over the previous year. Cotton brought $5 million (625 lbs. per acre compared with 500 lbs per acre in 1960). Rice remained the same as 1960, bringing growers $1 million, since irrigation kept the crop stable in spite of the '60 drouth.

A County Development Council, with Gordon Hartrick of Hamburg as chairman, has been formed to fulfill government regulations for participation in President Kennedy's Rehabilitation Act. A four-county area, according to Hartrick, in southeast Arkansas (Ashley, Drew, Lincoln, and Chicot) has been designated as a rehabilitation area because of sub-standard income, especially in agriculture. Among other things the Council is also working with the community leaders of Wilmot to equip one wing of their new clinic as a rest home for senior citizens.

With farm income up, industry expanding, and new homes going up all over the county — (and no fall-out) — it is felt that 1961 has been a year of growth and civic progress in Ashley County.

Train Derails As Cows Struck

ARNAUDVILLE, La. (AP) — Nine cars of a Southern Pacific freight train were derailed here Saturday when the train hit a group of cows on the tracks and plunged into the train depot.

No persons were injured, but three or four cows were reported killed beneath the wheels of the northbound train.

Amount of damage was not immediately available.

The train was reported traveling at 30 m.p.h. when the accident occurred.

Workers were expected to start clearing the track and repairing the damage Saturday afternoon.

There was no indicaion how long the track would be closed.

Eight Persons Die In Crash Of Car, Truck

GREENUP, Ill. (AP)—An auto and a semitrailer truck crashed in rainy fog Saturday, demolishing the auto and killing its eight occupants.

The victims, all St. Louis residents, included three young children and their parents. They were en route to Ohio.

Authorities worked for five hours to complete identification of the dead. The bodies and fragments of the auto were strewn along a 120-foot stretch of U.S. Highway 40 on the outskirts of Greenup, a town in south-central Illinois 120 miles east of St. Louis.

"It was unavoidable, unavoid able," said Neal Rowlader, 41, of East St. Louis, Ill., the truck driver. "The car skidded right in front of me. I couldn't help myself."

The death toll of eight in one auto exceeded the Illinois toll of seven killed in a Shelbyville accident in 1959. In that crash, seven of eight high school students returning from a prom were killed in a collision of their auto and a train.

DAYS GONE BY

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — "The Carroll Watchman," a weekly newspaper published in 1875 in Carroll Parish (now divided into East and West Carroll) provides interesting reading today even as it was probably held in high esteem in its heyday.

It contrasts with newspapers of today in that all its aricles and also its news stories were sprinkled with editorial comment. Those were truly the days of "personalized journalism."

Several items in the paper are eye-catching, and here are some readers may find intresting and maybe helpful.

If you think advice columns are something new, here's something that should change your mind. An article entitled "Matrimonial Quarrels" counsels that while lovers' quarrels are to be expected and are perhaps even enjoyd by the participants since it's so much fun to make up, it altogether a different matter when the two are married.

Says the writer, "I doubt seriously if married people ever truly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those horrible wounds given in battle do, to break out again at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensative woman never has her whole heart again. The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his bosom with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people who must never quarrel are husband and wife."

LOVELORN ADVICE

There is this piece of advice to husbands:

"A wife often yearns for sympathy and affection, a need which her husband, absorbed in business matters, does not appreciate. Many a poor woman has been made miserable in consequence of the coldness and neglect of her thoughtless and undemonstrative partner. Husband, see to it that your wife is kissed, and petted, and carressed—even if you have to do it yourself."

SERIOUS SIDE

On the more serious side, the newspaper urged that the country merchants patronize New Orleans instead of St. Louis. The paper noted that New Orleans had declined and St. Louis had increased in the attraction for produce from the area. But, said the Watchman, "If you think this is a Southern city, visit any counting room or office and you can pick up the "Globe-Democrat"; see what it has to say about Jeff Davis and the Southern "rebs." Not one merchant has stopped his paper or said a kind word for the traitors and rebels that are not good enough to be permitted to sit in the same church with a Northern congregation. All the South is good for is to make cotton; ship it to St. Louis, where they know nothing about it; give the proceeds for some second class goods, which is the best the wholesale houses have here to compare with New Orleans; be treated like a beggar, and go back to work another year for these great St. Louis people.

The Southern people should strain a point to help New Orleans; there they meet their own kind. There is a sympathetic link or chord between the New Orleans citizen and the planter that never can exist here (St. Louis). Advise all men and women out of employment to keep far away from this city.

GIRLS OF NORTH, SOUTH

There is a comparison in the paper between a Southern girl and a Northern girl.

"You can tell a Southern girl at once. She is rounder than her Northern sisters; indeed she is never thin or lank; she walks with a languid step, and all her movements are slow and indolent; she is never alert. She has fine soft eyes with a serene expression, very different from the quick, keen eyes of the North."

The article proceeds to say that "she does not think she can help matters by her advice or interference, but sits back calmly and leaves everything to "brother" or "pa", pronouncing the latter word in a way I defy any Northern girl to imitate. The word might be used as a shibboleth; it is not exactly "pay", but half way between that and the sound of "a" in "cat."

NEWS WASN'T GOOD

The news in those Reconstruction days of 1875 was not too good in the Mississippi Valley. The weather was playing strange freaks. The newspaper stated that "September came in August and August flopped over into September. During the first ten days of this September month the thermometer stood among the nineties, while in August the weather was so cold that there were frosts in the States further north."

Sickness was prevalent. Unseasonably cold weather combined with the "superabundance of trashy fruit eaten, may be attributed the great amount of sickness—more even, than to overflow. All those powerful causes have combined this year to make the whole Mississippi Valley a sickly region.

However, business was picking up, but there was an issue on the way farms should be worked, that is, in what manner the Negro should be employed, etc.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

Probably the atmoshpere of the day can be summed up best of all by viewing a notice in the paper, inserted by the management. Though providing wit, it showed that things were pretty tight and there was a "long row to hoe."

The announcement said simply:

We are sure some of our patrons think we are not in need of that little subscription money for the Watchman; for we know they would not be so hard hearted as to never come near us with it, if they thought we needed it. Friends and fellow-citizens, we need it."

And finally, this poem. It's entitled "The Moneyless Man."

THE MONEYLESS MAN

Is there no place on the face of the earth,
Where charity dwelleth, where virtue has birth;
Where bosoms in kindness and mercy will heave;
And the poor and the wretched shall ask and receive?
Is there no place on earth where a knock from the poor
Will bring a kind angel to open the door?
Ah! Search the wide world wherever you can,
There is no open door for the moneyless man.
Go look in the hall where the chandelier's light
Drives off with its splendor the darkness of night;
Where the rich hanging velvet, in shadowy fold,
Sweeps gracefully down with its trimmings of gold,
And mirrors of silver take up and renew
In long, lighted vistas, the wildering view;
Go there in your patches, and find if you can
A welcoming smile for a moneyless man.
Go look in your church of the cloud reaching spire,
Which gives back to the sun his same look of fire,
Where the arches and columns are gorgeous within,
And the walls seem as pure as a soul without sin;
Go down the long aisle, see the rich and the great
In the pomp and the pride of their worldly estate,
Walk down in your patches, and find if you can
Who opens a pew for the pennyless man.
Go to your judges, in dark flowing gown
With the scales wherein law weigheth equity down,
Where he frowns on the weak and smiles on the strong,
And punishes right while he justifies wrong;
Where jurors their lips on the Bible laid,
To render a verdict they've already made;
Go there in the court-room, and find if you can
Any law for the case of the moneyless man.
Go look in the banks, where Mammon has told
His hundreds and thousands of silver and gold,
Where, safe from the hands of the starving and poor,
Lies pile upon pile of the glittering ore;
Walk up to the counter, ah! there you may stay,
Till your limbs have grown old and your hair turns gray,
And you'll find at the bank not one of the clan
Has money to lend to a moneyless man.
Then go to your hovel, no raven had fed
The wife who has suffered so long for her bread;
Kneel down on her pallet and kiss the death frost
From the lips of the angel your proverty lost,
Then turn in your agony upward to God
And bless while it smites you, the chastening rod;
And you'll find after ending your life's little span;
There's welcome above for the moneyless man.

Father Of Local Resident Dies; Services Pend

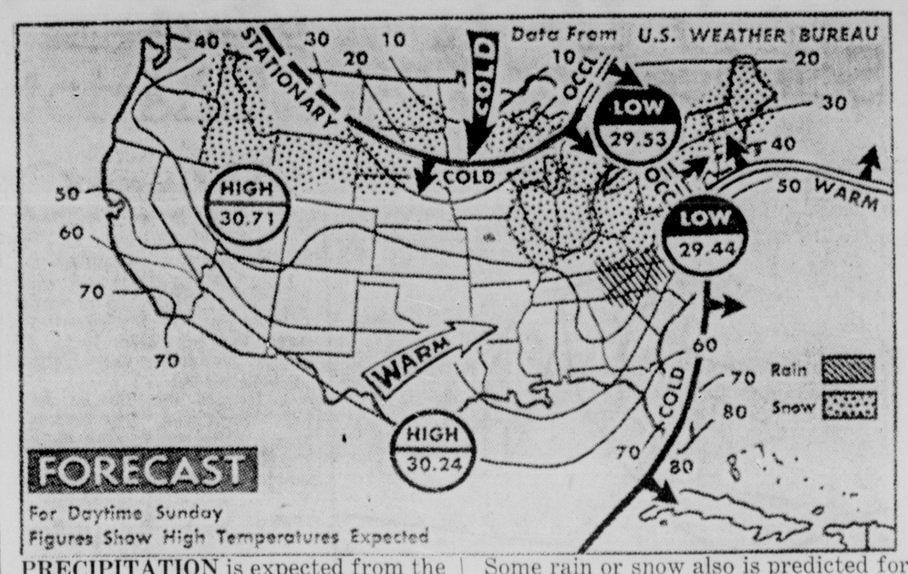
William Lee Norred, 80-year-old North Hodge resident, died late Saturday afternoon in a North Hodge clinic.

Mr. Norred has a daughter, Miss Helen Norred, who lives in Monroe.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete last night, but will be under the direction of Edmonds Funeral Home of Jonesboro.

Mr. Norred, a native of North Hodge, was a retired paper mill employee.

His survivors include a widow, Mrs. Illa Norred, North Hodge; three sons, Henry and Donnie Norred, both of North Hodge, and Douglas Norred, Georgia; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Watkins, Morgan, and Miss Norred; one brother, J. W. Norred, Oak Grove; one sister, Mrs. Amanda Hennington, Memphis, Tenn.; and six grandchildren.



PRECIPITATION is expected from the mid Mississippi valley eastward to the coast Sunday, mostly in the form of snow or snow flurries but with some rain or freezing rain near the coast. Some rain or snow also is predicted for parts of the northern and central Plateau and parts of the eastern Plains. (AP Wirephoto)

Negro Is Booked In Battery Case

A 31-year-old Negro woman was booked for aggravated battery in Monroe yesterday in connection with the cutting of a Negro man Friday night.

Chief James C. Kelly identified her as Mae Rosie Woodard, 31, of No. 11 Breard Alley. She was charged with aggravated battery and use of a dangerous weapon, and held under a $500 bond.

The Woodard woman was booked for the cutting of Henry Woodard, Negro of No. Eight Rear Owl St. He suffered a severe laceration of the upper arm, requiring surgery. Woodard was reported in good condition after his treatment.

Services Held For Educator

AMITE, La. (AP) — Funeral services were held Saturday for Thomas Bryan Pugh Jr., widely known Tangipahoa Parish educator.

Pugh, who resided at Independence for many years, died at Minden Friday. He was a native of Napoleonville.

Pugh retired in 1952 after serving as principal of Independence High School for 40 years.

Survivors include the widow, a son, Thomas Bryan Pugh 3rd, Baton Rouge; a daughter, Mrs. Edgar B. Hands, Minden; three sisters; a brother, six grand children and one great-grandchild.

Rally By Reds In Paris Quiet

PARIS (AP)—Tightly checked by police, several thousand Communists demonstrated in a drizzling rain Saturday against the rightist secret army that is campaigning to keep Algeria French. Fascism in general was denounced.

Five thousand special riot police—helmeted and tough—augmented Paris' strong regular force in curbing the demonstrators and barricading them from the square in front of Communist party headquarters where they wanted to meet.

Milling Reds, many of them teen-agers, jeered police and shouted slogans against the underground followers of exiled Gen. Raoul Salan who are fighting President Charles de Gaulle's plan for self-determination in Algeria.

"Death to the assassins!" they shouted. "The secret army shall not pass."

But there was no violence and no arrests were reported.

PREDICTION

Motion Picture Future Is Rosy

WASHINGTON — The outlook for the motion picture industry in 1962 is, in one word, rosy.

On the prediction of the scientific, photographic and business equipment section of the Department of Commerce, boxoffice receipts at United States theatres during the next year should top the estimated $1.5 billion gross for 1961 which, in turn, was 7.6 per cent above the $1.39 billion of the preceding year.

The Department sees further improvement in the next 12 months.

OPTIMISM

Not since 1948 have threatres reported a $1.5 billion gross, and the 1961 figure was achieved with fewer theatres in operation.

The Commerce Department is looking at an improved 1962 for a variety of reasons. For one, Department officials with a special interest in the motion picture industry appear to be confident that the downward pace in theatre attendance definitely has been reversed. Three consecutive years of rising patronage indicate this shift. Average weekly attendance in the first nine months of 1961 averaged 44 million, 1.8 per cent above the same period the preceding year. This is up from 40 million in 1958, 42 million in 1959 and 43.5 million in 1960.

Another reason for the Department's optimism is the production outlook. The downward trend here, too, seems to have been blunted, and the government agency expects 1961 to wind up with picture-making at the 185-190 level. In 1960, the studios turned out between 165-170 pictures. The accelerated activity on the Hollywood sound stages and at overseas filmmaking facilities is expected to continue in the new year, and several unidentified major circuits are reported by the Department to base their 1962 optimism on the prospects of increased production.

FEATURES IN '62

The Department calls the 1962 outlook "promising" and looks for longer runs for more pictures "at higher prices." Eight major companies will have approximately 60 features available for distribution in the first months of the year, a step-up in product which should be particularly helpful to theatres in smaller towns which need several changes a week, it was pointed out.

This rise in production will be reflected in the foreign, as well as the domestic, market. U. S. producers and distributors will get between $220 million and $225 million in overseas remittances in 1961, a significant volume in face of continued restrictions in some countries on both remittances and imports of American films. The Department notes that "in general, foreign audiences show a strong preference for U.S. films."

Likewise, audiences in this country are seeing more foreign pictures, "partly because fewer U. S. feature films have been available." It is estimated that about 500 so-called art houses play imports on a regular basis, but many others use the foreign product to fill out programs. Dubbing films into English is another factor in the increased exhibition of foreign pictures in this country.

The Department estimates the number of theatres operating in the United States at 17,000 theatres — 16,991 is the figure used —but points out that drive-in theatres may now number over 5,000 rather than the 4,700 total the Department used for its calculation. The outdoor theatres contribute about 25 per cent of the gross in the domestic market.

Ferriday Man's Picture Put On New Poster

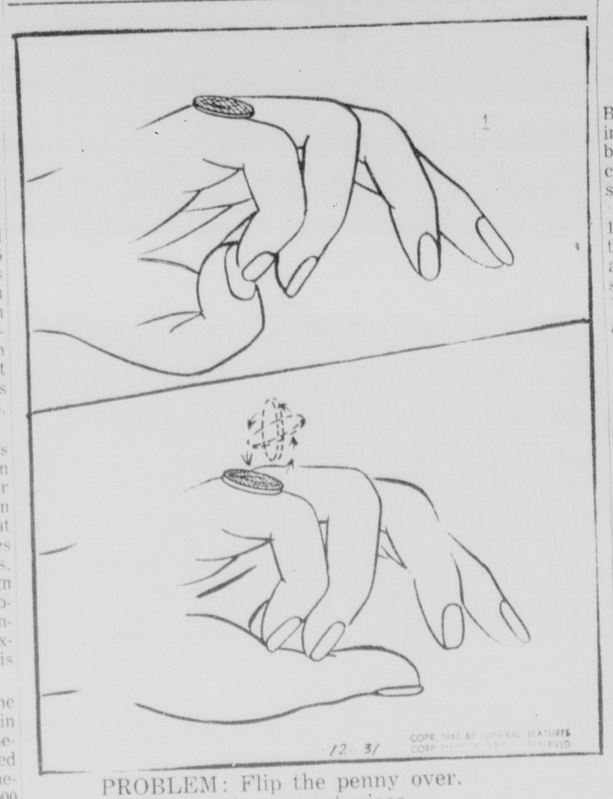
FERRIDAY (Special) —Friends and relatives of Corporal Charles Murray Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Green, Sr., of Ferriday, were surprised and elated to see the former Marine's picture appear on a poster which is being displayed locally and nationally by the Marine recruiting offices.

Young Green, a graduate of the Ferriday High School and a former local athlete and scholar, was photographed as an outstanding Marine during his tenure several years ago.

The poster can be seen at all U. S. Marine recruiting stations over the nation.

Science For You

By BOB BROWN



PROBLEM: Flip the penny over.

NEEDED: A one-cent piece.

DO THIS: Place the coin as shown in the upper photo, on the knuckle of the little finger. Flip the end of the finger with the thumb as shown. After a little practice, the coin can be made to turn over.

HERE'S WHY: The upward movement of the finger simply gives the coin a twirling toss into the air. The little finger is hinged just beyond the coin and the sudden rotary motion of the finger gives rotary motion to the coin. It is necessary to flip the finger downward with the thumb. The little finger must be on the thumb nail. If the positions of the thumb and finger are reversed, the trick will not work.

The scientific principles involved here include muscle elasticity, inertia, momentum and gravity.

(More scientific tricks are included in the book "Science Circus," available in the book sores.)

FAME, IDLENESS

Chariot Chase Went Off Course

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Stephen Boyd rode to fame on a chariot in "Ben Hur" but the horsedrawn buggy took his career so far off course its only now getting straightened out.

"I finished Ben Hur in July, 1959," Boyd said. "The next picture I made was in May of 1960 and the next in May of 1961. It slowed me down from at least two and a half pictures a year to one a year."

EXPLANATION

In discussing "Ben Hur," Boyd was quick to explain he wasn't critical of the film. He said his appearance in the epic affected his contractual obligations to 20th Century Fox. The problems were reflected in the amount of pictures in which he worked.

When Boyd played Ben Hur's evil adversary, Messala, in the Academy Award - winning movie, there were many picture - goers who thought the Irish actor should have won an Oscar. Charlton Heston was awarded one for his work in the title role.

"The miracle to me is that I'm still on my way," said Boyd. "It didn't give me the push that some people thought it would."

In the first place, Hollywood producers were anxious to keep Boyd in costume pictures for the rest of his life, hoping to capitalize on the image he had in the film.

"It seemed that everybody who was making a costume picture wanted Messala," he said. "They didn't ask for Stephen Boyd, they wanted Messala. One studio planned to make a picture called 'The Life and Times of Messala.'"

AGREEMENT

Boyd renegotiated his contract with 20th Century Fox and now has a non-exclusive agreement with that studio which allows him to do pictures for other producers In fact, he did "Ben Hur" for MGM even before the renegotiation.

"I think the career began to get on track when I started my role in 'The Inspector' last May," he said. "From now on, things will start buzzing. There will be a different driver on my train, and by that I mean different producers and studios."

The handsome actor is taking roles now that indicate an artistic branching out for him. He's doing his first TV filmed show in a segment of "G.E. Theater" and takes a crack at singing in "Jumbo." Following that, he's back in period costume again for a Napoleonic picture to be filmed in Italy.

'Twist' Movie Opens Today At Paramount

With some of filmdom's finest dancers of "The Twist," the new dance sensation, and a dozen or so of the most popular new song hits, Columbia Pictures', "Twist Around the Clock" opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

The breathless new romantic comedy brings to the screen such recording and night club favorites as Chubby Checker, Dion, Vicki Spencer, The Marcels and introduces Clay Cole. Mary Mitchell and Jeff Parker play a brother - sister dance team who bring "The Twist" to New York, where it zooms to national and international popularity.

SONGS

Songs heard in the new film, a Four Leaf production, are "Twist Around the Clock," "Don't Twist With Anyone Else But Me," "The Wanderer," "Here, There, Everywhere," "Twistin', U.S.A.", "Your Lips and Mine," "Runaround Sue," "To Many Boy Friends," "The Twist is Here to Stay," "Twist Along," "He's So Sweet," "The Majestic," and "Merry Twist-Mas."

BAND MANAGER

In "Twist Around the Clock," John Cronin plays an unemployed band manager who spots Miss Mitchell and Parker dancing "The Twist" in a small mountain village; he persuades them and bandsman Clay Cole to bring the new dance routine to New York where, however, he is unable to get them past night club agent Tol Avery.

Avery's daughter, played by Maura McGiveney, is attracted to Cronin who, in turn, is attracted to Miss Mitchell. In time, however, "The Twist" does get into the night clubs and onto television.

Curtain Call

Now that the holidays are over, everyone at the Little Theatre is beginning to settle down to work. "Bye Bye Birdie," has gone into rehearsal, with almost a complete cast. The remainder of the cast will be selected this week, and the complete cast will be published in this column next week.

SHOWS

Richard Clark, director of the Monroe Little Theatre, and his wife, Pat, spent the holidays in New York seeing the shows. Of all the shows they saw, their favorite was "A Man For All Seasons," a complete quality production wtih a superb cast and script. "Gideon" was a favorite also. This was a warmly humorous play of great moral and philosophical meanings, a play of serious and comic elements and a unique relationship between man and his God.

Excellent acting was noted in "The Caretaker," an unconventional vehicle for three very fine English actors. The two musicals on the agenda were "Camelot," and "Carnival."

Plays which would be suitable for future presentations by the Monroe Little Theater were "Mary, Mary," "Little Mary Sunshine," "Speaking of Murder," and "Come Blow Your Horn."

BOARD MEETING

Attention Board Members: There will be a meeting of the board of directors at 2:30 p.m. today at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Carter.

We would like to wish all of you a very healthy, happy and prosperous New Year! See you next week.

Dimes Drive Is Underway In Ouachita

The 1962 New March of Dimes took aim at the mailbox of every home in Ouachita Parish this week, with a mass mailing requesting contributions to the January campaign. The Ouachita Parish Chapter urgently needs this financial support to continue its fight against polio, and to step up its fight against birth defects and arthritis, according to Bennie Barbiero and Joe David Cascio, co-campaign directors.

In a joint statement, the campaign directors urged residents to return their donations as soon as possible.

"In many parts of the country our chapters have been financing special treatment centers for birth defects and arthritis where patients can receive total medical care from teams of experts.

"We know that many of the crippling effects of arthritis and rheumatic diseases can often be prevented or reduced if the disease is diagnosed and treated early enough. More than 11,000,000 persons in this country suffer from some form of these diseases.

"In birth defects, much disability can also be prevented or minimized if proper and prompt diagnosis and treatment are given. More than 250,000 children are born in America each year with a significant birth defect," they added.

In support of the drive, the Central Trades and Labor Council has scheduled their annual street drive for Saturday, January 6th. L. A. Malloy, chairman of this event, pointed out that the members of organized labor welcome the opportunity to support the 1962 New March of Dimes Campaign.

Tree Becomes Home For Pair Of Waif Dogs

Home is a hollow tree for a small black and white dog and her puppy.

Alone, homeless and due to become a mother, the little canine found shelter in an oak tree on the Swartz Elementary School campus before Christmas.

Eighth graders fed her — the cafeteria was nearby — and took three of the four puppies during the holidays.

C. Solon King, Ouachita Parish supervisor of music, spotted the tree - living gypsy and her youngster a few days ago and took her picture.

"It's one of the cutest things I've seen in a long time," said King.

Swartz Principal James F. Newson says that the dog resembles a Cocker Spaniel . . .and that one of the young students informed him, "My dog was the daddy of the puppies."

Friendly but sensitive, Miz' Dog takes refuge in the tree "if you talk in a scolding voice, but if you speak cheerfully, she comes back out," says King.

Why not? This dog has found independence and security all rolled up into one hollow tree.

Navy Band Will Appear At Ferriday

FERRIDAY (Special) — The world famous United States Navy Band will appear in matinee and evening concerts on Monday, March 19 in the Ferriday High School auditorium.

The concerts will be sponsored by the Ferriday High School with proceeds, above expenses, to go to support the various organizations of the local school.

The band appeared here last year and capacity crowds attended. Principal Charles A. Loomis of the local high school and other school officials point out that this should be a wonderful opportunity for the music lovers and people of this area when such an organization as the U.S. Navy Band, with its international prestige, contracts to perform for Ferriday and the surrounding territory.

Principal Loomis said that everyone in Concordia Parish and this area should want to support this concert and to be in the audience for one of the performances. He urged all to keep the date in mind and keep the calendar clear on that date for any conflicting engagements or events. He added that more specific details of the concerts will be announced through the local and regional press, radio and television regarding this outstanding attraction.

Concordia 4-H Officers Picked

FERRIDAY (Special) — The 4-H Parish Executive Committee has named new officers for the year.

Those elected to serve during the ensuing year are as follows: President, Olivia Rhodes, Monterey, Senior Club; Vice - President, Jeffrey Paul, Monterey Senior Club; Reporter, Katherine Davis, Ferriday Senior Club. The state council members are: John Alwood, Ferriday Senior Club; Katherine Davis, Ferriday Senior Club.

The selling of packaged light bulbs was discussed and will be undertaken as a project and will be sold by the parish 4 - H clubs.

Slate Interview For 5 Students At Tech Soon

RUSTON (Special) — Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Foundation officials have invited five Louisiana Tech students to be interviewed in New Orleans on Jan. 23 for one of the organization's awards.

The five Tech students are Lynn Evans, Shreveport; Bert Crawley, Jonesboro; Theron Hinton, Clay; Ted Hebert, Jennings, and Gay Ingram, Pineville.

Of approximately 20 Tech students who were nominated by faculty members of the college here to be eligible to apply for one of these awards, 11 completed their applications.

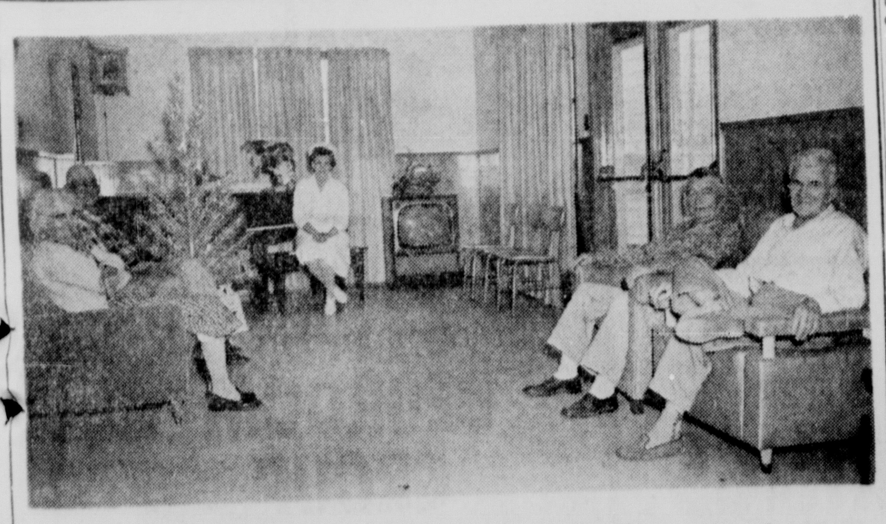
All of these applicants had studied at least one foreign language at Tech, according to Dr. Frances Fletcher of the department of English and foreign languages at the college.

The five Tech students in the New Orleans interviews will be competing with nearly 2,000 other students in the United States. Only 1,000 of this number will be granted a Wilson award.

Officials of the Wilson National Fellowship Foundation said that only two students should have been selected from Tech, according to the usual procedure, and a college "may consider itself lucky to have one student of each five applicants interviewed."

All students who are invited for interviews will be placed on a list of students who will receive first preference at graduate schools throughout the nation, Miss Fletcher said.

All students who are granted awards will receive $1,500 plus dependency allowances. The foundation also makes payments directly to the graduate schools.



Rosalee Nursing Home For The Aged

The beautiful new addition to Rosalee Nursing Home of Wisner will be formally opened Sunday, Jan. 7th with a FREE BARBECUE. The public is invited to attend. Rosalee Nursing Home is staffed with RN Nurses round the clock for 24 hour nursing care. Private and semi-private rooms are both available and also specialized diets when needed. Rosalee is state approved and licensed. Ambulance service is available at all times. For further information call 3022 or 4160 Wisner, Louisiana.

Three Members Of Family Here Church Officials

The mantle of church officership descended swiftly on members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Matthews of Spanish City as the old year ended and a new one was launched.

Two of the couple's sons were installed as church officers within the past few weeks, and a third will be installed today.

Here is the record:

Neill Matthhews was ordained and installed as deacon in the First Presbyterian Church in Shreveport, Sunday, Dec. 31, 1961.

Arthur Hugh Matthews was installed and ordained as a deacon in Grace Covenant Church in Ashville, North Carolina, Dec. 24, 1961.

Today, W. B. Matthews II, will be installed as elder in the Presbyterian Church in New Orleans. He was ordained in Dallas, Texas.

STARTED AROUND SALT DOME

Oil Search In Winn

By RAY P. EAGLES
Correspondent

WINNFIELD — The search for petroleum in Winn Parish started around the Cedar Creek salt dome, two miles south of Winnfield, in 1903.

Records of the first drilling are lost. However, in 1907, four wells were reported by the state geologist as having been drilled on the Cedar Creek dome. They were the Butler No. 1, the Clifford No. 1, and the J. D. Pace Nos. 1 and 2. None of these wells reached a depth of more than a few hundred feet before gas blow outs junked them.

The J. D. Pace No. 2 not only hit gas, but a strong flow of hot black sulphur water. This well flowed until a few years ago, and was visited every year by many people suffering from skin disease and external ulcers. Many, after bathing in the hot sulphur water, reported remarkable cures. Local dog owners claimed that one bath in the black sulphur water would cure the worst case of dog mange.

MANY SOURCES

Besides the oil and gas fields of Tullos, Calvin and Joyce, both oil and gas have been found in a number of other wildcat wells drilled in Winn Parish.

Several wildcat wells in the Pacton area have had encouraging oil and gas shows. The Ohio Oil Company completed a small gas well in 1927 on the Sikes salt dome. A few miles southeast of the Sikes dome the Texas Company in its Urania No. 3 wildcat had a big gas blowout in 1949. This well ran wild for nearly a week, throwing mud, water and rocks 300 feet in the air. It made an estimated 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day when it first blew in.

The Dodson area has had several wells with encouraging oil and gas showing. In 1927 three shallow tests west of Dodson found enough oil showing to create considerable excitement. Then in 1941 Sells Petroleum drilled a 4,500 foot test about a mile northeast of Dodson. The electric log of this well showed five oil and gas showings in the Wilcox, and one in the Ozan formation. A year later H. L. Hunt had a good show in his Davis No. 1 at about 5,000 feet.

OIL SAND

In 1928 nears Gaars Mill the Sanders well and the Standard Oil wildcat south of Mineral Springs Church were drilled and oil bearing sand was reported found in both. The Bayou Syndicate of Houston, Texas drilled a 2,800 foot wildcat at Gansville in 1920 and had a gas blowout.

Bill Rowe drilled the only wildcat ever sunk on the Price salt dome in Ward 10 in 1916. His total depth was 2,134 feet and his drillers log gives two gas showings. Several wildcats have been drilled on Drake's salt dome. All had gas and one reported an oil showing.

Several wells have been drilled around the Winnfield Quarry dome. The Tampico Oil Company, in 1915 drilled a 2,115 feet test north of the rock quarry in what is now the lake. The log of this well shows that oil and gas were encountered at near the 1,100 foot level, and a gas blowout caused the hole to be junked at 2,115.

E. E. Reid drilled three wildcats at Maxwell's Ferry in 1947-48. In one well he found some oil in the Sparta sand that analyned 39 gravity. At the same level in another test less a quarter mile to the north he found 32 feet of 92 per cent asphalt. One fourth mile below the Maxwell Ferry bridge, Reid in his third well found neither oil or gas, but over 300 feet of lignite and coal.

POTENTIAL

Tannehill is another area in Winn Parish that has promising potential oil and gas possibilities. In 1907 and 1926, two shallow wells were drilled at and near Tannehill. The first was drilled by Brown Brothers in 1907 on the Hall and Logan Lumber Company land just east of Tannehill station. This well blew out from about 1,000 feet and contractors lost most of their rig and drilling equipment. In 1926, Keen and Wolff drilled the Radeseich Estate wildcat about a mile west of Tannehill to a depth of 2,328 feet. One core was taken in this well in the Wilcox had a six inch thick oil satuated sand. another promising oil fine in Winn Parish was by McGehee and McGehee north of Cross Roads Church in Ward Two, about two months before 1952. They found a six foot oil saturated sand in the top of the Wilcox a little below 1,300 feet. A production test was made and oil flowed out along with salt water. Experienced oil producers of Joyce and Tullos were of the opinion that the McGehee test drilled too deep and let salt water in from below, that choke off the oil. It was believed that Cross Roads would prove out to be a producing field. (It has since become a producing field).

COSTLY, RISKY

The search and drilling for oil and gas is both costly and risky. However, oil companies and daring individual will continue drilling wildcat wells in this area for many years to come. In fact, it is believed by many that all the possible locations in Winn Parish will not have been drilled out by 2052, the centennial of this early report. From a geological standpoint, there is a possibility of oil and gas being found in some formation under every acre in Winn Parish.

The foregoing notes and records have been carefully examined, verified and preservd by Harly B. Bozeman of Winnfield, where in his home, is one of the most complete records of wildcat and production data to be found in the possession of any individual lay geologist in Louisiana.

The accounts of the search for petroleum in Winn Parish, as taken from Bozeman's file represent only a small portion of the wells drilled in Winn Parish, where the quest for "black gold" has been both constant and aggressive, and brings this account to the era of actual oil production in Winn Parish.

According to State Geologist Leo W. Hough, "First productoon was on the west side of Castor Bayou in 1925, in Winn Parish, separated from the Tullos Field only by the parish line bayou. Records do not indicate that the find, which never produced much oil, ever had a field name.

In the early years, very little attention was given any zone in Winn Parish except the Cane River-Sabine Contact, from which the Tullos-Urania Field had proven production.

On June 16, 1942, the first field discovery for Winn Parish was made. H. L. Hunt completed the Good Pine Oil Co. No. F-24 well in Sec. 13, T. 12 N., R 5 W., as a gas producer from the Paluxy formation at a depth of 5,784 feet.

The discovery by H. L. Hunt created the Calvin Field, named for the town of Calvin, which is approximately 3½ miles to the southeast. The field has remained a one well field, and has produced a total of 136,074 barrels condensate and 1,268 barrels of oil through 1960.

JOYCE FIELD

The Joyce Field, named for the town of Joyce, was discovered by C. E. and Bob Simmons in 1947 with a small producer, and substantial production was discovered by C. M. Bagley's Tremont Lumber Co. No. 1 well in Sec. 25, T. 12 N., R 2 W., on August 20, 1949. It was successfully completed as an oil well producing from the Wilcox formation at a depth of 1,090 feet. Fifty-eight oil wells had been completed in the field to the end of 1960 and have produced 604,058 barrels of oil. In addition to these wells, two other oil wells were completed to this in 1961, up to Sept. 20th.

Cross-roads Field was next to be discovered. On July 22, 1954, J. B. Stafford et al (formerly R. T. Jameson et al) completed the Tremont Lumber Co. No. 1-A well in Sec. 5, T. 10 N., R. 1 E. This well produced oil from the Wilcox Formation at a depth of 1,447 feet. Twenty-nine oil wells successfully completed have produced 140, 722 barrels of oil through the year 1960. One additional well was completed in the field last year. The field name was derived from the Cross-roads community within the area.

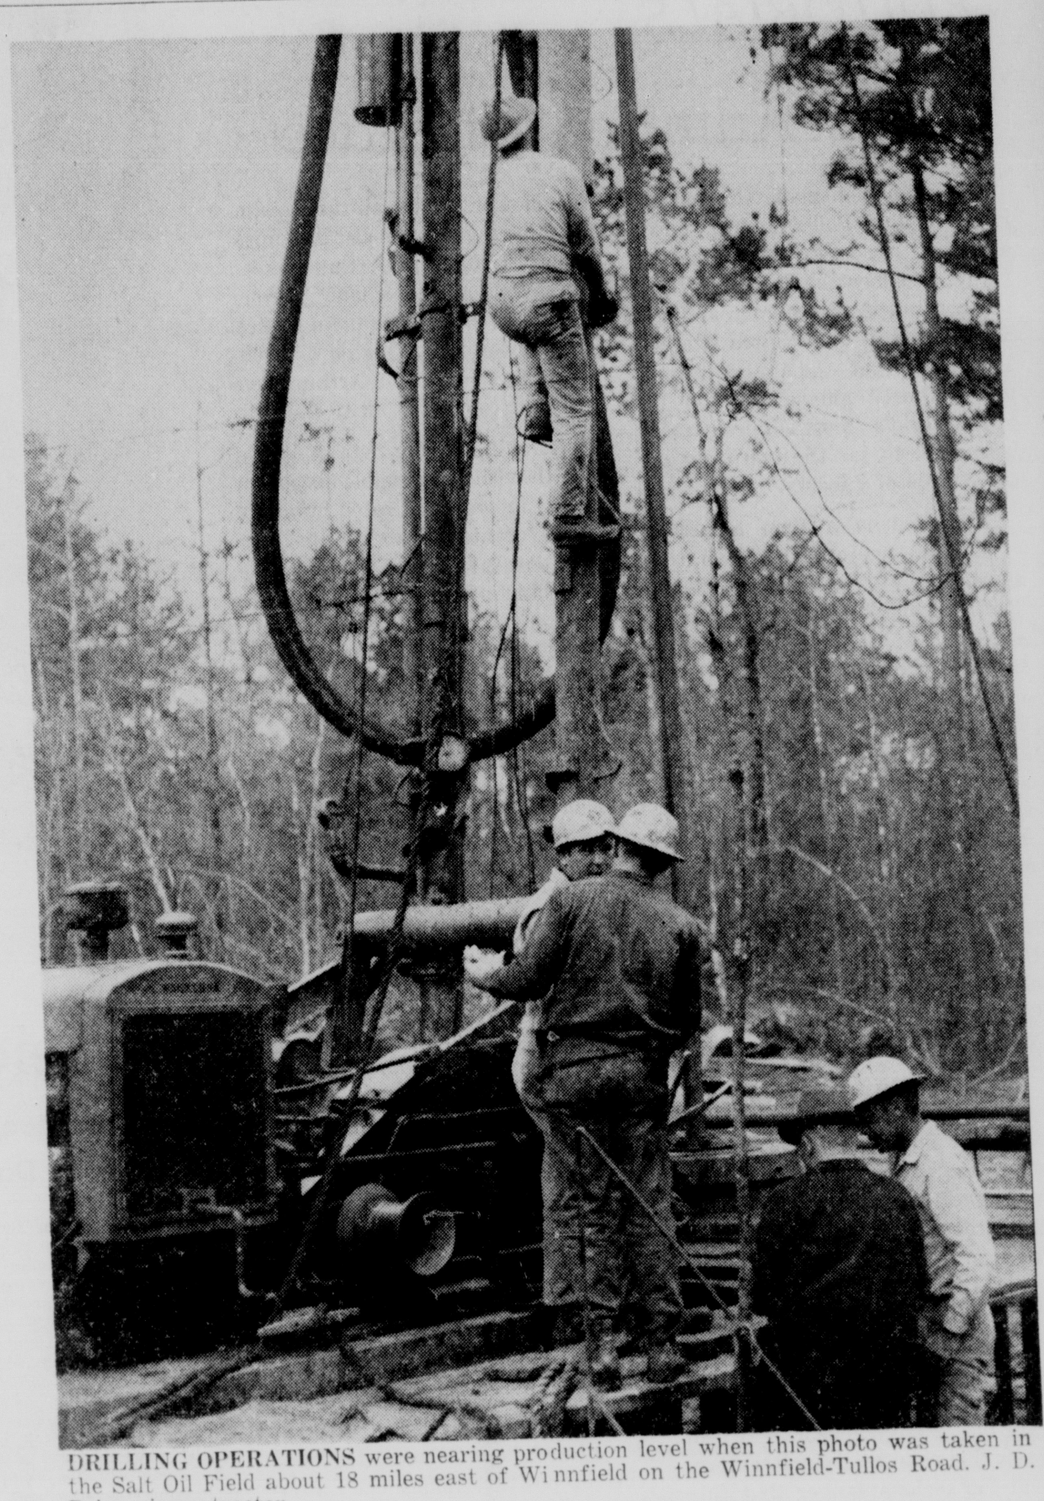
January 14, 1957, the Curry Field was discovered by Pulaski-Bock (formerly L. H. Moon), Luther Cough No. 1-A in Sec. 7, T. 10 N., R. 1 E. Oil production was found in the Wilcox Formation at a depth of 1,414 feet. The field produced a total of 586 bbls. of oil from two wells up to the date it was abandoned in 1958. One oil well was completed in the field in 1961. It was a re-discovery of the field. The field was originally named for a railroad siding identified as "Curry" within the area.

DISCOVERER

Colgrade Field, presently one of the most active of the North Louisiana fields, was discovered by D. D. Jacobs Prod. Co. (formerly W O. Weaver) D. O. Pray No. 1 well in Sec. 20, T. 11 N., R. 1 W., on August 30, 1959. It was completed as an oil well with production from the Wilcox formation at a depth of 1,278 feet. There have been 97 oil wells completed in the field through the year 1960. Production from these wells was 15,157 barrels of oil. In addition 96 oil wells were successfully completed in the past year up to Sept. 20th. This field was named a railroad siding identified as Colgrade, which is approximately two miles to the southwest.

The Salt Field, named for the Salt community, was discovered by Caddo Oil Co.'s Tremont Lumber Co. No. A-1 in Sec. 19, T. 10 N., R 1 E., on June 29, 1960. Oil production was obtained from the Wilcox Formation at a depth of 1,409 feet. Eleven wells were completed within the field to the end of 1960. Thirteen addditional oil wells were completed by Sept. 20, 1961.

Latest figures from the State Department of Conservation reveal definitely that total annual productions of oil in Winn Parish, based on present producing wells, is over one million barrels, valued at better than $3,000,000. New successful producing wells are being completed each month, with severance taxes already amounting to $137,3000.04 in natural gas-gasoline taxes during 1960-61.



DRILLING OPERATIONS were nearing production level when this photo was taken in the Salt Oil Field about 18 miles east of Winnfield on the Winnfield-Tullos Road. J. D. Briggs is contractor.

Interest Running High

By RAY P. EAGLES
Correspondent

WINNFIELD — Local interest in exploratory drilling for oil or gas in Winn and adjoining parishes, has never been higher, due largely to Olin's already launched 100 test well drilling program on its vast land holdings in Winn, Grant, Jackson, and Caldwell Parishes.

The Marshall R. Young Drilling Co. of Ft. Worth, Texas, which is carrying out the large scale search has, it has been reliably learned, completed the first test in southwest Winn Parish, a shallow Wilcox try.

According to reliable sources, the Hebron Community in Township 13, N.R.1 E., near where considerable gas has been encountered, resulting in a several blowouts, in what has been carefully estimated by gas production specialist to rate as having commercial potentialities, may see as many as eight tests on the Olin holdings.

WIDER AREA

In a much wider area, between Sikes, Grayson, Clarks and Chatham, as many as 30 tests already may be scheduled, the spokesman said.

Based on the fact that Winn Parish already has one gas - distillate producer in the H. L. Hunt — Calvin, one - well field, producing from the 500 foot level of the Paluxy zone, this area may soon see considerable deep test drilling.

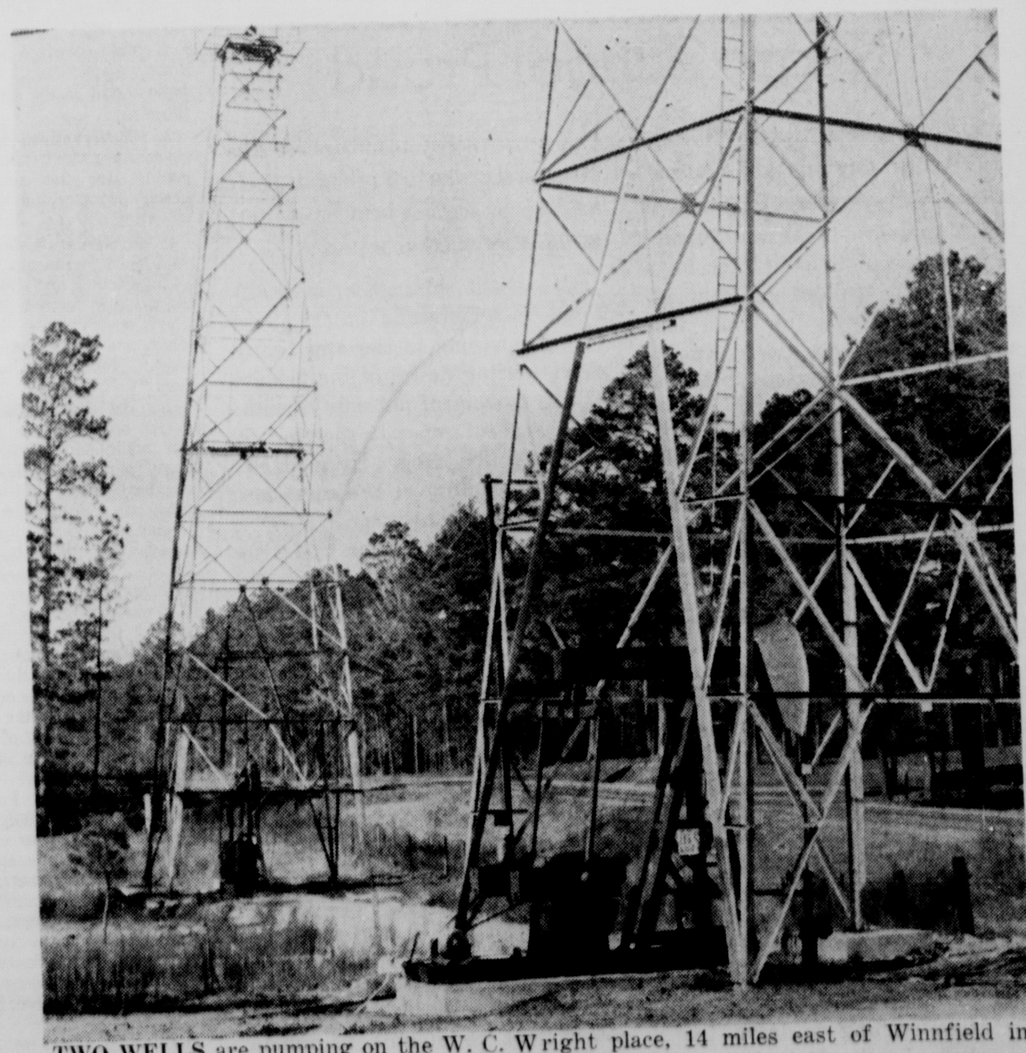
Conservation Department officials records show that this well produced 1276 barrels of oil from the Pettit at 8,800 feet before oil production was discontinued in favor of gas - distillate production at the higher 5,500 foot Paluxy level.

Geological formations which have or are now producing oil or gas in this sectoin of the state are the Wilcox, 1,100 to 1,400 feet plus; Tuscaloosa, 5,100 feet.; Paluxy, 5,500 to 5,700 feet, Rodessa, 6,400 feet.; Pettit of the Hoston, 8,800 to 9,100 feet.

Discovery of oil or gas in Winn Parish is not the object of the present ambitious drilling program, but the discovery of new fields. Oil has been produced in this hill, timber-clad parish since 1925, and has now reached an annual production figure of more than one million barrels of oil, representing a cash value of over 3 million dollars.

Local qualified economist are predicting a steady increase in Winn Parish's economy, with particular emphasis on the ever expanding petroleum industry, where nature has grouped in such juxta - position so many proven potentials, including nine known and named salt domes.

This has spurred numerous oil prospectors on to greater efforts to "tap" a stratagraphic trap, usually found on the edge of salt domes, resulting in such fabulous oil production as took place at the "Spindle Top" discovery well near Beaumont, Texas in 1901. This well blew in from a shallow depth and ran wild for 10 days, producing more than one million barrels of oil before being brought under control. Sources predict that Winn Parish will ultimately take its place along with the older established oil and gas production centers of the nation.



TWO WELLS are pumping on the W. C. Wright place, 14 miles east of Winnfield in the Colgrade Field. Lowe and Weaver are the producers.

PENALTIES VARY GREATLY

Juvenile Capital Crimes

EDITOR'S NOTE — It hasn't happened in modern times, but theoretically a death sentence could be imposed on 10 or even 7-year-old children in many of our states. Here, prompted by a controversial Georgia case, is an intriguing study of juvenile capital punishment in a nation that also pioneered a special court system for the protection of youngsters.

By BERNARD GAVZER
Associated Press Writer

In Georgia's Reidsville prison, a Negro boy, Preston Cobb, Jr., 15, is whiling away days that can't be long enough for him.

He is under sentence of death for killing a 70-year-old white farmer.

There have been protests and appeals from all over the world, moving the case from the obscurity of a rural county in Georgia to the spotlighted arena of public controversy.

CENTER

The issue is not over the boy's guilt. It is over his age, and the state's legal capacity to execute a child.

Criticism has focused on laws and legal rulings which permitted the state to try Cobb as an adult. At the center of the issue, here is this question: At what point is a youngster too young to be executed?

In Georgia, by law, the death penalty can be given to a child as young as 10.

Georgia is not alone in this category.

An Associated Press survey of legal possibilities in criminal proceedings involving children shows: In 16 states it is legally possible to execute children as young as 7, in 3 states, death could be given children of 8, in 3, including Georgia, youngsters of 10.

In the remaining 19 states having the death penalty, the minimum age ranges from 12 to 18. All 50 states possess the power and authority to try children as adults—and give them the same punishment as adults—in cases of capital crimes.

How is this possible in a nation that created the juvenile court system to give special protection to children?

Behind this question lies a legal dilemma summed up in a statement by Dr. Ralph S. Banay, associate director, Research on Social Deviation, New York:

"The apparent philosophy behind statutes concerning juvenile offenders is that a child has not reached a degree of intellectual and emotional development that would qualify him as fully responsible for his acts.

CONTRADICTION

"The laws, however, embody an obvious contradiction; for when the offense is too obnoxious or repugnant, complete responsibility is placed upon the child and he must face the full weight of the law."

In substance, this is the situation in the United States today:

Despite the protection given children through the juvenile court systems—in which they cannot be tried as criminals—all states can prosecute and punish children as though they are adults.

The trial of children in adult criminal courts is not the scheme of vengeful prosecutors but ideally and theoretically another way to give the child the greater protection of constitutional rights.

The irony is that this legal machinery to protect children can cut both ways.

There is no uniformity to the age limits which would bring a person under jurisdiction of the juvenile court, or bar him.

New York's Children's Court is limited to those 15 and younger, while in California and Nevada jurisdiction technically extends to those 20 and younger. In states such as Alaska, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Maine, Texas and Massachusetts, jurisdiction covers those 16 and under, and in Alabama, Arizona, Hawaii, Idaho, Maryland, Virginia, Minnesota, New Hampshire and New Jersey, 17 and under.

These ages are keyed to varying definitions of child and juvenile and minor. The broad standard came from common law.

Under the common law yardstick, children of 7 were deemed absolutely innocent—that is, lacking the mental competence required for criminal liability.

'Most Admired' Disgrace

One man who made the top 10 in the Gallup Poll's annual "most admired" list is, in the opinion of many, the most serious threat to the continued sovereignty and independence of the United States. The fact that Adlai Stevenson placed fourth among the top 10 of the world's "most admired" men is enough to jar the teeth out of the Statue of Liberty.

Stevenson is a firm advocate of leftism, one-worldism and the supremacy of the United Nations. The fact that he is our chief delegate to the United Nations and that his vote in that body has always been cast in favor of world domination by the United Nations and that he has even gone along with Russia in some votes that were directly contrary to the best interests of the United States makes it difficult to see how anyone in this country who cherishes true Americanism and who wants this country to preserve its sovereignty, instead of turning it over to the Russian-dominated United Nations, could possibly admire him.

Without a doubt, many of those who cast their ballots for Stevenson were voting for him because he loomed large in the news and not because of any real admiration for him. If he had been voted on as being among the 10 "most publicized," his selection for fourth place might have been understandable. His being named to fourth place for "most admired" makes it plain that many thousands of people in this country do not comprehend the serious danger that this country may fall under the domination of the United Nations — and therefore of Russia, without the necessity of a war.

Selection of all the other members of the first 10 appeared reasonable and that is why it is all the more amazing — and actually dangerous — that Stevenson was placed on the list.

Although President John F. Kennedy has paid far too much attention to Stevenson as far as the United Nations is concerned and has also heeded too much the advice of other radicals and braintrusters, his selection as first on the list was not surprising. He was rated fourth last year, but was just coming into office. Almost any president could be expected to be first on the list and failure to place him there would mean his stock had slumped to a low point.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower dropped only one spot, rating second. In terms of top spot, Eisenhower is the all-time champion, having led the list 10 times. General Douglas McArthur has led on three occasions and farmer President Harry Truman twice. Eisenhower, Sir Winston Churchill of England and McArthur have made the top 10 list all 16 times.

Churchill, the big man of World War II, with the possible exception of Eisenhower, and rated by many as the greatest man of this century, surely deserved a place. The fact that, in an American poll, he rated just behind President Kennedy and former President Eisenhower, shows he still is tremendously admired in this country.

Dr. Albert Sweitzer, widely known for his work in Africa, has given his life work for others.

No surprise can be felt that Truman was named. As a former president, he deserves a little consideration. He defeated a Republican candidate for president when no one thought he could. Besides, he is practically the world's biggest braggart and the world admires a man who toots his own horn, if he toots it loud enough. Furthermore, Truman, at his advanced age, can still out-walk those who tag along with him, and that is something to admire. Truman never was a really big man and he is somewhat askew on his politics but anyone or anything that struts deserves some admiration.

The Rev. Billy Graham is probably the most wide-publicized and best known among the Protestant clergy and Pope John XXIII holds the top position among the Catholics.

Richard M. Nixon is the man who probably could have been elected president if he had not made the mistake of engaging in television debates. There are many who feel that this country, in the present perilous times, when there is a big movement toward turning the United States over to the United Nations, would be a great deal safer if he were at the helm.

General MacArthur is a man who might easily have been president of the United States if he had been nominated at the time Eisenhower received the nomination. His removal from command in the South Pacific during the Korean war represents the biggest mistake former President Truman ever made.

It is inconceivable that Stevenson, who apparently wants to hand the United States over to the United Nations on a silver platter, could have been admitted to a list containing the names of such men as the others on the list.

Negro School Proud

In an article entitled, "Howard University: Campus and Cause," Milton Viorst refers to the fact that Kwame Nkrumah and Nnamdi Azikiwe "wound up in Lincoln, a small Negro college in Pennsylvania, one of the few that acknowledged a bond between American and African Negroes."

Marvin Wachman, president of Lincoln, comments further, saying in part:

"Lincoln, despite its very small enrollment of only 420, is still proud of its African heritage and welcomes African students in large numbers, currently enrolling 52 students from 11 African countries. Included is the only large group of Portuguese Africans studying in the United States. Lincoln has a total foreign student enrollment of about 15 per cent.

"Lincoln is the daddy of all 'predominantly Negro' colleges in the United States, having been founded in 1854 for the higher education of sons of slaves and of freed Negroes."

It is refreshing to learn that somewhere in the United States there are some members of the Negro race who are proud of their origin and are not bent on obliterating it by miscegenation.

One of the things that is so difficult to understand in the drive for race-mixing is the apparently overpowering desire of the leaders of this movement not only to eliminate any reference to race but to eliminate the Negro race itself. Most people all over the earth are proud of their heritages. Failure to be thus proud seems to be an admission of inferiority. If this inferiority exists — a question that is much argued — then miscegenation would be a disservice to the human race, because it would pull down those at the higher intellectual levels.

Either the Negroes are a race which is good enough not to need miscegenation or it would injure the earth's population by such action.

It never becomes any clearer why the majority of the people should be forced by the federal government to submit to something they do not want.

Foreign Situation Is Grave

Some Threatening Developments More Evident Between Lines Than In Daily News Reports; Apparently Worsening

This is not a year for which the usual optimistic predictions can be made, in spite of the cheerful business outlook, the progress in some directions by the still new Kennedy administration, and the upcoming Congressional elections, in which the Democratic party apparently has little fear of losing control of either branch of Congress.

Grave concern is felt in high official quarters about a worsening foreign situation, with some threatening developments more evident between the lines than in the daily news reports.

The beginning of 1962 finds the Soviet Union holding most of the high cards in the power game. It could maneuver simultaneously so that the U. S. could find itself involved in conventional warfare on several fronts. This menace, while properly appraised in defense circles has been brought to a crux with such timing and such veiled manipulation that the United States, in attempting counter moves, might be compared to the groper in a game of blind man's buff.

Nikita Khrushchev has proved his ability to keep his opponents guessing, even though the west supposedly has methods of observation and avenues of information just as complete as those of the Soviet Union. But it would be futile for any Washington observer at this stage to forecast what the year's developments may be and to what they may lead.

What lulls many Americans, including some in Congress, into a feeling that we have fended off Khrushchev's threats is that none of them in the past year has developed into anything to depress the stock market, upset American industrial planning, or cause any marked change in the even tenor of the American way. That, of course, is a tribute to our confidence, determination and courage. But Khrushchev is still moving the men on his international chess board, and it must be remembered that the Russians, as a nation, are the world's best at chess.

Some are saying that the Russian premier failed to enforce his threat that a separate peace treaty would be signed with East Germany before the year's end; that the East German puppet nation was compelled to build a wall dividing East and West Germany to prevent the East German population from draining away into West Berlin; and that the Soviets were having trouble at home with poor agricultural production and the growing rift with their Chinese Communist allies.

There is some assurance in those developments, but they also serve in part as examples of Khrushchev's shrewdness in directing attention on one red hot conflict while preparing for new crises. Thus, there can be no question that, calculating that the U. S. would lose control of the United Nations when new African countries were recognized, he was able to estimate about when the African situation would begin to slip from the U. N. control, leaving the U. S. face-to-face with the Soviet on many fronts in the fight between the free world and Communism.

Fidel Castro's outright declaration for Communism came earlier than expected. Its significance is that the U. S. must make up its mind within this year, unless all signs fail, about the action to be taken against a Communist nation 90 miles away, where the Communists are reported to be steadily moving in and edging Castro into a minor role.

In Southeast Asia, where the White House is still considering the sending of more troops, the threat is from Communist China, and the U. S. problem is to prevent Southeast Asia's enormous resources, some of which are quite vital to U. S. and the free world, from slipping under complete Communist control.

Somehow things happen fortuitously for the Communists in the brutal game for international control. The tragic death of Dag Hammarskjold, U. N. secretary, is still unsolved in part. It came at the time that the Soviet Union and its forces knew that without Hammarskjold the U. N. would back the Communist side on decisive questions. Then India, in a shocking exhibition, directed by the pacifist neutral Nehru, invaded little Portuguese Goa. Nehru thus committed himself to the same line of aggression which Communism has followed.

Physically the U. S. is on the defensive, but that does not mean there will be war this year. It does mean there will be no abatement of Khrushchev's threat. The Berlin crisis can flare up again whenever he orders it. Even the break with Albania could have been planned to keep the Stalin defamation campaign in Moscow alive.

But there won't be a war as long as things go Khrushchev's way.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

The only time I become genuinely discouraged with my fellow man is when I encounter some intelligent, well - informed individual who insists on cherishing and repeating what he must in his secret heart know to be a false definition.

1. "Conservatives are recognized by their stubborn refusal to spend money no matter how worthy the need."

2. "Conservatives would immediately abolish Social Security and believe only in the survival of the fittest."

3. "Conservatives despise all government and would, if they could, give the several states power superior to the national government."

4. "Conservatives are all superisolationist and would like to build a Chinese wall and withdraw from the world in fortress America."

5. "Conservatives, being themselves non - intellectual, have no respect for intellectual attainment."

This list could become an extensive one. You can make your own additions or variations. It is my purpose in this space to consider here the first widely supported misapprehension regarding the conservative's attitude toward money.

If we were approaching this from the other way, from the standpoint of the most important tenet of the conservative faith, money and economic attitudes would be far down the list. The first and major concern of the true conservative is the perpetuation and safeguarding of freedom.

How goes the logic of the violent anti-conservative?

The liberals, and I use this term hesitantly and only because they themselves have claimed a position diametrically opposed to conservatism, raise their voices in unison demanding federal aid to education. The conservatives oppose federal aid to education; ergo, the conservatives just don't want to spend any money for anything and don't believe in education.

The United States of America in its short history has spent more on universal public education than any other government in history, and until the early 1930s, the U.S. government was always overwhelmingly conservative.

The government of the United States, through its land-grant program and public school lands in western states, has given great incentive to higher education, and the men who established these policies were predominantly conservative in their viewpoint.

No nation on earth has a greater system of private universities supported by endowment funds contributed by private individuals. A majority of the donors of these endowments would classify themselves, and would be classified by the liberals, as conservatives.

The conservative's dominant characteristic is not his refusal to spend money or his opposition to education. How do you stand, sir?

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: I have always wondered what heaven will be like. Can you give me any clue?

ANSWER: All that we know about heaven is in the Scriptures. John the Revelator describes the beauty and wonder of heaven in the twenty first chapter of Revelation. He goes into some detail, as was the custom of the oriental writers. But we are not to assume that the wonder of heaven is the 'gates of pearl,' 'the street of gold,' or the 'walls of jasper.'

The Presence of Christ will make heaven heavenly. Just as a house is not a home without personalities and love, heaven with all its proclaimed beauty would be empty without the One whom we love and adore.

The Scriptures say, "And God himself shall be with them, and be their God and God shall wipe all tears from their eyes."

He will not only be there, but He will be to us there what He has been to us here: the lifter of burdens, and the assuager of sorrow.

WASHINGTON SHORTS

WAR OF NERVES — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall never seems to be happy except when he's stirring up hornets' nests, but the recent Battle of the Statues was more than he bargained for. He had shipped a statue of William Jennings Bryan back to Salem, Ill., and was about to dispose of some sculpture of Dr. Benjamin Rush, a Founding Father, when local protests started flying. And things really got sticky when Udall said that Washington, with an over - abundance of statues, didn't even have one of Nathan Hale. But a newspaper discovered a Hale statue a short distance from Udall's office. At his recent press conference Udall told reporters the reason so many generals are honored by Washington statues is that all Capital memorials were once handled by the War Department. "Maybe," he said in desperation, "It would be a good idea to turn the whole job back to them."

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Why You, Not Me?

In Period Of Constant Revolution Orderly Processes Fade

In a period of constant revolution, the orderly processes of change of government disappear. Kings are succeeded by sons or daughters in prescribed order; Presidents are elected by the people in accordance with Constitutional procedure. But revolutions throw up governments. Whoever can seize power holds it until someone comes along and establishes himself in power.

The rule of thumb is: Why you —not me? Thus Hitler deprived Hindenberg of lawful authority. True, Hitler was elected but there was no realistic opposition just as Soviet Russia and all revolutionary countries reject the test of opposition. The people really have no voice; they are either dominated by an organized mob or by troops. In a revolution, the voice of the people is loud and harsh at the start, but it soon melts away into a frightened whisper.

In 1917, the call of the revolution was loud in Russia. It was the people's voice and the people moved about shouting and instructing. In 1918, however, it was no longer the people's voice; it had become the party's authority. The dictatorship of the proletariat had seized power. By 1919, the dictatorship remained but the proletariate had been reduced to a frightened mass. It so remained for 40 years. What it is now, beggars description.

In China, there has been no orderly government since 1850 when the Taiping Rebellion upset the authority of the Manchu Dynasty. However, the Manchus continued somehow to reign, although they no longer ruled. The Westerners had moved in by way of the sea, the Russians overland from Siberia. Japan by way of Korea and Manchuria; the Boxer Rebellion further weakened authority; then came the 1912 Revolution and the 1915 Revolution and the attempted establishment of the Republic.

But the Republic was never a republic. It was never a government. Rather it was a congeries of independent provinces, managed by warlords who often grouped together. Soon powerful warlords were killing weaker warlords and some of them made deals with foreign countries. For instance, a character called Little Hsu organized the Anfu League of warlords and made separate deals with the Japanese which started China rolling into new troubles. By 1920, China no longer was a nation but was an area dominated by fighting warlords. Why you—not me? Whoever was able to seize territory or finance an army exercised power.

The masses rose in revolt in 1925 through one of the accidents in history when an Indian policeman employed by the Shanghai Municipal Council shot a Chinese worker. Thus came the Communist revolution, not made by Communists at all, but by an angry people who wanted the British, French, Americans, Japanese to cease participating in their affairs.

Sun Yat-sen, an idealist, wanted to create a democratic republic and really tried to establish such a government in Canton in 1925, but Sun died and who was to take his place? You or me? There was not much arguing. Chiang Kai-shek had the troops and Russian support. So Wang Ching-wei and Hu Han-min, who were the more logical successors, ran away from physical power and that was the end of the democratic republic. Chiang took power and held it. It soon became a contest between Chiang and the warlords with Russia and Japan playing such roles as they could until World War II determined that the Russians would dominate China and establish a Communist government, headed by a soldier who has disappeared from the scene and a professor, Mao Tze-tung, who managed to become a master of men.

Why Mao? Why not? Does it really matter who takes over a government? In the disorders of revolution, whoever can manage to establish himself is the master. Thus in Cuba, there is Castro, a figure who lied himself into power, who knew how to manipulate Americans and get aid from Soviet Russia. Or in India, there is Nehru, nominally the successor to Ghandi, a figurine of a noble idealist, whose eyes turn inward as he speaks to himself in profound thought and plays the same game as Nasser and Tito.

Grab while there remains a chance, for who can resist the one who is powerful and wily enough to grab. That is the rule of revolution and whoever follows this rule astutely survives — or perhaps survives a little longer than his predecessor.

Amateur Do-Gooders In Peace Corps Try To Do Job Of Pros

WASHINGTON, D. C. — On a torrid day last August a lady from the White House phoned and invited me to attend the Rose Garden ceremony at which President Kennedy was giving a send-off talk to the Peace Corps

I didn't go, and for reasons that aren't very journalistic. The truth is the President always sends me when he makes a patriotic emotional address, which this occasion would demand. And the sight of the First Lady in her gracious role practically puts me into a swoon.

There didn't seem any way I could write an objective piece on the Peace Corps — even if I'd wanted to, which I didn't. I have a great big prejudice against an amateur going out on a professional's job. And much of the woe that flesh is heir to, in my opinion, is brought on by the do-gooders, the world-savers, the small people who think they're strutting big when they address their efforts to the cosmos instead of to the neighborhood, and who love the Family of Man, better than men.

But you live and learn. Or maybe you just resolve every New Year to write more constructively, and to try to conserve what good there is in any project, rather than condemn it out of hand. Sargent Shriver, the Peace Corps generalissimo, was recently asked on "Meet The Press" why the conservatives have been reasonably charitable to his outfit which, by June, will be operative in 20 foreign countries—and, of course, by invitation only. Shriver named some features of the Corps which he thought were attractive to right wing thinkers, and in a subsequent conservation with me he went into it more deeply.

He said that the staunchest Southern Conservatives — Senators Talmadge, Ervin, Jordan, McClellan — had supported the enabling legislation which turned it from a presidential to a national effort. Many voted for the lower appropriation of $25 million, rather than the $30 million figures which prevailed, but this was not necessarily disapproval of the project, which in every way is the most economical foreign aid measure on the books. Shriver said he had tried to contact Senator Goldwater, the GOP's right wing oracle, but hadn't been able to get to him.

Had Shriver and Goldwater come together they would have had a congenial talk. For many years, long before getting into politics, Goldwater had been director of an Arizona organization, the American Institute For Foreign Trade, which has purposes similar to those of the Peace Corps. Shriver and Goldwater would have agreed, I think, that with the proper selection, the proper training and with objectives narrowly limited to technical training and education, young and eager Americans can be sent to foreign places where they are welcome to do humble work that makes for peace and friendship.

The work, if it is pro-American, is automatically anti-Communist. Goldwater is no night rider for the Rightist cause. I think he would feel it takes more courage, and does more good, to attack Communists in Tanganyika and Nigeria than it does in Texas and California.

Initiative, adventure, frugality, go-getterism, pride in America, disapproval of dictatorship and a sense that friendship will come if it will come but can't be bought —all this the conservative philosophy and the Peace Corps have in common.

If things go well, we might have here a late blooming romance and a marriage of true minds.

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, Jan. 7, the 7th day of the year with 358 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.,

The evening star is Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1789, the first election for a President of the United States took place throughout the nation with George Washington winning the post.

In 1927, regular transatlantic telephone service was inaugurated between New York and London.

In 1960, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan left London by air on a 20,000 mile tour of British Africa.

A thought for the day: American educator and writer James Frank Dobie said: "The average of Ph.D. thesis is nothing but a transfer of bones from one graveyard to another."

IS THE TWIST BAD

When the new dance craze, the twist, was banned by high school authorities in Huntington, West Virginia and a few other places, the first thing that came to mind is how in the world this could possibly be any more hazardous to morals or muscles than rock-and-roll, jitterbug, or any other violent invitation to orthopedic disaster.

Now that we've really seen the twist performed, we are still in the dark. It is, perhaps, more pointless as a dance than any in modern times, but the couples we saw certainly gave no indication of having immodest designs on one another. In fact, we suspect after doing the twist they would be too tired for any thing else.

Much more curious than the footwork or bold contortions of the devotees of these violent modern dance is the fact that they seem to create individualists instead of partners. There is not nearly so much opportunity to "cuddle up a little closer" as was the case with the waltz or slow fox-trot.

It is all very puzzling to those who remember the sweet music, the soft lights, the cheek-to-cheek embrace and the scent of perfume from a shell-pink ear that was only a few centimeters away from the ol-factory antennae.

That was dancing. These gymnastics we are called upon to watch today may qualify for calisthenic purposes, but Terpsichore must be hiding her face in shame.

WE ROLL ALONG — MERRILY?

In case you missed it, a report released a few days ago showed there were 2,429,692 Federal employes in the Executive Department as of Oct. 31. The figures, compiled by the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, pictured an increase of 2,476 employes in October over the previous month. This comes at a time when President Kennedy is asking all executive agencies to trim their staffs and expenses voluntarily—or face mandatory cuts.

What it boils down to is that the Federal payroll keeps growing and growing and GROWING. Nobody seems to be able to stop it. The executive agency payroll as of Jan. 1, 1960, listed 2,351,786 employes. The increase by October of this year — twenty-two months later — amounted to 77,902, or an average of 3,541 every month during the period.

Committees are appointed by Congress to look into the problem. The President calls for economy. Editorials and protests fly through the air. But the number of federal employes keeps on rising, as if impelled by some mysterious, unstoppable force. Sometimes a taxpayer has a feeling of desperation. He wants to cry out, "STOP . . . STOP . . .STOP! STOP THIS FLOOD OF SPENDING BEFORE IT RUINS US ALL!"

But of course it does no good for one man or woman to shout in protest. Only when the people rise en masse and not only voice their sentiments but vote them—only then will enough force be applied to stop this relentless trend. It can be stopped or slowed down. But only an aroused public is strong enough to apply the brakes. How much longer must we wait? — (The Tulsa World).

REVOLT AT HOME

That juicy four-day week that some of the labor leaders keep crying for may stay out of reach a long, long time—and not only because employers are unenthusiastic about giving 40 hours' pay for 30 hours' work. Wives of workingmen, it seems, don't like the idea either. The reason, as discovered in a survey reported by Insiders Newsletter: "My husband is home too much as it is."

Much as the admission pains us, we suspect a further survey would show this feeling is not peculiar to the wives of factory workers; it is to be found even in the homes of captains of industry and editorial writers. It was best expressed, we guess, by the wife of the fired baseball manager in explaining to a friend her relief when after some weeks at home, hubby got another job. "I know," she said, "that I married the guy for better or worse. But not for lunch."

LET HIM WALK

The automobile is undoubtedly a number of good things, but one thing it certainly is not: it is no aid to scholarship. The Stokie, Ill., high school got a scent of this last year. The Allstate Insurance Company has practically proved it in a much more comprehensive survey covering nearly 20,000 eleventh and twelfth grade students in 29 high schools all over the country.

Time and again the pattern was the same: the best students drive the least, and vice versa, the poorest students drive the most. This isn't to say that an automobile will fail a boy in geometry. Some boys can drive and do their homework too. The correlation is this: Among "A" students, 67 per cent were drivers. Among "C" students, 72 per cent were drivers. Among "F" students, about 82 per cent drove.

The survey team concludes sternly: If you want Junior to do his best, don't lend him the family car; don't buy him one; don't even let him work to buy and keep one of his own. Let him walk or ride the bus. Automobiles are great inventions, but academically they are a waste of time.

GOOD BETS

I've been running over the list of things the Govt taxes, and whether you know it or not they've missed a few things. It's a pretty sloppy way to run a country.

For example, they've taxed everything about an automobile, but they've done very little about pedestrians. If people insist upon walking, make them pay for it. Every time a pedestrian steps on a sidewalk it wears a little. In a couple of hundred years these pedestrians will ruin our sidewalks.

We charge for running water through pipes, but not for that which falls from the sky. Some people are getting away with murder by using rain water for their lawns. A few even sneak it inside and wash their hair in it. What Govt should do is slap a big tax on the citizens every time it rains. No sense in letting the people have free water.

Air is a little different because if you cut off a guy's air he won't remain a taxpayer for long. But what you could do is let him breathe for nothing so long as he stays in his own house and doesn't inhale any of the Govt's outside air. But the minute he steps outside charge him an air tax. (This should be higher for athletes and deep-breathing fanatics for their consumption of air is considerable).

Sunlight is another potential source of great income. The apartment dweller who can't get to the beach has to purchase an expensive sun lamp on which he pays a tax, then has to buy electricity to operate it. Why should we allow others to go to the beach and soak up sunshine without charge? They should pay an hourly tax for use of the sun.

Another tax should be applied to those who use our moonlight. It's wasteful to permit our young people to sit in their convertibles and enjoy the moon without charge. The moon won't last forever, you know, and if we have to replace it the cost will be tremendous.

I hope these suggestions help our lawmakers and tax collectors. All of us would like to do our utmost for the Govt. Because of the loopholes I have mentioned most of us are paying only 30 to 40 pct. of our incomes to the tax collector. We should be ashamed. — Ormund Powers.

SAFETY GUIDE

"A man drives a car the way he lives his life." That's the conviction of Dr. James L. Malfetti, psychologist at Columbia University, who was quoted in Newsweek. Dr. Malfetti has been head of a safety education project at Columbia since 1957. He has supervised psychological tests on hundreds of drivers.

"The violator," he reported, "is usually younger, aggressive and rebellious. He tends to be in conflict with others, including members of his own family." Conversely, the safe driver is almost completely non-aggressive. He pays his bills promptly, plans his vacations months ahead of time, almost never gets into a fight and gives the other fellow the right of way.

Forewarned is forearmed. Next time you're invited to ride somewhere with a person whose driving habits are unknown to you, just ask him if he has any bills that are overdue.

WASHINGTON SHORTS

HAPPY HOLIDAY — The State Department passport office has found a novel way to call attention to what it claims a great improvement in operating efficiency. Director Frances G. Knight sent holly-decorated, red bordered notes to the newspapers noting an all-time high in employe productivity and headway in simplifying passport relations overseas. Why the fancy stationery Mrs. Knight explained: "During the past year we cut all the red tape we could find in the passport office and used it on the border of this letter."

IT'S IN THE BOOK — When Edwin R. Bayley was sworn in recently as director of public affairs for the Agency of International Development, the Bible played more than its usual role in such ceremonies. The bookmark was opened to a passage which seemed particularly well suited for some of the task facing Bayley. It read: "Lo, mine eye hath seen all this, mine ear hath heard and understood it." Fowler Hamilton, AID director, read the passage after Bayley had taken the oath. Hamilton said it was sheer coincidence that the bookmark was wedged into the Book of Job, Chapter 13, but some observers felt moral intervention had something to do with it.

JOB SEEKER — Rep. Carroll Kearns, Rep.-Pa., recalled the other day a story about Phil Murray, late head of the CIO, who was visiting President Truman at the White House. Truman said: "You had better watch out for Walter Reuther. He's after your job." "No, Mr. President," responded Murray. "You had better watch out for him. He's after your job."

THE BIG SCRAMBLE—Making the rounds on Capitol Hill is this comment: "Did you hear they're going to make Ted Kenndey, the President's brother, next Speaker of the House?" Someone protests that young Kennedy is not even a member of the House. "He doesn't have to be," is the reply. And this is a fact. The Speaker of the House does not have to be a member of the House. He always has been, but there is no law requiring him to be. Similarly, a member of the Supreme Court does not have to be a lawyer. By custom he always has been, but Franklin Roosevelt — when he tried to pack the Court — recommended that there be a non-lawyer to serve as proctor.

RATING SEASON—This is about the time of year when various organizations put together a "box score" on the voting record of members of Congress. While each may use a different set of key votes on which to base this score, the aim is the same: to determine how liberal or how conservative an individual member is. Sen. John Tower, the Texas Republican, was the only member of the Senate to get a 100 per cent rating when the ultra-conservative Americans for Constitutional Action issued its index of Congressmen's performances. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a leading conservative spokesman, got a 99 rating. In the House, Rep. John W. McCormack, Dem.-Mass., who will probably be the next Speaker, received a zero rating.

RED APPROACH — Adlai E. Stevenson, United States representative at the United Nations, was asked the other day how the Soviet trick of getting UN membership for Communist satellites, such as Outer Mongolia, could be countered. "We might," Stevenson explained, "grant independence to Texas and get it into the UN as Outer Arkansas."

HOMEOWNER BLUES — Vice President Lyndon Johnson's problems as a homeowner may not be the same as we all have to endure but they are just as annoying. After moving into the former Washington home of hostess Perle Mesta, Johnson built a swimming pool in the back yard. Then he decided to enclose it with a fence — the standard wooden variety, finished on one side, rough on the other. Naturally, he wanted the finished side facing the swimmers. But he ran into a neighborhood agreement which said all improvements must be approved by a majority of the neighbors. So Johnson built a double fence, smooth and pretty on both sides. Then he decided to convert part of the basement into a recreation room. But he found out that everywhere he stood his head hit the ceiling. He scratched that idea. In addition, the electric dishwasher broke down, the washing machine went haywire and fuses blew out regularly because of a short circuit. Somestimes, the Vice President wishes he were back living in a hotel.

Book Story Of Moderns

THE CENTURIONS. By Jean Larteguy. Translated from the French by Xan Fielding. Dutton. $4.95.

In France this book was a best seller for two years, and because it says many things about France's modern colonial problems it had a special appeal in that country.

But it should have considerable attraction for American readers as well. For in addition to its forthright, eye-opening and graphic attention to the wars in Indo-China and Algeria — which are a concern of the world as well as France — it is an adventure novel about a group of men who fight and make love with abandon, men of principle and hardened determination.

The story centers around a group of paratroop officers who were captured at Dien Bien Phu. It is said that for each new war, the French are prepared to fight the previous one, and this was one lesson these officers learned when they came up against the jungle warfare of the Communists.

They learned another lesson in the prison known as "Camp One" — that the Communists believe in using whatever methods will gain the desired end, regardless of traditional military concepts.

Gathered together again for the Algerian campaign, these officers whip together a ragtag bunch of reservists and make real soldiers out of them. Ironically, one of their chief accomplishments is the destruction of a rebel band whose leader once had fought on the French side in Indo-China. Significantly, their military tactics are the ones they learned from the Reds.

There is a harsh brutality about the prison and battle scenes in this book, a hard-biting exposure of civil and military corruption, and a challenging theory that the Communists must be fought with their own brand of ruthlessness. All of this is wrapped up in a well-written, rough and ready story of modern warriors who were like the dedicated centurions of old Rome.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

High school youngsters are in a class by themselves when it comes to photography. Two major photo contests which offer substantial cash prizes and national recognition are currently open just for students in our junior and senior high schools, public, private and parochial.

With its 1962 contest, the Scholasitc-Ansco Photography Awards enters its 35th consecutive year of providing competition for the youth of the country. The final deadline for all entries is March 15 but regional deadlines come earlier.

Junior students in the 7th, 8th and 9th grades compete among themselves in the black-and-white photo class. Seniors in the 10th, 11th and 12th grades similarly have a black-and-white competition on their own group level. The seniors are also eligible to compete for a special scholarship award by submitting portfolios of between 8 and 12 photographs of diversified subject matter.

All grades compete together in the color division — transparencies, not prints — in five separate classifications: Portraits, Animals, Scenes, Still Lifes and School or Community Life.

This year a new division has been added: Flash Photography. It is open to all grades and has no individual classifications. Here again a portfolio of 8 to 12 photos will be judged for all-around proficiency.

The 1962 Kodak High School Photo Awards contest is open to students from the 9th through the 12th grades and has a deadline of March 31. Black-and-white pictures and color prints as well as color slides are eligible for submission if they have been taken since April 1, 1961.

There are four classifications in the black-and-white division: 1. School Activities. 2. People. 3. Pictorials and 4. Animals. There are no classifications in the color division but three grand awards are made. All top awards in each of the classifications and in color receive $400 first prize money. A total of $12,000 is disbursed to all the winners.

Having been a judge in both contests in previous years, I am impressed with the caliber of work shown by high school camera fans.

However, students interested in entering the 1962 contests should go through all the pictures taken in the past year and carefully select those which are story telling, imaginative or have an unusual quality. Mere snapshots do not hold a judge's eye or capture his attention.

Students should then consult a school faculty adviser about obtaining entry blanks and follow all the contest rules. Original negatives should be carefully filed away because they will be needed later if the entry turns up in the winning ranks.

Class dismissed . . . but take your cameras with you after school. You never know when you will come across a prize winner.

Baroque Sculpture Outstrips Stocks

By JOHN CALE

While many who watch the arts and antics today for federal subsidies and state props to uphold the budgets, there are others who find there's money in art collecting if you know how to buy and sell.

For example, the New York Times industrial stock average closed the year at 693.95 compared with the standing of 595.15 at the end of 1960. This was a rise of 16.6 per cent.

But if you had money tied up in baroque sculptures of the early 18th century, this percentage of profit was too small to bother with. One art dealer said prices for objects of art in that category rose from 150 to 175 per cent above the 1960 levels.

BIG FIGURES

One of the top art events of the year, besides Secretary of Labor Goldberg's "rescue" of the Metropolitan Opera from labor - management deadlock, was the sale of a Rembrandt painting for $2,300,000. The picture sold to the Metropolitan Musuem of Art was the one of Aristotle contemplating a bust of Homer.

Goya's portrait of the Duke of Wellington sold for $392,000. So the old masters are outrunning the stock market, gold, diamonds, and other forms of printed securities including the famous U. S. dollar.

The only trouble with picking up a hammer and chisel or a brush at this stage of the game is that few of us could live the necessary 250 or so years to become old masters of the baroque school. Besides, if a person really appreciated a work of his own or happened to buy or otherwise come in possession of a masterpiece, he'd probably keep it for his own enjoyment or inspiration. And there's little money in that.

LOCAL SCENE

The Louisiana Tech Concerts Association will get back into the bright lights following the Christmas season with a solo recital by Marvin Solley, tenor from Louisville, Kentucky. The performance is slated for 8 p.m. tomorrow at Howard Auditorium.

One week later, Earl Spicer, ballad singer, will appear on the Northeast series at Neville Auditorium.

Elsewhere on the ballad front during the past week, a group of folk singers known as the Weavers made news for a non - performance. They were supposed to appear on a late television night-ly but the network wanted a signed loyalty pledge. Some in the group chose to take the route of "academic freedom" and not sign, so the performance was off.

There's no telling where the story behind the story would take one if such a case were thoroughly checked out. Many musicians of the low and highbrow categories joined organizations in the 1930's which proved to be against the bests interests of the United States. Perhaps present - day loyalty pledges list some of these groups and the signing could result in perjury cases. The use of a loyalty pledge is not unwise.

But are musicians the principal evil in today's mixup? In collecting folklore and arias from all over the world, they may put in a few plugs for peace and brotherhood. But any number of news commentators who can sign a loyalty oath without batting an eye proceed to misuse the airwaves to preach a straight Marxist line. And the language doesn't lend itself well to folk-singing.

CONTROLS

On the lighter side in the field of controls — which always come about in times of stepped - up defenses — someone suddenly got worried over Tarzan and his mate. The books and old movies never dwelt on the subject, but voices are now asking, "Were the jungle lord and Jane living in sin?" One school librarian in California went so far as to remove the Tarzan books from the shelves.

It is not known if recent action by the United Nations in the Congo jungles turned up Tarzan's old income tax records and, perhaps, his and Jane's marriage license. So until the official records turn up, we'll accept the old sound track: "Me Tarzan, you Jane," as binding.

Naturalist Dr. Konrad Lorenz of Austria has reported that fish called cichlids seem to have a compulsion to attack during the breeding season. If no rival male is present, a cichlid will attack its own mate.

Taking Stock Of Past Year At Ouachita Parish Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The year 1961 has come to a close and at the Ouachita Parish Public Library we are busy taking stock of what has been done during the past year and what has been accomplished. It may interest you know that one year ago the book collection of the entire Parish system consisted of 66,328 books. During the year a total of 6,977 books were added to the collection and 1,358 were withdrawn. At the present date the collection consists of 71,947 books. This is short of the national standard of one book per person in the area served. On this basis we should have 101,663 books and at our present rate of increase it will take us six more years to reach this figure. One third of the books added to the Library collection in 1961 were gifts. Many people were most generous in their gifts of money to be used for the purchase of books and we truly appreciate every gift to the Library Book fund. We hope that many more of you will follow this policy in the coming year.

Even though the library has been closed at times during the Christmas and New Years Holidays, the addition of new books has gone on. Titles added last week offer variety as do those of other weeks. Readers of western stories, and the list is growing, will welcome a new title by Gifford Cheshire called "Black List." This is an exciting story of the range wars of the last century and makes interesting reading. A light novel directed at the teen - age public is "When Love Speaks" by Amelia E. Walden. This book will appeal especially to girls.

"You Can't Count on Dying" by Natalie Cabot is a book which discusses longevity and the difficulty of estimating what type of annuity one needs. It is well done and pertinent and has information to help all users. A very valuable addition to the library is a classic in the field of government and we are very happy to have this set. The funds to purchase it were sent to us from Oklahoma City as a memorial to the late Mr. Thomas Newton. He would have liked this selection and we hope that it's usefulness will continue through the years.

A very fine book in the field of science is "Assault on the Unknown: the International Geosophical Year, 1961" This Account was written by Walter Sullivan and completes an account of what was accomplished during this year. The library often has requests for books in the field of retailing and we are happy that we have a new title in this group. It is called "The Backbone of Retailing" and was written by Jane Cahill. It should be most valuable to merchants and their employees.

Many lovely travel books have been added to the Library during the past year. The latest one is called "Colourful Britain" and is a book of photographs and text by Norman Alexander Court. It is very fine piece of work and will be widely used. Since Texas is our next door neighbor, we are always interested in a new book about Texas and the Texans. The latest one is "The Super - Americans" by John Bainbridge. It is a very interesting account of the people of Texas and especially of the millionaries of Texas. It is well done and will be read with interest by many of our people.

"Feudal Society" is the title of a book by Marc Leopold Bloch, which adds much information to our knowledge of life in the middle ages. It should be useful to students, to people preparing club papers and to the general reader. J. Christopher Herold has written a book about five different women of early 18th century Paris, which he calls "Love in Five Temperaments." If you like to read about the intrigues of the French court, you will want to read this book.

An interesting addition to the drama collection of the Library is "Best American Plays, 1918 - 1958, a supplementary volume" edited by John Gassner. In his forward Mr. Gassner says that he is including plays which were left out of the original collection of "East American Plays" This volume includes a variety of material. The complete text of each play as well as the acting directions are given. It should be useful to a play reading committee if to no one else. Some of the plays included are: Harvey, Ethan Frome, Teahouse of the August Moon, Men in White and Green Grow the Lilacs.

Now that the holiday season is over, everyone should have more time for reading and we invite you to use your public library.

1961 Sees Three Trends In Books

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

If you run a pair of vertical lines through the last letter of the word "books" you get a good idea of some major 1961 developments in the publishing trade.

For the dollar sign is the key to a number of trends that — although they didn't start in 1961 — picked up a lot of speed during the year.

Price-cutting has become a pretty hot topic in the book business. It is an issue that affects not only the reader's pocketbook, but also the future prospects of the whole publishing industry's distribution systems.

Paperbacks — which in recent years have changed a lot of marketing patterns because they are cheaper — made bigger and bigger inroads into the market during the year.

And for a third trend, there was a further acceleration of the drift toward "big business." That is, through mergers and public stock offerings, there is a tendency toward larger publishing houses, run in the corporation manner.

DISCOUNT PRICES

There are arguments a yard long, pro and con, about price-cutting, or discounting, to use another term. Most of these arguments have had a thorough airing in recent conventions of publishers and booksellers, particularly the latter.

But it all boils down to the fact that a best seller costing $4 at regular retail can be had at $3.20 or $3 and sometimes for $2.89 or $2.79. Note that this situation applies almost exclusively to best sellers, or at least better sellers.

Generally speaking, these cut rates are to be found in two types of outlets — department stores and discount houses. The latter are similar to the discount houses you have seen in the electrical appliance field. These houses stick to books, offer varying discounts according to the type of publication and count on volume business (no pun intended) to bring in the profits.

In the trade, everyone blames everyone else for a situation which — from the standpoint of merchandising —is pretty disruptive. The old line book stores complain that their economic future is threatened, and remind the publishers that the cow must give not only cream (the best sellers) but milk (the regular run of books) as well.

BUY PAPERBACKS

The new development in the paperback field is that they are beginning to make a big dent in the lucrative educational market — in high schools and colleges.

Last fall a big educational book store here reported that in the rush for school 75 per cent of its sales of general titles were paperbacks, compared with 10 per cent only five years ago. And one New York paperback wholesaler is specializing entirely in truck service to schools of the metropolitan area.

It was only a decade ago that the covers on most paperbacks featured a gun moll, a sexy actress or a monster from outer space. This product hasn't disappeared, but it has to share shelf space with educational, even egghead, publications today. In late 1961 the number of paperback titles on the market had reached 13,900 — double the figure of two years ago. And during 1961 paperbacks were sold at the rate of one million a day in this country.

MORE MERGERS

The continuing mergers in the book trade often unite two or more publishing houses whose production and distribution systems can be consolidated with considerable savings of money. Or they bring together a house producing general trade books with another that specializes in technical or textbook titles.

More and more publishing houses are "going public"—that is, offering shares for sale to the public — and there is a steady gain in the number listed on the exchanges. Now there are 11 on the New York Stock Exchange and 23 in over-the-counter trading.

During the first quarter of 1961 the professional investors gave publishing stocks quite a rush, but that fever has subsided and as a group the publishing stocks reached more rational levels by the end of 1961.

Stamp News

The first United Nations commemorative stamp for 1962 will be issued on Feb. 19 and will honor the U.N.'s activities in the field of housing and urban development.

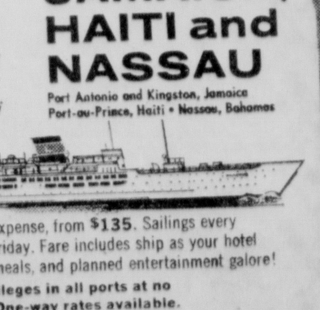
This new stamp is expected to focus world attention on the joint efforts of the United Nations and the specialized agencies in this field. The issuance of the stamp also will coincide with a meeting of a group of experts scheduled for sessions at the U.N. headquarters from Feb. 7-21. The group will be convening to advise the Social Commission of the U.N. on the place of housing and basic community facilities within national development programs and on successful techniques for mobilizing national and international resources for the extension of programs for housing and urban development for lower income groups throughout the world.

The new stamp will feature a block design representing housing and a foreground silhouette of a family. The U.N. symbol is in the upper right corner. The 4 cents will be blue, red, yellow, purple, green, orange and black. The 7 cents will be brown, red, yellow, orange, purple, green and black.

First day covers may be obtained by sending remittances covering the cost of the stamps to be affixed to the United Nations Postal Administration, United Nations, New York, well in advance of the Feb. 19 date.

The United Arab Republic has issued a new 10 mills stamp to honor the IV Alexandria Biennale of the Arts. The new brown stamp depicts painting and sculpture articles placed over a chart of the Mediterranean. The exhibition includes paintings and sculptures of the Arab world.

Spain has issued a 1 peseta Christmas stamp in purple. The design depicts the Nativity scene.



It was based on a picture of the famous wood sculpture by Salzillo which is in the Museum de Artes Decorativos.

Many nations are issuing stamps publicizing the Malaria Eradication Campaign of the World Health Organization, a specialized agency of the United Nations. The latest of these received here was issued by Haiti which overprinted its 50 centimes adhesive honoring the 15th anniversary of the United Nations. The design featured a view of the United Nations Building outlined against the skyline of New York City. The overprint was for 20 centimes.

To help collectors who will be acquiring the Malaria issues, the White Ace Album publishers have announced a special album for such stamps. It will soon be off the presses.

GALLOP AT FAST CLIP

Decade's Pace Increases As 1962 Enters Picture

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Sixties, once called "soaring," galloped into 1962 at a faster clip than they ran the first two laps.

When the decade opened two years ago, optimism about business prospects was unbounded. But the economy slid into recession in 1960 and didn't get onto the road to recovery until well into 1961.

Now the steel and automobile industries, with the lull of the Christmas and New Year's holidays behind, are gearing for sharply increased production.

Government officials and private economists are voicing great expectations.

A prediction that the nation's economy will show a 4 per cent increase in 1962 after posting a 3 per cent gain in 1961 came from Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges.

The National Association of Manufacturers forecast an increase in the gross national product—total value of goods and services—to at least $555 billion this year, a gain of more than $15 billion over the annual rate in the final quarter of 1961.

Donald J. Hardenbrook, association president, called it "a rather modest expectation."

Fourteen economists of the National Industrial Conference Board also were optimistic. They predicted that the GNP would reach an annual rate of $569 billion in the fourth quarter of this year.

However, government and industry experts pointed to problems which face the economy. These include unemployment, an unfavorable trade balance, unused industrial capacity, a profit squeeze and apprehension about the international situation.

Curtailed holiday operations cut into steel production which for four consecutive weeks had reached a 20-month high. But with demand increasing, the industry was expected to operate at nearly 85 per cent of capacity this month with continued improvement anticipated through the first quarter. The rate in December was in the high 70s.

An industry publication, Iron Age, said steel sales offices are falling behind in processing orders. It called this "one of the first authentic signs of a runaway steel market."

Buying as a hedge against a possible steel strike next summer has been a big factor in stimulating orders.

Automakers stepped up production during the week, turning out an estimated 126,000 passenger cars, compared with 105,518 the previous week and 74,204 a year ago. Sixteen of the industry's 47 assembly plants worked an overtime day. Output is scheduled to be increased next week with some plants working six days.

Although production and sales spurted in the last quarter of 1961, assemblies for the year, totaling 5,515,000, fell far behind 1960's 6,696,108.

Some industry leaders have predicted that seven million cars will be built this year.

The United Auto Workers Union called a strike against Studebaker-Packard and pulled 6,500 production workers off their jobs. At issue were washup time, shift premium, vacation computation, representation and management rights.

The Union struck General Motors, Ford and Chrysler last year.

The Commerce Department reported a spurt late in the year apparently propelled U.S. exports to a record $20 billion in 1961, a gain of about $500 million over 1960. The department cautiously forecast that 1962 will see further increase.

The Kennedy administration was expected to urge the new Congress to give business men an added incentive for investment in expansion and improvement. The plan would provide for an 8 per cent tax credit on purchases of capital goods.

The Federal Trade Commission cracked down on use of phony props or tests in television promotion of commercial products.

The impact of heavier government spending for defense was making itself felt with many multimillion-dollar contracts being awarded.

Topping the lists were awards of more than $111 million each to Martin-Marietta Corp. of Orlando, Fla., for work on Pershing missiles, and to Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash., for production of tanker and transport planes.

Briefly around the business scene: Domestic airline fares will go up 3 per cent Feb. 1 . . . The Bell System plans to spend $2.7 billion on construction this year . . . American consumers owed $290 billion for purchases, loans and services at the close of last year.

AS CONGRESS STARTS

2 Oil Defenders Missing In House

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two strong defenders of the oil industry will be missing next week as Congress returns to work.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn, who once gave up his gavel to join a floor debate on a natural gas bill, is dead.

Rep. Frank Ikard, veteran member of the House Ways and Means Committee, resigned last month to become executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute (API).

One of Ikard's primary duties in his new assignment is to assist industry leaders in mapping and developing strategy on numerous Washintgon problems.

Oil and gas received little attention from Congress last year. Industry spokesmen, however, say there is indication 1962 will be quite different. They anticipate considerable activity, now only in Congress but with several federal agencies.

Major problems include oil imports, natural gas price controls, and the industry's controversial 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance.

There is little doubt Congress will become involved in the dispute over oil imports. The mandatory program to control imports is based on the deferise amendment to the reciprocal trade agreements act that comes up for renewal this year.

Prospects for natural gas legislation are very slim but industry leaders anticipate another attack on the depletion allowance they consider so vital to the development of new oil and gas reserves.

A bill designed to clarify the authority of the Federal Power Commission (FPC) to regulate wellhead prices of natural gas was placed before Congress last year. There is no indication at present of strong industry efforts to press for early action even though most industry leaders have called for remedial legislation. Many oilmen have indicated the FPC first must be given a fair chance to develop ground rules and procedures for the new area pricing formula adopted in late 1960.

Several bills to cut the oil and gas depletion allowance also are before Congress. No concerted effort to push one of them through is indicated some opponents, particularly in the Senate, have said they will renew their efforts this year to reduce or eliminate the allowance.

More than 100 natural resources receive depletion tax allowances but only oil and gas receive the maximum 27½ per cent rate. The Senate defeated floor amendments that would have made graduated reductions in the allowance for oil and gas in 1958, 1959 and 1960 but no such amendments were proposed in 1961.

Several groups of independent oil operators plan to ask Congress to reduce oil imports either by strengthening the trade act's defense amendment or through passage of special legislation.

The independents can expect a tough fight.

FPC Quietly Fortifies Gas Position

Interstate Sales Included In Move To Protect Public

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Within recent weeks the Federal Power Commission has moved quietly to fortify its authority over natural gas sold in interstate commerce.

The avowed purpose is to protect the consuming public.

Its latest act was to assert jurisdiction over pipeline mergers involving stock acquisition. This arose when Jersey Standard's Humble Oil & Refining Co., Houston, proposed to acquire stock of Olin Oil & Gas Corp., New Orleans, and its pipeline subsidiary, Olin Gas Transmission Co., Monroe, La.

Before this the commission, now under Democratic control, had ruled it has jurisdiction over intrastate gas mixed with interstate gas. It also had set up guidelines separating gas gatherers from gas transporters.

It is uncertain as yet whether any of the decisions will be challenged in court.

Hearing Set

In the merger case, which the FPC has set for hearing March 27, the commissioners said they would decide whether their jurisdiction covers stock acquisitions. Up to now it had claimed jurisdiction only when one company bought the assets or installations of another company. A case in point was El Paso Natural Gas Company's absorption of Pacific Northwest Pipeline Co.

Neither Humble nor Olin have filed exceptions and presumably will wait for the hearing to argue their case.

The commission used the proposed merger as the basis for a major policy pronouncement.

First, it pointed out that the 1938 natural gas act stipulates that no company shall acquire or operate facilities subject to FPC control unless an FPC certificate is in force. It said Humble's proposed acquisition may come under this provision. The commission then said:

"A change in ownership of pipeline facilities is a matter of regulatory concern. Like other types of carriers the pipelines form the nexus (tie) between producers and the consuming public.

"Since the public convenience and necessity do not ordinarily justify duplication of pipeline facilities, the certificated pipeline normally has a monopoly or a near-monopoly position in terms of service which it performs.

NO PREJUDGMENT

"In these circumstances it becomes important that the commission consider whether it has jurisdiction to determine the effect upon the public of a change in real or beneficial ownership."

The commissioners emphasized that this did not imply a prejudgment of either the jurisdictional issue or the merits of the Humble proposal.

"We wish further to explain," they said, "that we are raising no jurisdictional questions insofar as there is a change in the ownership of the stock of a gas producer. The jurisdictional facilities of a producing company characteristically represent a small fraction of such a company's total properties. These facilities, moreover, are not involved in the performance of a carrier function In this area the commission requires merely that the owner of record hold a certificate for the jurisdictional facilities involved."

The commission directed Humble to show cause why it should not be required to apply for authorization to go ahead with the merger.

Business Briefs

Sales Increase

Two appointments were recently announced by Southern Plow Company, Columbus, aimed at intensifying sales coverage in the mid-South.

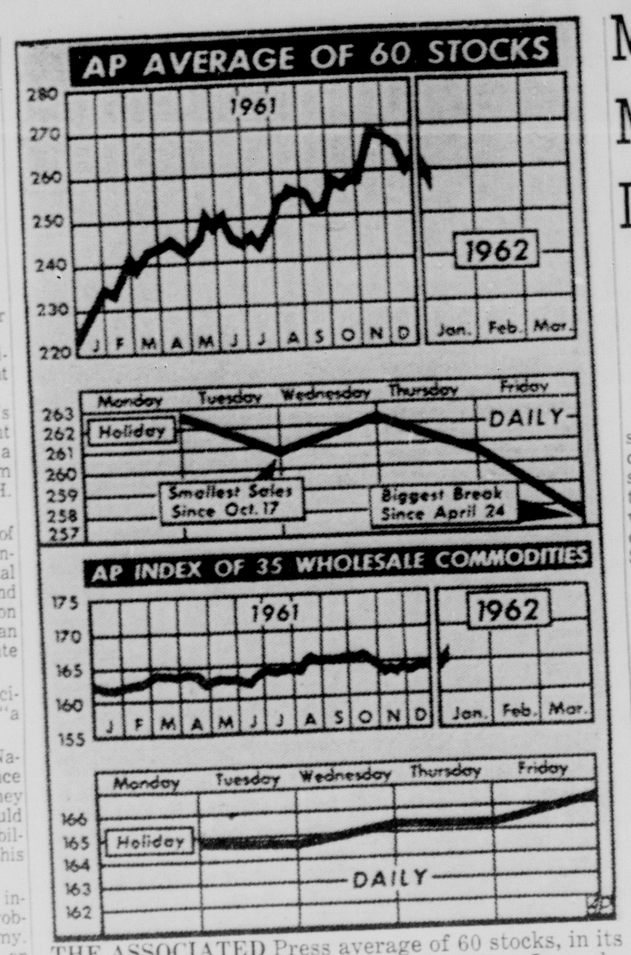
Jack Bell, of Monroe, will be responsible for sales of all Southern farm implements for the State of Louisiana. Bill Hix will cover the State of Mississippi from Greenwood.

"It is a real pleasure to have Jack and Bill associated with us," Toombs Howard, president, said in making the announcement. "We are particularly pleased to have men of their agricultural implement experience representing us. We have known them for many years, and I am confident this is the beginning of a long and pleasant association."

Banquet

Clarence D. Oakley of 305 Auburn St., Monroe, was a guest of honor at the recent banquet of agency managers of The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, held at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Oakley was one of seven distinguished agents saluted at the event as representatives of the entire Society sales force. He is a member of the Wilson Agency in Shreveport.



THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks, in its sharpest weekly break since middle of last June, declined this week, closing at 257.5 from 262.7 a week ago. The Commodity Index advanced for the second straight week, closing today at 166.2 from 164.9. Industrials largest gains. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

JEFFERSON COUNTY

144 Barrels Flow From New Oil Find

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A potential oil field find in Jefferson County flowed 144 barrels of oil per day the past week.

The Krauss No. 1, sec. 52-8n-1e, drilled by Albert M. Stall, was producing from the lower Tuscaloosa at 10,445-48 feet. Gravity of the crude was 43 degrees.

Triad Oil and Gas Co. resumed drilling below 13,100 feet in a Smith County wildcat, the Sullivan No. 1, sec. 7-10n-15w, between the Magee and Summerland fields.

Operators logged oil shows of undetermined commercial worth at 12,400 feet with a scheduled depth of 13,500 feet.

Shell Oil Co. was below 5,100 feet in the Board of Supervisors No. 2, sec. 16-4n-8e, about 1½ miles west of the producing limits of the Little Creek field.

The venture is another offset to Shell's board of supervisors No. 1, sec. 16-4n-8e, which was complete last week. It flowed 428 barrels per day from a sand at 10,706-24 feet.

Reports indicated Victor tested gas with salt water content at the Wood No. 1, sec. 7-10n-12e, Jefferson County.

Operators tested small diameter casing at 9,348-53 feet with the test on a ⅛ inch choke.

In Pike County, Ambassador Oil Corp. was below 10,200 feet in a wildcat, unit No. 29-3, sec. 29-4n-7e, with the well scheduled to 11,100.

In Kemper County, Pure Oil Co. was below 5,500 feet in a wildcat, the Henry No. 1, sec. 15-12n-15e, about 13 miles northwest of DeKalb. The well has a contract depth of 15,000 feet and will be the deepest drilled in that section of the state.

In the Hardrock Country of northeast Mississippi, Pan American Petroleum Corp. was below 2,900 feet in a Calhoun County wildcat, the Tatum No. 1, sec. 21-3n-16w, about four miles north of the Tatum salt dome. Contract depth is 12,500 feet.

Field drilling the past week brought four new oilers.

At Chaparral in Wayne County, Humble completed the unit 18-6, sec. 18-10n-6w, which flowed 264 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 8,700-705 feet.

George H. Jett Drilling Co. completed the Noland Estate No. 1, sec. 50-10n-1w, Fayette Field of Jefferson County, which flowed 123 barrels per day from a sand at 9,669-70 feet.

Pan American completed the Wilson No. 1, sec. 26-8n-te, in the East Fork field of Amite County. The well flowed 202 barrels per day from a sand at 11,187-92 feet.

At West Langsdale in Clarke County, Texaco completed the Odom No. 1, sec. 28-1n-17e, which pumped 193 barrels per day from a sand at 3,000-50 feet.

Readings from a supersensitive thermometer placed at the focus of a visual telescope indicate a temperature of about minus 40 degrees Fahrenheit above the clouds on Venus. Radio observation shows a temperature of 580 Fahrenheit at the planet's surface.

Jonesville Tax Slash Is Possible

JONESVILLE (Special) — A 27 per cent tax reduction for the property owners in the Town of Jonesville may soon become a reality, Mayor C. D. Babin told members of the Jonesville Lions Club at their meeting this week. This will be accomplished by the town paying off existing bond issues amounting to $30,000 he stated.

"We are in pretty good shape at this time, and hope to accomplish this tax reduction by April or May of 1962," he said.

"We feel that it will be possible to repay the following bonds which would result in a reduction of millage and be reflected in your Year's town taxes," he added.

The amount of $30,000.00 reduction in the bonded indebtness would result in a tax reduction of 10 mills. "From the present 37 mills, this would be a 27 per cent reduction in your taxes," he pointed out.

Babin said, "We (the town) are in pretty good shape and should be in very good financial shape as times goes on. We are glad to be able to reduce our taxes when most every other town in the nation is faced with adding extra taxes, he added.

Cotton Futures Strengthen; Up And Week's End

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices of cotton for future delivery strengthened throughout the holiday-shortened week and closed as much as $2.20 a bale higher.

At the close of trading Friday, the prices of near deliveries were up $1.20 to $1.45 a bale, and those for delivery on or after July rose $1.60 to $2.20 a bale.

A week earlier prices rose and dipped in a narrow range and closed from 50 cents a bale higher to 50 cents a bale lower.

Helping to strengthen prices were reports in trade circles that the 1962 government support level may be unchanged to only slightly less than the present rate.

The 1961 crop support price is slightly more than 33 cents a pound for middling one-inch cotton at an average location.

Before the reports circulated, many cotton men thought the loan rate for the 1962 would be as much as two cents a pound less.

Meanwhile, exports for the week totaled about 80,000 bales, the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau reported. This compares with 78,000 in the week before and 143,000 in the comparable week in 1960.

Exports for the current season through Jan. 2 reached 2,152,000 bales, compared with 2,448,00 exported on the same date last season, the bureau said

Many Market Maneuvers In Spotlight

SEC Probing Will Bring Wall Street Operations Open

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The decision of the Securities and Exchange Commission to put the searchlight on "hot issues" on the over-the-counter market also will put the searchlight on some other real cute operations, Wall Streeters say.

Like failing to deliver stock certificates to the suckers so they can't sell on the rise created in the new hot issue by the manipulators until after all the insiders have sold their stock — and the price has dropped in consequence.

And like concealing the fact that considerable amounts of the stock have been artificially withheld or "parked" with relatives and friends to make the supply appear scarce when it is first offered.

Or like having a dozen brokerage houses bidding different prices for a hot issue within a narrow range when, in fact, the orders are all going back to a single supplier—in other words, a lot of the bidding is fictitious back scratching.

SEC Chairman William L. Cary announced in a speech to the Investment Bankers Association at Hollywood Beach, Fla., that the commission is going to present a report in January 1963 covering "hot issues" and some of the other shenanigans reported to be prevalent on the OTC market.

Meanwhile, Llewellyn P. Young, regional administrator of the Commission in New York, told United Press International it is usually a tough job figuring out whether the rise of a "hot issue" in the "after market"—and perhaps its subsequent fall—are a manipulation or a true operation of the law of supply and demand.

The fact that quotations on the over-the-counter market are not based on real sales but on bid and asked prices that are hours old, and may have been eye - wash anyway, makes it additionally hard to decide what's really going on in a hot issue, Young said.

But what makes it most rugged, Young said, is that a lot of the speculators who make or lose money on hot issues are not investors at all.

They are not interested in the intrinsix values of the stocks in which they speculate. They are like horse players who bet a stable or a jockey rather than the horse.

A certain underwriting firm gets a reputation for turning out "hot" issues. The speculators therefore try to get "in on the action" every time this house brings out an issue, then sell near the top of the rise in the after market.

AREA OIL, GAS

Three Parishes Share Activity

Producing areas in Concordia, LaSalle and Tensas Parishes shared completions last week in a continuing slowdown of activity in the Monroe Oil and Gas District.

Only three wells were completed or placed in production during the period throughout the 14 parish area, according to yesterday's weekly report released through the office of District Manager Duncan S. Cook.

There were but five new locations staked — two in LaSalle Parish and one each in Richland, Union and Winn. Cook attributes the slowdown to a seasonal lull and predicts a pick - up in new activity within a month or so.

A total of 18 wells were listed as actively drilling or testing in the area at week's end, a third of them in LaSalle Parish. Ouachita Parish accounted for only two, one in the Calhoun Field, the other in the Cheniere.

One re - completion was reported, that being the J. M. Stanton No. 1, a well of the LaGrange Petroleum Company in the Crime Field of Tensas Parish.

Six sites were plugged and abandoned and 11 permits expired bringing the total on inactive rigs to 98 in the district. Locations numbered 42.

A closer look at the completions, new locations and active rigs follows:

COMPLETIONS

CONCORDIA PARISH, Omega Field — Crow Drlg. and Prod Co.'s Wilson No. 1, located in sec. 24-7-6E.

LASALLE PARISH, West Searcy Field — Bodcaw Company's Bodcaw Fee no. 21-LL5, located in sec. 16-8-2E.

Gros, Bull Spark 42-7 Slaughter Over North

Each Score 2 TD's In 13th Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Rugged Ronnie Bull of Baylor and massive Earl Gros of Louisiana State crushed the North's defenses Saturday with their power running and led the South to a 42-7 victory in the 13th annual Senior Bowl football game.

Halfback Bull and fullback Gros scored two touchdowns each and delighted a partisan crowd of 35,132 shivering fans with their fierce rushs. Bull posted a new Senior Bowl record when he ran 58 yards early in the third quarter for the third south touchdown. Their other scores came via plunges of one yard after the terrific twosome had gouged out most of the yardage.

	SOUTH	NORTH
First downs	21	9
Rushing yardage	301	90
Passing yardage	133	117
Passes	8-15	7-24
Passes Intercepted by	0	2
Punts	2-31.0	7-33.0

After Gros and Bull had completed their awesome show of ground power, the South continued the rout on the passing of quarterbacks Billy Canty of Furman and Mike Cotten of Texas and the acrobatic receiving of All-America end Bill Miller of Miami. Canty's 16-yard pass to Miller produced the fifth touchdown for the South.

Cotten hit Miller with an 8-yard scoring pass with one minute left to play, and the North retaliated 30 seconds later with its lone score—a 61-yard pass play with quarterback Mel Melin of Washington State throwing and halfback Jim Dillard of Oklahoma State catching. Melin converted and the North averted a shutout.

It was the coldest of all Senior Bowls with the temperature ranging between 35 and 40 degrees. It was also the most onesided result, and the South set a new record for the most points scored.

The Southerners, dominating the game completly, came close to another pair of touchdowns. They drove to the North 26 in the second quarter, but Pete Schenck of Washington State intercepted Canty's pass at the four. Another drive by the South ended in failure at the North 15 when Canty's pass on a fake field goal eluded Gros' grasp.

Bull and Gros shared most valuable player honors, and Billy Neighbors, All-America tackle from Alabama, was named the top lineman for the South. Punishing blocks by Neighbors, Billy Booth of LSU and Auburn end Dave Edward scleared wide paths for the two running stars.

Halfback Tom Larscheid of Utah State, top North rusher, was voted the most valuable back for the losers by sports writers and broadcasters covering the all-star clash. Clark Miller, 250-pound Utah State tackle, was named the North's most valuable lineman.

A blocked kick set up the South's first touchdown after a North drive led by Larscheid foundered at the South six in the first quarter.

Defensive end Bill Rice of Alabama blocked Ed Wilsons' punt and Booth recovered the loose ball on the north 12.

The South took it in in six plays with Bull bulling over from the one. All of the other scoring forays by the Rebels were drives that ranged from 51 to 80 yards with Bull and Gros making most of the yardage. Bull carried 16 times for 133 yards and Gros negotiated 114 yards in 19 rushes. Larscheid picked up 87 yards and was the North workhorse. He carried 22 times.

Cotten completed five of nine passes for 76 yards and Canty three of six for 57. The North, touted to have the better air game, managed only seven completions in 24 attempts.

SEC OPENER

LSU Wins, 74-57 On Big 2nd Half

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana State broke loose in the second half Saturday night to stop Florida 74-57 in its Southeastern Conference basketball opener.

The Tigers posted their sixth victory against four setbacks, while Florida lost its sixth against three victories. Florida lost its only previous SEC game.

The teams exchanged the lead several times in the opening minutes before LSU, paced by George Nattin and Jack Belcher, moved to a 30-24 halftime advantage.

The Tigers opened fast in the second half, and pulled to a 17-point advantage after only eight minutes. Despite its heavy use of substitutes in the remainder of the game, LSU maintained its lead.

Nattin headed the balanced LSU attack with 18 points. Maury Drummond scored 16, Belcher 13 and leading scorer Bob McLoughli had 11.

For Florida, big Cliff Luyk was high man with 13, most of them after LSU's Tom Conklin fouled out early in the second half. Conklin held Luyk without a field goal during the first half.

LSU hit 41.2 per cent of its field goal attempts, while the Gators sank only 29.6 per cent.

Drummond led both teams in rebounds with 13.

Tulane Opens SEC Play On Winning Note

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — With jump-shooting Jim Kerwin and skinny pivot man Jack Ardon leading the attack, Tulane opened its Southeastern Conference basketball season Saturday night by drubbing Georgia 76-46.

Kerwin hit for 24 points and Ardon added 22 as the Greenies breezed to their seventh victory in nine games this season. The setback was Georgia's third against two triumphs.

The issue was never tight outside of the opening minutes. Joey Miller hit a field goal in the first minute to send Georgia ahead but Ardon's one-hander tied the score and the Greenies were on their way.

Tulane led 34-19 at halftime and the battle was even more onesided in the second half.

The Greenies' floating defense held Georgia scorless in the opening two and one-half minutes of the second half, while Ardon and Kerwin spearheaded the fast-breaking Greenie attack.

Tulane also threw a tight clamp on Georgia's Allan Johnson, who had averaged 20 points in the Bull dogs' first four games. Johnson managed only four field goals and one of four free throws.

Miller led Georgia with 13 points.

Tulane hit on 46.5 per cent of its field goal attempts, and converted 10 of 13 free throws. Georgia shot 30.8 from the floor and converted only six of 16 free throws.

One of Georgia's two victories was a conference decision over Florida.

Kentucky Takes 89-70 Win Over Tech With Nash

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A brilliant 35-point performance by sophomore Cotton Nash gave third ranked Kentucky the momentum it needed Saturday night as the Wildcats thrashed Georgia Tech 89-70.

Nash, hitting from underneath the basket and connecting from the side, sparked a Wildcat surge in the second half that knocked Tech from contention in the Southeastern Conference basketball opener for both teams.

It was the ninth victory in a row for Kentucky and gave the Wildcats a 10-1 mark on the season. Georgia Tech fell to 4-6.

Ohio State In Easy Victory With Havlicek

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — John Havlicek whipped in 27 points and Ohio State's defending Big Ten champions rolled to a 85-62 basketball victory over Northwestern Saturday night.

The Buckeyes, seeking a third straight conference title, grabbed a 10-0 lead and never were in danger. They led 47-35 at the half and easily outscored Northwestern in the second half.

Leading Northwestern in the Big Ten opener was Bill Cacciatore with 17 points. All-America Jerry Lucas led both teams with 18 rebounds and ended up with 16 points although he played only 27 minutes.

Somerset Leads Duquesne's Win

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Little Willie Somerset led a second half bombing Saturday night as seventh-ranked Duquesne cut up St. Bonaventure, 73-52, in the first game of a Memorial Auditorium basketball doubleheader.

Dayton and Canisius met in the second game.

Somerset, a 5-foot-10 sophomore, put away 29 points for Duquesne—all but one from the field. In the first half alone, he made 8 of 10 from the field, mostly on far-out jumpers.

The Bonnies cut a halftime Duquesne lead of 14 points to seven at the start of the second half. But then the Dukes ripped off a 16-3 blast, including four baskets by Somerset, and led by 10 with 10:40 remaining.

Defense Carries Lions To Victory

By JACK HAND

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Detroit's rugged defenders manhandled Philadelphia Saturday while Jim Ninowski and Earl Morrall each threw two touchdown passes in a 38-10 victory before 25,612 fans in the second Pro Playoff Bowl game at the Orange Bowl.

Following the lead of the Green Bay Packers who thumped the New York Giants last Sunday, the Lions also boosted Western Conference prestige with this lopsided triumph in the battle of the two second place teams.

Detroit turned two interceptions and a fumble into a 24-0 lead at halftime as their defenders gave the Eagles a rough time.

Sonny Jurgensen, the Eagles' fine passer who tied a league record with 32 TD aerials this season, suffered a right shoulder separation during that first half rout. J. D. Smith, regular offensive tackle of the Eagles, twisted a knee in the third period. Both were lost to the East for the Jan. 14 Pro Bowl game at Los Angeles.

	DETROIT	PHILADELPHIA
First downs	15	14
Rushing yardage	180	58
Passing yardage	151	177
Passes	7-21	20-39
Passes intercepted by	3	1
Punts	6-46.5	8-47.8
Fumbles lost	0	1
Yards penalized	29	79

Time after time the Detroit defense broke through the Eagle line with Roger Brown, Alex Karras, Darris McCord, Wayne Walker and Joe Schmidt tormenting Jurgensen and his successor, King Hill.

Terry Barr caught Ninowski's two TD passes on 69 and 14-yard plays. Morrall ran 10 yards for one score and hit Pat Studstill on an 18-yard TD pass and Sam Wiliams on a 19-yard pass after a fake field goal. Jim Martin, who added the five extra points, also kicked an 18-yard field goal.

Philadelphia, a 2½ point favorite, finally broke into the point column in the third period on a 9-yard pass from Hill to Pete Retzlaff and a 22-yard field goal by Bobby Walston, the National Football League's all-time leading scorer.

Detroit had beaten Cleveland last year in the first Playoff Bowl game before 34,981 fans. Saturday's crowd in warm, sunny weather was disappointing with Miami blacked out on network television.

The victory was worth $600 to each Lion. Each loser got $400. The rest of the receipts, after expenses, went into the Bert Bell Player Benfit Fund covering sickness and accident expenses for active players, group life insurance and future retirement benefits.

Detroit grabbed an early lead after Gary Lowe intercepted Jurgensen's pass. When the offense stalled, Martin kicked an 18-yard field goal. The Lions moved 80 yards in three plays for their first TD, scoring on a fine run by Barr who went 30 after taking Ninowski's 39-yard pass, completing a 69-yard play.

The injury to Jurgensen came when he was blocked out by linebacker Walker when trying to get in position to tackle Yale Lary after Lary had intercepted his pass early in the second period. The interception led to a score with Morrall rolling out for the final 5 yards.

When Hill fumbled after he was hit by McCord, Brown recovered for the Lions on the Eagles' 18. Morrall then passed 18 to Studstill, a rookie from Houston, seeing his first offensive action after a year as punt return and kickoff return man. He had one previous TD on a 100-yard kickoff return.

Philadelphia came to life long enough to roll up 10 points in the third period with Hill throwing to Retzlaff and Walston making good on a field goal.

The Lions came right back on Ninowski's pass to Barr between the goal posts. Detroit got its last TD when Morrall, faking a field goal try by Martin from the 27, threw to Williams who was standing all alone in the end zone.

The Eagles became so desperate that end Retzlaff even threw his first pass in the fourth period, only to have it intercepted.

NC Upsets Duke In Final Seconds As Punger Hits

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State's John Punger dropped in a field goal with two seconds to play to lift the Wolfpack to a 61-60 upset victory over eighth-ranked Duke Saturday night.

Duke had moved into a 60-59 lead with 3:42 to play in the Atlantic Coast conference game. Coach Vic Bubas then told the Blue Devils to freeze the ball. Duke kept the ball until Art Heyman was fouled with 19 seconds

WEATHER HAMPERED

Dietzel In Eager Journey To Point

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Dietzel played hide and seek with the weather Saturday in his haste to reach the U.S. Military Academy and sign a five-year contract to coach the Army football team.

Scheduled to arrive shortly after noon by air from Baton Rouge, La., where Friday he was released by Louisiana State University, the 37-year-old coach was delayed first in New Orleans, then in Atlanta and finally grounded in Washington, D.C., by fog and rain that blanketed the Eastern Seaboard.

Dietzel was to complete the journey by train, arriving here in mid-evening. He then will be taken to West Point and is not expected to sign the contract until Tuesday morning.

Meanwhile, at West Point, where officials were eagerly awaiting his arrival, Col. Emory S. Adams, Army athletic director, said the contract signing would be a mere formality.

"We have agreed on the basic terms," Adams said.

"There are a few minor details to be discussed but none involving salary or length of stay. They deal mostly with housing arrangements and assistant coaches."

The Army contract is expected to call for $18,500 a year, the same salary Dietzel received at Louisiana State for a five-year-period with an option clause for renewal. The new coach, who succeeds Dale Hall, will be given free living quarters on the post and permitted a free hand in the selection of his staff.

An Army spokesman said that Dietzel was making a financial sacrifice in coming to the military academy, where he formerly served as an assistant to Earl (Red) Blaik, but that Dietzel welcomed the opportunity because of the challenge it presented.

"Paul made $5,000 a year extra with a TV program at Baton Rouge and we understand that the LSU board of supervisors offered him an $11,000 bonus to stay," one source said. "But Dietzel always has admired the setup at West Point and he tells us he can hardly wait to get started rebuilding the Army team."

Publicist Joe Cahill and two members of the Army athletic department—Col. R. P. (Red) Reeder and former All-America Don Holleder—drove to Idlewild Airport in New York and waited several hours for Dietzel's arrival before transferring their vigil to the railroad station.

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Paul Dietzel signed as Army's head football coach late Saturday night after playing a frantic game of hide and seek with the weather in his trip from Louisiana State University to the Military Academy.

Dietzel signed the contract 15 minutes after arriving at West Point by car from New York. Col. Emory Adams, Army's athletic director, was present. Terms were not disclosed, but it is reported the handsome young Ohioan signed at $18,500 a year for five years.

Tech, Demons Clash Monday In GSC Tilt

RUSTON, La., (Special)—Louisiana Tech and Northwestern State two old foes having trouble in the early going of the cage season, clash here Monday night in a Gulf States conference tilt.

Northwestern edged the Bulldogs 65-63 in the Gulf South Classic in Shreveport during the Christmas holidays. Tech is 0-8 for the season and 0-1 in loop play. The Demons are also 0-1 in GSC play.

Tech is still bothered by bad halves. The Bulldogs trailed McNeese 31-19 at halftime in Lake Charles Thursday night and rallied to send the game into overtime before losing 60-54.

Last season, Tech and NSC split two games, each winning on its home court.

Three freshmen are seeing more and more action for Tech as the season progresses. Bob Bretz and Jerry Hood of Ruston and Ray Penny of Coushatta have all turned in creditable performances.

Neville Takes Ouachita Tourney On 51-42 Win

Tiger Cagers Too Much For Eros Quintet

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

Neville High used a smooth team performance to post its 13th straight win and take first place in the annual Ouachita Basketball Tournament with a 51-42 defeat of Eros before a packed crowd here last night.

It was the third straight tourney championship for the Tigers of George Davis who have not tasted defeat since the third game of the season and have accumulated a 15-1 standard.

Grayson won the girls championship with a 51-47 victory over Winnsboro.

Neville topped West Monroe 55-49 and Eros downed Grayson 46-37 earlier yesterday in boys semi - final play. The Rebels nipped Grayson 49-48 in the boys consolation.

In the girls semi - finals, Grayson defeated Neville 61-52, and Winnsboro outlasted Ouachita 62-57. Ouachita topped Neville 53-34 for girls consolation honors.

Two players apiece from Eros and Neville made the boys first team all - tournament squad, and West Monroe grabbed the other berth. Scoring combines, Truett Nolan and Butch Cerniglia, were the Tiger selections. Eros had the Harper brothers, All-Stater Eugene and brother Bobby, while West Monroe's placement was Bill Dorris.

Named to the second all-tournament team were Garland Shipp, Ouachita; Jerry Chapham, West Monroe; James Weems, Calhoun; plus Grayson's Neil Frazier and Delano Tower.

High scoring Yvonne May of Grayson made forward on the first team all - tournament girls selection along with Winnsboro's Pat Moore and Carolyn Courson of Neville. Guards were Linda Welch, of Ouachita; Charlotte Honeycut, Grayson; and Johnson of Neville.

Second team picks were Lou Ann Simons of Chatham, Ouachita's Janet Glenn, and Jean Watson of Winnsboro.

Guards were Glenda Posey, Ouachita; Marx, Neville; and Sue Rayboun, Winnsboro.

KEITH LEADS WAY

So much was Neville's effort one of team play that four Tigers wound up in double figures and accounted for all of their team's scoring.

Frank Keith led the way with 17 points, many of them coming on long shots at crucial times. He hit three long jumpers in a row late in the fourth quarter to keep the pressure on Eros and prevent the Panthers from catching up in their last desperation bid.

But it was not an easy win. Neville led after each quarter, but never by very much. And at times Eros was able to gain momentary leads.

Eugene Harper, the Panthers big All - State center, paced Eros with 15 points and enabled Eros to make a game of it until the last few minutes when Neville got its only substantial lead.

The Tigers were in front 11-10 after one quarter, and went into the dressing room at halftime out front, 22-18. They held a slim 33-32 third quarter margin.

The fourth quarter was the only period in which Neville did not trail at one time or another.

Nolan increased the Tigers' advantage to 35-32 early in period and they stayed from one to three points ahead until a long set shot by Nolan made it 41-36 with 5:00 minutes to go.

At this point, Keith and Joe Canal founded the range at long distance and Neville raced to its final 51-42 victory margin.

Nolan followed Keith in the scoring column with 12 points, while Canal hit 11 and Cerniglia had 10.

GIRLS GAMES

Yvonne May, Grayson's ace scorer, tallied 36 points in the championship victory over Winnsboro. She also bucketed 45 in the semi - final win over Neville. Winnsboro Pat Moore popped in 18 points and Agnes Kincaid added 16 in the final contest against Grayson, while Carolyn Courson fired in 30 in Neville's loss to the champions.

Janet Glenn scored 27 points in Ouachita's consolation triumph, while Courson hit 22 for Neville.

Pat Moore tallied 35 points in Winnsboro's semi - final win over Ouachita while Glenn hit 29.

CHAMPIONSHIP OPPONENTS

Sem-Final Play Of Ouachita Meet

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

In semi-final action of yesterday's Ouachita tourney, Neville advanced with a sound 55-49 win over West Monroe, and Eros used a third quarter rally to knock off Grayson, 46-37.

Neville's victory was actually more decisive than the final score indicates. The Tigers led by five after the first quarter, increased it to seven by halftime, and led by nine going into the last period.

Eros' third quarter rally marked the second game in a row that it has turned a close game into shambles during the third period.

In a second round game Friday against St. Matthews, Eros racked up 20 points to the Irish's 11 to take an 11 point lead.

Yesterday, Eros was behind 22-25 starting the third period and going into the fourth they led 37-29. Grayson could only manage four points in the wild third while Eros was storming for 15.

NEVILLE GAME

Neville proved that three sharpshooters are better than two against the Rebels, as its big three of Butch Cerniglia, Frank Keith, and Truett Nolan out-pointed West Monroe's Gene Boney and Bill Dorris.

Cerniglia, who has been hampered in the past few games with a pulled leg muscle, showed signs of getting his old form back yesterday.

The Tiger ace bombed in 21 points on seven field goals and seven free tosses.

Although it was evident that he couldn't go full speed, he still played a strong defensive game and came off the boards with several rebounds.

Keith, Neville's playmaker, popped in 15 points to take second place scoring honors, and Nolan canned 13 points to complete the Tigers' scoring leaders.

Boney fired in 19 points to lead the Rebels, and Dorris followed closely with 16.

Both Boney and Dorris used an assortment of shots to get their totals, but many of them came on jumpers and driving layups.

Neville jumped off to a 4-0 lead on fielders by Cerniglia and Keith before Dorris countered with a free toss for West Monroe's first score.

Neville went on to a 6-1 lead, but the Rebels fought back on the shooting of Boney and tied the game up at 8-8 with 2:47 left in the quarter.

Boney's jump shot that tied the game up was the only time the entire contest that the score was tied.

Neville then perked up its scoring when Nolan started hitting and by the quarter's end led 15-10.

In the second quarter, Neville scored 17 points to West Monroe's 10 as Cerniglia, Nolan, and Keith all popped in two field goals each to pace the scoring.

Boney popped in eight points during the third quarter but got little support, while Neville upped its lead to 43-34.

Two quick baskets by Nolan and Keith shot Neville to a 13 point lead in the fourth period and West Monroe could never get within reach the final seven minutes.

The nearest West Monroe got was nine points with 3:32 remaining when George Wilkerson scored on a gratis toss to make the score, 49-40.

EROS GAME

Eros got strong performances from the Harper brothers, Eugene and Bobby, to win an exciting, but error filled, 46-37 decision from Grayson.

Bobby paced the scoring attack with 15 points, while brother Eugene was a point behind with 14.

Bobby sparked Eros' third quarter rally which was the turning point in the game, and Eugene was a menace on the backboards the whole game.

At the start of the third period, Eros trailed 22-25 but Bobby gave a hint of what was to come when he popped in a long jump shot with only five seconds gone to cut the lead to one point.

Seconds later, at 7:05, he hit another jumper and gave Eros the lead, 26-25, for the first time since the opening seconds of the game.

Grayson recaptured the lead on Lewis Kennedy's field goal, but it was short lived as Alton Chambless connected on a two pointer that made the score 28-27 Eros.

Chambless' shot also marked the start of 10 straight Eros points while Grayson was going scoreless.

During the 'big spurt," Chambless poked in four points, and Jerry Jacob, Bobby Harper, and Eugene Harper all chipped in with two pointers.

By the time it was all over, Eros carried a 37-29 lead into the final quarter.

And it proved far too much for Grayson to overcome.

The closest Grayson could get was eight points when Deano Tower made good a free toss with 4:33 left.

James Mixon led the scoring for Grayson with 12 points. Mixon's 12 tallies came on six field goals, all in the first half.

Bill Frazier was second with 11 points.

SALLEY, VARINO LEAD

Northeast JV's Race Over Hinds

Jerry Salley and John Varino paced Northeast State's junior varsity to its fifth victory of the season here Saturday night, a 70-52 decision over Hinds (Miss.) Junior College.

Salley, the freshman hotshot from Pleasant Hill, got 20 points to lead all scorers while Varino contributed 15 markers and paced the junior Indians in rebounds. Big Larry Butler turned in his best game of the season for the Indians, who have lost once, and picked up 13 points and several key rebounds. Irby Gamble got 10 points.

Hinds, losing its second game of the young season to Northeast's jayvees, made a battle of it late in the first half and trailed by only four points at intermission, 35-31. Northeast dominated the first 10 minutes of the initial period, working a smooth shuffle offense, and led by as many as 15 points at one time.

Hinds, paced by lanky David Jones, launched a hot streak in the latter stages of the period and moved to within three points of the junior Tribesmen, 34-31, before Harry Crowe sank a charity toss just before the half ended to send Northeast into the dressing room with a four-point lead.

Coach G. B. Thompson's Indians took firm command of the contest shortly after the second half began and at one time led by 20 points, their biggest margin of the battle.

Both teams cleared their benches before the game ended.

Jones was Hinds' leading scorer with 17 points while former Linville flash Norman Pace dropped in 11. The rest of the scoring was evenly distributed with three players putting in five apiece.

BONEY SPARKS VICTORY

Rebels Take Consolation In Thriller Over Grayson

By WAYNE KING
World Sports Writer

Gene Boney, West Monroe's ace playmaker, popped in a jump shot from the free throw line with 20 seconds remaining in the game to give the Rebels a 49-48 come - from - behind victory over Grayson, and the boys' consolation title in the Ouachita basketball tournament last night.

Boney, the leading scorer in the contest with 18 points, put on a sparkling one-man show in the final period, collecting 10 of his game-leading total in that period.

Jerry Chapman was another important factor in the Rebels win. The senior pivot was second in scoring with 12 points and was in complete command of the backboards and tipoffs throughout the game.

Bill Dorris netted 10 more Rebel points on five long jump shots before fouling out with 3:00 remaining in the game.

Grayson had a well-balanced attack, with Delana Tower and Donnie Harris tying for high team honors with 12 apiece. They were followed closely by Lewis Kennedy who scored 11 and Bill Frazier with 10.

West Monroe jumped off to a 2-0 lead on a crip-shot by Boney 45 seconds after tipoff, but Grayson surged into a 9-2 advantage mid-way in the opening stanza on three crip-shots by Kennedy, a jumper by Harris and a free toss by Gary Wages.

Kennedy , Grayson's nifty ballhandler, did a fine job of maneuvering the ball and driving in for lay-ups, especially in the early minutes of the game.

West Monroe finally got started and had narrowed Grayson's lead to 13-10 by the end of the initial period.

Chapman connected on a jump shot three minutes deep in the second period to tie the score at 18-18, and from then on it was a real nip-and-tuck affair.

Twenty - five seconds later Boney was fouled while driving in for a lay-up and cashed in on a free throw to give the Rebels their first lead in the game, 21-18, with 4:35 left in the half.

Harris narrowed West Monroe's advantage to one point with a jump shot, but Chapman dropped in a couple of gratis tosses and Dorris connected on one of his long jump shots to put the Rebs five points ahead, 25-20, with two minutes remaining in the second quarter.

However, Tower stuffer in a lay-up and jump shot in the last minute to tim West Monroe's halftime lead to a lone point, 25-24.

In the third stanza the lead shifted five times and the count was knotted twice before Grayson pulled into a 38-34 lead.

It appeared as though Grayson would hang on to their slim advantage and win the game as they led the Rebels until the very last minute.

Grayson ran up a five point advantage, 42-37, with 5:15 remaining in the game, but the Rebels fought back hard, mostly on the fine shooting of Boney. The hustling little Rebel forward hit three fielders and four free tosses in the closing quarter to keep West Monroe in contention.

The Rebels came within one point four times in the last 4:15 of the battle, but were never able to take the lead until Boney's all-important jump shot with 0:20 showing on the clock.

Grayson had a chance to pull the game out of the fire in the last seconds when Woody Woodcock tied the ball with Frazier under Grayson's goal. However, Woodcock controlled the tip although Frazier held a three-inch advantage in height.

Boney missed a one - and - one free shot with 0:02 remaining, but the Rebels already had their victory and the consolation championship.

Mississippi State Defeats Auburn For 10th Victory

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —Undefeated Mississippi State had a close call Saturday night but remained one of the nation's two basketball teams with perfect records by defeating Auburn 51-48.

It was the 10th straight victory for the ninth-ranked defending Southeastern Conference champions who stand alone with Ohio State in the unbeaten class. The game was the SEC opener for both schools.

Sophomore Doug Hutton sank a fall-away shot with six seconds to play to put State ahead 50-48. The Maroons had stalled for three minutes following the fourth of four straight free throws by W. D. Stroud that tied the score.

Following Hutton's basket, Stroud intercepted an Auburn pass and tallied the final point on a last-second foul shot.

Layton Johns led Auburn with 14 points, while Joe Gold with 13 and Leland Mitchell with 11 led Mississippi State.

Auburn had the edge in shooting, making 40-5 per cent from the field and 82.4 per cent from the free throw line. State hit 32.1 per cent from the floor and 68.2 per cent on foul shots.

Alabama Downs Mississippi In SEC Tilt, 68-62

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP)—Alabama took the lead in the opening minutes Saturday night and defeated Mississippi 68-62 in the Southeastern Conference basketball opener for both schools.

Gary Blagburn poured in 28 points to lead the Crimson Tide to its fourth victory in 11 games. Ole Miss dropped its fifth in 11.

Ole Miss took an early 6-2 lead, but 'Bama countered with five straight field goals to make it 12-6 and the Crimson Tide never relinquished the lead.

At halftime, Alabama led 37-30 and in the opening minutes of the second half it widened the margin to 14 at 45-31. Ole Miss battled back and narrowed the gap to 50-47, but could get no closer.

Blagburn was helped by James Booth who scored 18 points.

For the Rebels, sophomore Donnie Kessinger with 16 was high point man, followed by Bill White with 15 and Bobby McCarley with 14. McCarley played a strong game and kept Ole Miss from fading further behind.

Vidalia Athletes Receive Awards At Club Banquet

NATCHEZ, Miss., (Special) — The Vidalia Quarterback Club held its annual awards banquet here last night in the Eola Hotel.

Letterman awards were presented to 23 varsity football players and eight track men. Awards were also presented to student managers, cheerleaders and Pee-Wee football players.

Guest speaker for the event was Taylor McNeal, assistant football coach at Louisiana State University.

Jerry Richardson, All - State tackle, received the Most Valuable Lineman trophy for the second straight year.

George Franklin, the leading scorer in District 3-B, was named the Most Valuable Back.

The most improved award went to tackle Wally Wallace, the halfback Jessie Wilson received the Sportsmanship trophy.

Franklin and all-district quarterback Jim Stringer were the only four-year lettermen.

Head coach Dan Chase and assistants Clyde Thompson and Julias Huhn received recognition for the fine job they did of piloting Vidalia to the district championship.

The track team also won the 3-B title last season.

Knicks Get Win On Guerin's 3 Pointer, 115-111

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A three-point play by Richie Guerin in the last minute of play gave the New York Knickerbockers a 115-111 victory over the Detroit Pistons in the first game of an NBA doubleheader Saturday night.

Chicago played Syracuse in the second game.

With the score tied at 108 and just 24 seconds remaining, Willie Naulls passed to Guerin for an easy layup. Guerin was fouled by Bob Ferry as he shot. He made the free throw to give New York the lead for good.

Detroit had bounced back from an earlier 13-point deficit and led 107-106 with 1:28 remaining after a Gene Shue one-hander.

Johnny Green's field goal put New York back in front with 47 seconds to go but Shue tied the score again at 108 to set the stage for Guerin's three-point play.

Cincinnati Romps Over Tulsa, 72-43

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's national collegiate champion Bearcats found Tulsa a soft touch Saturday night and second stringers ran up most of a lopsided 72-43 Cincinnati victory.

Sharpshooter Jim King headed a losing cause with 18 points—tops for the game—and got 10 rebounds.

JOHNSON STILL TOP SCORER

Cook, Walker Leading Northeast Rebounders

They call Northeast State center Robert Cook the "Bear," an appropriate nickname since the big fellow has been a grizzly on the boards for the Indians this season.

With 10 games gone, Cook leads Northeast with an average of 10.4 rebounds a game, second best mark in the Gulf States Conference. A junior in his third year as an Indian starter, he led his team in rebounds the past two years, pulling down 8.9 a game last season.

Not a giant as centers go, Cook stands only 6-5 and depends on position, timing and good jumping ability instead of height under the bucket. He weighs a solid 215 pounds, which doesn't hurt in the brusing battles for position under the basket.

Second in Northeast rebounding is Jimmy Walker, who like Cook, hails from Jonesboro. Walker, a 6-4 sophomore, is averaging 7.9 rebounds a game. No other Indian is averaging over 5.2 in rebounds.

Cook and Walker's talents will receive an acid test next Tuesday night in Lake Charles when the Indians play defending GSC champion McNeese, which always features excellent rebounding along with its defensive prowess. McNeese has two of the league's most outstanding boardmen, 6-5 Al Nesmith and 6-6 John Riddile.

Lanny Johnson continues to lead Northeast in scoring by a big margin. He went over 200 points for the third year in a row by scoring 27 against Southeastern last Thursday, giving him a total of 218 for the campaign. He cleared the 1,000 mark in career scoring during Northeast's Christmas Tournament and currently has a total of 1,051 points, 102 shy of the Sid Bradley's career record of 1,153 points.

Johnson has already broken Bradley's old career record of 403 field goals and now has a total of 416, 90 this season.

Walker trails Johnson in scoring this campaign with a 12.0 average. Cook is averaging 8.3, Stuart Toms 7.0 and Bob Groves 6.1.

Toms missed his first free throw of the season in the southeastern game after hitting on 14 straight but still has a sparkling percentage, 94.1 on 16 hits in 17 tries.

Northeast continues to get good work from its reserves. The Indians are getting almost 20 points a game from the bench with Jerry Salley (6.5), Jerry Snelling (4.4), John Varino (3.4) and Milton Linder (3.1) sporting the best averages among the reserves.

After the Tuesday road game with McNeese, Northeast returns home for another GSC clash, this one with old rival Louisiana Tech Saturday night.

Bob Goalby Breaks Par To Hold Lead In Open

BOB GOALBY bites his lip as he fires an iron from the rough on the 13th hole during the second round of the $50,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament yesterday. Goalby shot an even-par 71 to accompany his 64 yesterday and remained in front by one stroke at the halfway point. (AP Wirephoto)

By BOB MEYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Goalby shot an even-par 81 Saturday to remain in front of the field, at least temporarily, in the second round of the $45,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament.

The 30-year-old Goalby, from Crystal River, Fla., the 1961 winner here and leader with a 64 in the first round, posted a 36-hole total of 135.

Goalby was among the early starters as the field of 154 played par 36-35—71 Rancho Municipal Golf Course. The weather was sunny and hot. With many of the other challengers still to finish, Tommy Jacobs of Bermuda Dunes, Calif., came in with a 70 for 137.

Goalby carded 37-34—71, recovering in the latter stages. He was 3-over-par at the end of six holes.

Goalby said in the tough money circuit a professional must sink two out of three 8-foot putts.

"But I'm happy with the 71. I'm not disappointed," he said.

The going continued rough for some of the internationally known stars.

Nate-Go Roars To Race Victory

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Nate-go, owned by Mrs. M. V. Landy of Chicago, roared past the field in the stretch Saturday to win the $10,000 Old Hickory Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

The 5-year-old gelding had a half-length margin over Tony Graff at the wire with longshot Red Cent taking the show spot.

Jockey Paul Bailey brought the cocoa-colored gelding from eighth place in the nine-horse field to win the $6,500 first place check.

Natego was fourth choice of the 9,466 fans and returned $11, $5.40 and $4.20. Tony Graff, owned by Anthony Graffagnini of New Orleans, paid $14.20 and $7.00 while Red Cent, from the stable of Howard Cohoon of Jackson, Miss., returned $4.80.

Bailey held Natego well off the early pace, set by Wilson and Hull's Dale Clavo. W. Hal Bishop's Salason, the 8-5 choice of the chilled crowd, was the runnerup at the halfway mark of the mile and one-sixteenth event.

But as the field turned for home, Bailey rushed Natego through on the outside and the big gelding charged down the stretch for the victory. Time for the event was 1:47 2-5.

GREAT GOALIE

MONTREAL (UPI) — Bill Durnan, Montreal Canadians' netminder in the 1940's, is the only goalie who has won the National Hockey League's Vezina Trophy six times. The Vezina Trophy goes to the goaline of the team with the lowest goals - against goals - against average.

BIG ONES that didn't get away, as shown by Roy Collins of Collins. He and two other fishermen, Richard Smart of Winnfield and Irving Camp caught this limit of nice bass in Saline Lake near Winnfield. They were fshing with the Doll Fly.

Kentucky Drags Out Selection Of Grid Coach

LEXINGTON, Ky. University of Kentucky officials are expected to meet with several applicants for the football coach vacancy during the American Football Coaches Association next week in Chicago.

Thus it appears the selection of a successor to the deposed Blanton Collier may be at least a week away.

The latest name brought into speculation was Tom Prothro, coach at Oregon State. His team compiled a 5-5 record last fall and he reportedly is unhappy with the recruiting situation in that state.

Both Prothro and Leo Strang, head coach of the successful Massillon (Ohio) High School team, are to be interviewed at Chicago next week, The Lexington Leader said Saturday.

A top candidate is Charlie McClendon, chief assistant at Louisiana State University.

About 25 applicants are seeking the job. The Kentucky athletics board last week purchased the three remaining years on Collier's contract, ending his eight-year regime.

ONLY 5 SENIORS

36 Indians Earn 1961 Grid Letter

Thirty-six players — only five of them seniors—earned football letters at Northeast State the past season, Athletic Director and Head Coach Jack Rowan announced this week.

Four of the lettermen ar juniors, 12 are sophomores and 15 are freshmen. The list includes seven ends, four tackles, six guards, three centers, three quarterbacks, three fullbacks and 10 halfbacks. Also receiving letters are two managers and one student trainer.

Centenary Beats Northwestern In Overtime, 89-79

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Centenary went on a 23-point splurge in overtime Saturday night to defeat Northwestern (La.) State College 89-79 for its ninth victory in 12 games.

Stan McAfoos, Jimmy Williams and Don Ensley led the Gents who made 15 foul shots during the extra period after the teams had tied at 66-66 in regulation.

Foul-shooting made the difference. Each team sank 31 field goals, but Centenary made 27 of 33 free throws, while NSC hit only 17 of 31 charity tosses.

Centenary led most of the game and held a 34-31 advantage at intermission. But Gene Wright tied it for NSC which had a chance to win it when Pete Clemmons was fouled with seven seconds to play. But Clemmons missed the foul shot.

McAfoos led Centenary with 20 points, while Williams had 19, Cecil Upshaw 16 and Ensley 13. NSC's Glenn Collie led both teams with 28 points, while teammate Gayle Hatch scored 15.

NSC now has a 4-9 record.

JET-SMOOTH RIDE CHEVROLET

WHICH ONE IS THE CONVERTIBLE AND WHICH THE HARDTOP?

Did your keen old eyes tell you the top one's the convertible? Well, sir, that turns out to be our new Impala Sport Coupe whose solid steel roof line is a dead ringer for the Impala Convertible's below. But after rich new styling, then what? Look at the power department, where there's a new choice of V8 vigor. In the ride department, things are Jet-smooth. In glamor and go, comfort and craftsmanship, this one's got everything you'd reasonably expect of an expensive car. Except the expense.

Slip inside a Jet-smooth Chevrolet, relax in one of the comfort-high seats and notice how good you feel. Ready for action? Just flick the key and let 'er purr (you have your choice of two standard engines—a 135-hp 6 or 170-hp V8—or optional-at-extra-cost V8's way up to a 409-hp mile-shrinker). That gentle cradling motion you enjoy is Jet-smooth ride at work. And the richness and spaciousness of the interior are Body by Fisher at work.

Now, we ask you, is there any more you could reasonably expect of a car? If there is, your dealer will be very happy to show you (1) just where you can find it in the handsome new Jet-smooth '62 Chevrolet and (2) what it feels like to own a costly car—without the cost.

Catahoula Tax Election Is Scheduled

JONESVILLE (Special) — A special tax election has been called by the Catahoula Parish School Board to be held on Tuesday, Feb. 13, 1962, for the purpose of renewing the existing two-mill special parish wide school building and improvement tax.

"This is not a new tax," A. L. Brooks, superintendent of parish schools said. "It is simply asking the property owners to renew the tax which has been going on for several years. Money from the tax is used to repair, maintain and purchase equipment for the schools in the parish."

Since the registrations books must close 30 days prior to an election, there is only a few days remaining in which to register in order to be qualified to vote. Only qualified property owners who live within the parish will be elgible to vote on this proposition.

Every person who has not registered since Jan. 1, 1961 must reregister in order to be qualified to vote in any election.

The board will reconvene on Wednesday, Feb. 14, 1962 for the purpose of promulgating the results of the election.

DR. N. G. MENDOZA

Cuban Slated In Talk For Dinner Club

What it feels like to lose a million dollars worth of property and the accumulations of a life-time to a rebel like Fidel Castro, and barely escape with your life and that of your family's is the story member of the Executives Dinner club will hear Thursday at their dinner meeting at the Paragon Club.

Telling the story will be native-born Dr. Nicholas Gonzalez Mendoza, business and professional man, owner of property including an ocean front house which Castro himself usurped and lived in while the Mendoza family was shunted over to the guest house, before being given the opportunity to get out with "five dollars and their lives."

Dr. Mendoza comes from one of Cuba's most prominent and progressive families. His grandfather was the first Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Cuba in 1902 following liberation of the Island from Spain. Throughout Dr. Mendoza's life time, all of which has been spent in Cuba with the exception of a few years in the United States attending school and college he has been in business and active in the social life of Cuba.

Dr. Mendoza, his title is from the law degree of Doctor in Civil and Administrative Law, will tell members just what Castro has in mind; how desperate is the situation between the rebel leader and our United States; how much backing the Commies of Russia are giving and what is expected of Castro in return for this.

Dr. Mendoza speaks excellent English, having attended St. John Military School in New York, and the Wharton School of Business, University of Pennsylvania before settling down to conducting the family business after his father's death in the twenties.

He now lives with his wife and family of three children in St. Louis, Missouri.

Jacob's Yard Award Winner

FERRIDAY (Special) — The yard of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jacobs, Jr., No. 710 Virginia Avenue, Ferriday, has been awarded the "Yard of the Month" prize for January by the Ferriday Garden Club.

The judges stated that this yard is well landscaped and is a very good example of what can be accomplished in just a few years time. They added that especially eye - catching at this time of the year is the window box filled with pansies in full bloom.

ON ISOLATED ISLAND

Doctors Discover Rare New Disease

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Public Health Service doctors reported Saturday they have discovered a rare new disease marked by swollen, orange colored tonsils that may help solve some of the medical mysteries of the heart.

The doctors are Donald S. Fredrickson and Paul H. Altrocchi of the National Institutes of Health, who treated two children on isolated Tangier Island in Chesapeake Bay. The children are the only known victims of what they called "Tangier Disease." Most striking feature of the melady is the almost complete absence from the bloodstream of high-density lipoproteins—large molecules that serve as carrier vehicles for fats transported in the blood.

Their exact function is unknown. They have received less attention from medical specialists than low-density lipoproteins which are frequently linked to development of atherosclerosis—clogging of the arteries.

Lipoproteins, before the Tangier discovery, have always been found in relatively stable amounts in blood in man and all animals.

The findings, the Health Service report said, so far indicate that the high-density variety may be essential to normal handling of cholesterol.

In both cases so far, the victims have accumulated extremely large amounts of cholesterol in tonsils and some other body tissues.

But the real value of the research, the report said, may come when it is compared with case histories of patients who do not have low-density lipoproteins so the exact functions of each can be determined.

The new disorder first appeared in April, 1960. A five-year-old Tangier Island boy had his tonsils removed in a routine operation.

But his doctors discovered the tonsils were tremendously enlarged and reddish-orange. They were sent to the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology for study and were recognized as unique. The boy underwent extensive examination at the National Institutes of Health.

Except for some enlargement of the liver, spleen and some lymph nodes, the boy was found to have excellent health.

SHORTEN FESTIVAL

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The annual Casals Festival, named in honor of cellist Pablo Casals, has been cut from three to two weeks and will be held next June 8-20. Officials indicated falling attendance was a factor in reducing the length of the music festival.

From there they will visit Aden, Arabia on to India for a week's tour and to Napal, Columbo, Ceylon, Rangoon, Burma, Malaya, Singapore, Siam, Cambodia, Hong Kong, Macao, and Japan. En route home their ports will include Hawaii, Los Angeles, Calif., Mexico and the Panama Canal. The Gorns expect to return in three months.

MRS. LEWIS BONNY NARON

Elaine Hesketh Becomes Bride Of Frank Chapman

White stock, chrysanthemums and gladioli in massive arrangements and branched candelabra holding lighted white tapers banked the altar of Southside Methodist church for the wedding of Miss Elaine Margaret Hesketh and Frank Burns Chapman, which was solemnized Tuesday, January 2 at 6:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hesketh, 1100 Roselawn and Mr. Chapman is the son of Mrs. Reba Chapman, 1510 S. Third and the late Frank Chapman.

Major William Killoch, great uncle of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony at the altar which was entwined with spengeri fern. A concert of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. W. P. Stewart, organist, preceding the ceremony. She also accompanied Tommy Rainer as he sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie fashioned on traditional lines. Tiny seed pearls adorned the bodice which featured three - quarter length sleeves and scoop neck which dipped to a V back where a triple bow marked the closing. Pleated fullness of the skirt extended from the waist to a wide sweeping train. A crown embellished with white seed pearls held in place her veil of illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Miss Judy Hesketh, whose waltz length gown of ice blue peau de soie was styled with fitted midriff, high scalloped neckline and short sleeves. Her headdress in matching blue was a small fitted flower band with brief veil. She wore matching shoes, white gloves and carried a cascade bouquet of white pompon chrysanthemums.

Tommy Eubanks attended the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Pete Medak and Salvadore Coronado.

For the occasion Mrs. Hesketh was wearing a champagne brocade taffeta sheath with matching jacket and shoes. She wore a small beige feather hat with short veil and complimentary bag and gloves. Her corsage was a white orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a sheath dress of navy blue lace over taffeta, with black velvet pillbox and a white orchid corsage.

A reception followed the ceremony in the reception room of the church, where Mrs. Reese Major presided over the bride's book, at a table which held a silver candelabra, based with white camellias. Mrs. W. W. Artt served the wedding cake, encircled with white camellias and spengeri fern from a table decorated with silver candelabra entwined with white camellias. A large silver epergne filled with white stock and small white mums was placed on one end of the refreshment table with the silver punch bowl opposite. Mrs. Archie Pearson, Mrs. Marzelle Hill and Mrs. Tommy Eubanks alternated at the punch bowl.

For a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast the bride donned a magenta wool ensemble with gray mink collar, matching gloves and hat and gray shoes and bag. She wore the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. Chapman will return to Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois, where he will be joined later by Mrs. Chapman, who will continue teaching school here. She is a graduate of Neville High School and Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out - of - town guests were Mrs. Catherine Hesketh, Pawtucket, Rhode Island; Major William Kolloch, Largo, Florida; Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Gates, Rayville; Mr. and Mrs. T. G. McKay, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McKay, Mrs. Mary Acklen, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Chapman, all of Archibald and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith of Ruston.

Miss Hargon, Mr. Naron Wed In Home Scene

The plantation home of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Hargon at Tallulah, was scene of the wedding of their daughter, Miss Florence Hargon to Lewis Bonny Naron, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Naron of West Monroe, which was solemnized December 24.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dan Lott of Tallulah Presbyterian Church in the presence of the families and close friends.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a powder blue sheath dress with matching hat and carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with a white poinsettia.

The bride's twin sister, Miss Frances Hargon, served as her only attendant. She wore a pink wool ensemble.

Serving as best man was Pvt. Robert A. Steed of West Monroe.

After a reception the couple departed for a short wedding trip. Pvt. Naron will return to San Diego, California, where he is stationed with the Marines and Mrs. Naron will continue her studies at Northeast Louisiana State College.

The bride is a graduate of Tallulah high school and Pvt. Naron graduated from West Monroe high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College for two years before enlisting in the Marines.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. C. O. Knight and daughters of Madison, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. Bill Griffin of Baton Rouge; Mrs. Sylvia McKay and Mr. and Mrs. Wassan of Pollock; Miss Betty Ann Hargon of Canton, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hargon of Wesson, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Naron of West Monroe.

Miss Mary Jo Davenport Engaged To Texas Man

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams Davenport, 610 Loop Road, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Jo, to John Robert Lusk III of Dallas, Texas. The wedding will be solemnized Saturday, February 3 at 4 p.m. in the First Presbyterian church of Monroe.

Miss Davenport is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Andrews Davenport of Mer Rouge and of Mrs. Charles Andrew Brown, 608 Loop Road, and the late Mr. Brown of Alpine, Texas. A graduate of Neville high school in 1957, she attended Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri and Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex., where she was a member of Delta Gamma social sorority. She graduated in 1961 from Northeast Louisiana State College, with a Bachelor of Arts degree in speech.

Mr. Lusk is the son of Mrs. Clarence Finley Moore of Dallas, Texas and the late John Robert Lusk Jr. He is a graduate of Highland Park High School in Dallas, and of Southern Methodist University with a bachelor's degree in insurance. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Order.

After their wedding the couple will reside in Dallas where Mr. Lusk is engaged in the insurance business.

Opal Faye Kirk Becomes Bride Of Mr. Owens

Vows uniting Miss Opal Faye Kirk and Pvt. J. W. Owens were solemnized December 24 at 3 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas Kirk at Tallulah. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Owens, also of Tallulah.

Rev. J. H. Hamilton officiated at the double ring ceremony as the couple stood beneath an arch, entwined with ivy and flanked by tall white candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Dior blue wool crepe sheath accented with a hip-length boxy jacket, matching satin shoes, hat and bag, white gloves and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Wilma Matthews, Cousin of the bridegroom, served as only attendant for the bride. She wore a blue satin sheath with white headdress and a corsage of pink carnations.

Holley Jenkins of Jackson, Mississippi, brother - in - law of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Following the exchange of vows a reception was held. The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth over green, was centered with an arrangement of white tapers, entwined with miniature ivy. Mrs. Holley Jenkins presided at the crystal punch bowl and Mrs. Henry Rusk of Baton Rouge, sister of the bride, served the tiered wedding cake from opposite ends of the table. Miss Susan Rusk, niece of the bride, presided at the guest book.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will be at home at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, where Mr. Owens is stationed. Both are graduates of Tallulah High School.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rusk, Miss Susan Rusk, Mike, Candy and Danny Rusk, all of Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. Holley Jenkins, Kathy and Robbie Jenkins of Jackson, Miss., and Miss Mildred Bagwell, Monroe.

Well, and what a week. With two New Year's Eves, and no Monday, it has almost cured us of a desire to frolic. We are ready to lay low, like Brer Fox, for maybe even seven days. But best we rest fast, for Mardi Gras season began last night in New Orleans, and we'll soon be catching up WITH THAT MERRIMENT.

Bayou DeSiard country club, Highland Park, and the Lotus Club held their New Year celebrations last Saturday night. Sunday afternoon and evening there were a number of smaller parties held at homes. The BOB DOWNINGS invited a group of friends for bridge Sunday evening. Three tables played, with BARRY SPENCER winning high, and CINDY WAKEFIELD, low. Strawberry cheesecake was the dessert served later in the evening.

Beginning at four Sunday afternoon, the WALTER ERNSTS were hosts at open house throughout the evening. A gay centerpiece of balloons and confetti arranged with greenery decorated the buffet, where ham, crab dip, cheese loaf, and other sandwich makings were set out. About forty friends called during the evening.

Later hours were kept at the watch party given by CHRIS BARTON, who invited friends to come by after ten p.m. Sunday and await the arrival of 1962. A brass bowl filled with fruit and flanked with candles was placed on the buffet where hors d'oeuvres were served. About twenty couples attended this party.

Members of the college set divided their evening among several gay, impromptu affairs around town. One of the gayest began at five Sunday afternoon at the home of HANK BIEDENHARN and lasted till the New Year arrived. Guests of honor included DUKE DARDWELL of Baton Rouge, and JOE DOSS of Alexandria. Girls brought refreshments and boys provided the combo: Jo Jo and his Night Creatures.

Another merry spur of the moment party was that hosted by CONNIE WHEELER and NAT TROY at the Troy residence Sunday night. A combo played for dancing from nine until one. Connie was stunning in a gold sheath dress.

And speaking of clothes, there were some lovelies out for this, the most dressed up week end of the year. We took note of ANN HIGDON in a fur-collared gold brocade suit . . . MARY AGNES GALLAGHER in turquoise chiffon styled on Grecian lines . . . CHARLOTTIE DENT in a red brocade suit . . . and LANDREA NICHOLS in full-skirted blue chiffon . . . COURTNEY CURRY's silver lame was designed for the Twist: a sleeveless fitted sheath, flounced at the knee . . . SUSAN WOODS was outstanding in beige, embroidered all over with gold sequins. This dress bared one shoulder, as did ESTHER MASUR's stunning black taffeta. . . . Paisley lame was the unusual material used for BILLIE SMELSER's blouson sheath. . . . CAMILLE WOOD wore yellow crepe, styled with blouson top and tiered fringe skirt. . . . Electric blue chiffon, with yoke embroidered in matching beads, was most becoming to ARABELLA CANN . . . With a full green chiffon skirt, FRANCES ADCOCK wore an overblouse embroidered in green and yellow beads . . . SALLIE LAUVE's yellow brocade was styled with the new A-shape skirt . . . Also very new-looking was JACKIE WOODS' white, embroidered in crystal beads, with dropped waistline and pleated skirt . . . MARTHA SCOTT chose black eyelet taffeta, lined with green, and matching green shoes.

Our citation for Gracious Gesture of the Week must go to the Cotton Bowl and its sponsoring groups, who provided every lady attending Monday's game with a corsage: a real cotton boll tied with her team's colors.

Back home, though, game watching parties are becoming so popular that they have almost replaced bowl-going. Some of these affairs, relaxed and informal as they are, have become traditional in a few short years.

For instance, the JOHN KELSOS, JR., invited nine couples by for the day of television. A buffet centered with an arrangement of holly and berries was set up with corned beef and turkey sandwich makings for eating-all-day.

The JACK MADDENS' New Year's Day party featured an unusual tradition: strawberry shortcake for dessert. Neighbors and a few other friends attended this affair, where buffet luncheon was served before the games. White chrysanthemums centered the table, where barbecued ham, black eyed peas, sweet potatoes, asparagus casserole, and fruit salad were served. Pat freezes strawberries in the summer particularly for dessert at this party.

The Ledoux camp was scene of a party given by ANN and JOE LEDOUX on Monday, with thirteen couples invited for lunch and game-watching. On the buffet menu were sandwich makings, ham and turkey, and potato salad, with other finger foods.

ANN BELL used gold corn and wheat with gilded almonds to decorate the buffet when she and HARRY entertained Monday afternoon. The table was set up near the television in the family room, with crab mornay, corn beef on rye, and smoked turkey, highlighting the menu. Fruitcake and confections were passed for dessert. Four couples attended this party.

Another annual New Year's Day party is that given by the MAC BALLARDS, with neighbors dropping in from ten until six to watch the succession of parades and football games. Etoile centered her buffet with an arrangement of fruit. Ham sandwiches, sliced turkey, and fruit cake, with other snacks, were served all day.

Birthday parties are always with us. GAY FAULK, who was the first baby born in the Twin Cities in 1952, celebrated the tenth anniversary of the even with a skating party Saturday. Silver dollars were awarded Stop the Music winners ELLEN MINTZ, MARTHA STONE, and AL WHITE. Doughnuts and soft drinks were served to thirty children.

Also on Saturday, CORBIN AMMAN was honored with a skating party for his eighth birthday. PAUL RILEY and ANN JOHNSTON were Stop the Music winners. Little airplanes, motor scooters, and boats were favors for the boys, with girls receiving tea sets. Forty-five children attended the party.

Here is a bit of advice for the New Year: "Then Laugh," by Bertha Backus.

Build for yourself a strong box,
Fashion each part with care;
When it's strong as your hand can make it,
Put all your troubles there;
Hide there all thought of your failures,
And each bitter cup that you quaff;
Lock all your heartaches within it,
Then sit on the lid and laugh.
Tell no one else its contents,
Never its secrets share;
When you've dropped in your care and worry
Keep them forever there;
Hide them from sight so completely
That the world will never dream half;
Fasten the strong box securely—
Then sit on the lid and laugh.

Lt. James Breard, Bride Plan Home In Biloxi

St. Genevieve Catholic Church in Thibodaux was scene of the wedding of Miss Camille Ophelia Francez of Thibodaux and Lieutenant James Alfred Breard, Monroe, which was solemnized Saturday, December 30. Father John Lyle Newfield performed the 11 a.m. nuptial mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Francez of Seattle, Washington and niece of Mrs. Maurice J. Tregre of Thibodaux, with whom she made her home. Lt. Breard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Breard of this city.

Bouquets of all-white chrysanthemums and gladioli were arranged in altar vases and baskets on the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight peau de soie and reembroidered Alencon lace, embellished with appliques of seed pearls. Her fingertip length veil cascaded from a cap of matching peau de soie. She carried a bouquet of white cymbidium orchids and white rosebuds encircling a large white cattleya orchid.

Miss Carolyn Tregre served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Karen Tregre and Miss Denise Bailliet. They were dressed identical in gowns of absinthe green silk peau de soie, with matching shoes. Their headbands of matching silk featured Maline veils and they wore single strands of pearls and white kid gloves. Each carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums, centered with strelitzia blooms.

Serving as best man was Bernard Lafaso and groomsmen were James Horn and Claude Pecora. Ushers were Ronald Blanchard and Frank Hebert.

For the occasion the bride's mother was wearing a gown of aqua peau de soie with matching feather hat and satin shoes, black faille bag and white gloves. Her corsage was a yellow-throated white cattleya orchid. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Breard, wore a blue wool model with white satin hat and white gloves, black patent shoes and bag. She also wore a yellow-throated white cattleya orchid.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Knights of Columbus Hall. The tiered wedding cake centering a white covered table, was flanked by white candles and wreathed with white carnations. A five-branched candelabra holding white tapers centered the long table with silver punch bowls at either end and the coffee service was placed on another table, centrally adorned with white carnations.

For a wedding trip to Pensacola, Florida, the bride changed to an aqua blue silk suit with white fur hat and gloves, and black calf shoes and bag. Her corsage was the white orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will establish a home in Biloxi, Mississippi, where Lt. Breard is stationed at Keesler Air Force Base. The bride was graduated from Ursuline Academy of New Orleans and attended Nicholls State College at Thibodaux. Lt. Breard graduated from St. Matthews high school and Louisiana State University.

MRS. ROBERT RUHL JOHNSON

New Orleans Church Scene Of Johnson-Bishop Vows

Miss Jane Anne Bishop of New Orleans became the bride of Robert Ruhl Johnson, 1800 Riverside, Monroe, in a double ring ceremony, solemnized at 4 p.m. December 28 in St. Dominic's Church in New Orleans. The Bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thelma P. Bishop, New Orleans, and Mr. Johnson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Milton Johnson, Lake Hamilton Drive, Hot Springs, Arkansas, former residents of Monroe.

Red poinsettias adorned the altar before which Father Hughes performed the ceremony. An organ prelude was prsented by Mrs. Ralph Lacassagne.

Given in marriage by her uncle, William J. Peres, the bride wore a full length gown of candlelight peau de soie, which extended into a chapel train. Appliques of reembroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls outlined the Sabrina neckline and formed a pannier effect at sides of the voluminous skirt. Long sleeves tapered to lily points over her hands. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a matching crown of Alencon lace and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and lily of the valley.

Miss Kathleen Bishop, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a gown of emerald green peau de soie, accented with cummerbund and back panels of nylon velvet, and a matching hat of velvet and maline. Her bouquet was a crescent arrangement of red poinsettias and English holly. Bridesmaids, who were dressed identically to the honor attendant, were Miss Clarice McDonald, Miss Judith Reynolds and Miss Sheila Gauthreau, Mrs. Sidney Fuller of Ruston, sister of the bridegroom and Mrs. Henry Zac Carter Jr.

Mr. Johnson attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Nat Troy, Steve Nichols and Tracy Moore, all of Monroe; Robert S. Fuller of Ruston and Arthur Seemann of New Orleans. Ushers were Sonny Turner of Monroe; Robert and Jack Boasberg, New Orleans.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bishop wore a peacock blue silk theatre suit, with matching shoes and bag. Her hat was in shades of blue ranging from aqua to peacock and her corsage was a white orchid. Mrs. Johnson, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a Dior blue reembroidered Alencon lace costume, with blue silk hat and shoes to match and a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at 7515 St. Charles Avenue. White flowers and English holly provided a floral background for the reception rooms with similar arrangements on the serving tables.

For a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast the bride was wearing a beige wool suit with breath of spring mink collar, and matching mink-trimmed veil headdress. Her accessories were in bone and she wore a white orchid.

Mrs. Johnson is a graduate of Fortier high school in New Orleans and will graduate this month from Newcomb College. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Johnson graduated from Neville high school and is a 1961 graduate of Tulane University. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity. Recently commissioned a lieutenant in the U. S. Army, he is assigned to Fort Eutis, Virginia, where the couple will reside.

Our-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, Thibodaux; Mrs. Charles Black Sr., Hammond; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Troy, Joe Wheeler, Miss Connie Wheeler and Mrs. Stephen P. Nichols, all of Monroe.

Vows For Area Couple Read In Catholic Church

Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Vidalia was scene of the wedding of Miss Bobbie Rene Prestridge and Gerald James Merchant on Saturday, December 23. The Rev. Matthew Scanlon officiated at the double ring rites at 4 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Harrist of Vidalia and Mr. Merchant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James William Merchant of Lake Charles.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her step-father, Darrell Harrist. Miss Senith Couillard of Natchez, served as maid of honoor and bridesmaids were Misses Barbara and Frances Prestridge, sisters of the bride and Miss Helen Merchant, sister of the bridegroom.

Jack Fenner served as best man and groomsmen were Herman Sockrider III of Baton Rouge; David Prestridge, brother of the bride; Jeff Giacone of McComb, Miss., cousin of the bridegroom. Ushers were Ronny and Robert Rome of Baton Rouge.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception at Ellicott's Hill, Connelly's Tavern in Natchez, Miss. After a wedding trip to New Orleans and the Mississippi Gulf Coast, the couple has established home in Ruston.

Gala New Year Party Held At Lotus Club

A gala New Year's Eve party at the Lotus Club Saturday night was attended by approximately 80 members.

The club was decorated in keeping with the holiday occasion. New Year favors and noise-makers were provided each guest.

Hors d'oeuvres were served from a beautifully appointed buffet table. Music for dancing was provided by the Butch Barino Trio from Mississippi.

The entertainment committee of the Lotus Club had charge of arrangements.

Kappas Invited To Observance In New Orleans

Local Kappa Alpha Theta members have been invited to attend the group's Founders' Day banquet in New Orleans, Thursday, according to Mrs. Sloan Oliver, president of the Monroe alumnae.

The Orleans club will be the scene of the formal dinner party at six-thirty Thursday evening, January 11. Mrs. V. L. Ewing, Jr., and Mrs. E. B. Holbrook, Jr., are chairman of the affair.

Those planning to attend are asked to notify the chairmen at 6039 Pitt street, New Orleans, by Monday.

JANUARY 26 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Jo Ann Odom and Bobby Fuller, whose engagement is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Odom of Farmerville. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Cortez Jones and the late Thomas Harvey Fuller, Farmerville. The wedding will be solemnized at 7 p.m. in the chapel of the First Baptist church with Rev. L. B. Hall officiating.

Girl Scout News

FROM SILVER WATERS COUNCIL

Camping in December? Several weeks ago we reported a winter overnight at Pine Wood. Here's another! Girls of Senior Troop 1 proved to be hardy souls by choosing one of the Christmas holidays, free of school conflicts, for their overnight. They love camping and have learned to be comfortable whatever the time of year. Mrs. N. L. Huckabee, who has helped make additional camping possible for many troops, accompanied the girls, along with Mrs. William Gannaway, one of the troop leaders. Miss Julia Faye Anthony, of Houston, Texas, who has served on the Pine Wood day camp staff for several years, joined the group of the evening.

The fireplace naturally becomes the center of attraction for winter camping. Adding to the enjoyment of an open fire was the pile of wood that G. A. Waschka sent out to camp to supplement the dead limbs that are the usual source of fuel. Becky Parkerson, who has the reputation of being an excellent fire builder, kept the fire going during the night.

Singing is a favoite activity of these girls, whether under a starry sky during a summer camp, or around a blazing fire in winter.

Girls in the troop who participated were Elaine Butler, Carol Culpepper, Connie Davis, Milann Gannaway, Diane Halley, Robbie Hicks, Jateen Kelly, Becky Parkerson, Deas Parrish, Gayle Smith, and Barbara Suomi.

The new year ushers in the most exciting year in the history of Girl Scouting, "The Golden Anniversary Year," about which we'll be hearing much more in the next few months. To start the golden year was the Girl Scout float in the Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's, a beautiful one, and seen by millions.

The Girl Scout Rose will bloom in gardens throughout the countries, and the new Brownie Scout Marigold will brighten many yards and window boxes. Other yellow flowers, planted by Scouts, will furnish "golden blossoms" for the golden years."

An attractive enameled pin which may be worn on the uniform has been designed to help us observe the anniversary. March 12 is the actual 50th birthday, calling for the biggest celebration of Girl Scout Week ever held.

Senior Roundup in July at Button Bay, Vermont, is the big national event of the birthday year.

Plans for local observances will be made at neighborhood meetings in January. Meetings scheduled for this week are West Monroe neighborhood, Mrs. R. W. Plair, chairman, Tuesday at 1:15 at Highland School, and Southside neighborhood Thursday at 1:15 at the home of Mrs. E. M. Varnado, 1310 South 5th.

MISS KATHLEEN MARY O'NEIL daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis S. O'Neil of New Orleans, will be married February 11 to Donald Fancher Hull of Lake Providence. He is the son of Alton B. Hull of Tallulah and the late Mrs. Rebecca Fancher Hull. The wedding will take place in St. Agnes Church in New Orleans.

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL ALBRITTON

Couple At Home In City After Farmerville Vows

Solemnized in the chapel of the First Baptist church in Farmerville on December 26 at 5 p.m. was the wedding of Miss Brenda Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Anderson, and Daniel Albritton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Albritton, all of Farmerville. Rev. Luther B. Hall officiated at the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

Vows were exchanged beneath an arch of English ivy with a cluster of wedding bells at center top. Two pedestal baskets of white carnations and greenery and branched candelabra holding white tapers completed the altar setting. Candles were lighted by Joe Albritton and Joe Pickel.

Mrs. Robert Dawkins, pianist, played appropriate nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Lonnie Black Jr., who sang "Because," and at conclusion of the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer."

Esorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and white slipper satin. The moulded bodice of satin was topped with a lace jacket featuring bracelet length sleeves. The overskirt of lace formed deep scallops at the hemline. Her short veil of illusion was attached to a satin bandeau and she wore lace mitts to match her gown. The bride's only jewelry was a strang of cultured pearls and she carried a cascade of white Frenched carnations with net poufs and showers of satin streamers.

Miss Polly Burrough of Rayville, maid of honor, wore a short sheath dress of crimson velvet, designed with low round neckline and brief sleeves. She wore short white gloves and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations with net and satin streamers.

Gladden Hearn Jr. of Farmerville served as best man for the bridegroom. Ushers were Robert Anderson, brother of the bride, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Johnny Edwards of Farmerville.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Anderson selected a sheath dress of Dior blue lace and satin with Chanel jacket of lace and a wide crushed cummerbund of satin. She wore a hat of matching satin with brief nose veil, white gloves and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Albritton, mother of the bridegroom, wore a poudre blue matte jersey model on princess lines with cowl neckline and matching accessories. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were hosts at a reception in the Blue Room of the church. Miss Carolyn Farley presided at the guest book on a table draped in white satin and net and holding a large white wedding candle. The bride's table, covered with white organdy over satin had for its centerpiece an arrangement of white French carnations and glitter branches in a silver epergne flanked by slender white tapers in silver holders. Miss Carol Joyce Waller, Louisiana Tech, presided at the silver punch bowl and the tiered wedding cake was served by Miss La June Pickel, of Northeast Louisiana State College.

A mass arrangement of red carnations graced the piano. Appropriate background music was played throughout the reception. Others assisting with hospitalities were Mrs. Edd Meeks, Mrs. Harvey Roan and Mrs. Bobby Russell.

For a wedding trip the bride changed into a wool suit of Natalie green, styled with bell sleeves and short coat. Her accessories were black and she wore the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The couple will be at home at 1709 College Avenue in Monroe, where Mr. Albrittton is a student at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Pervis Frasier of Perryton, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Musick of Dumas, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. Bryson Albritton of Fort Worth, Texas.

On Saturday evening preceding the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Albritton honored their son and his prospective bride with a buffet supper following rehearsal of the bridal party. The supper was held in the Blue Room at the church where the table, covered in white linen was centrally adorned with a seasonal arrangement.

Fisher-Gilley Nuptials Read In Home Setting

Miss Carole Susan Gilley, daughter of Mrs. Frederick M. Gilley and the late Mr. Gilley of Tallulah, became the bride of Roy Kirk Fisher, son of Mrs. Roy Landon Fisher and the late Mr. Fisher of Monroe, on December 24.

Rev. W. C. McFadden, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Monroe, performed the double ring ceremony in the Fisher home here.

The couple exchanged vows in a setting of greenery and tall lighted tapers in branched candelabra.

The bride wore a winter white wool suit with blue fox collar, matching white hat and carried a white orchid atop a Bible.

Attendants for the couple were Miss Betty Lou Gilley, sister of the bride, and Bruce Raley, both of Tallulah.

A reception followed the ceremony in the home.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fisher are students at Northeast Louisiana State College and will be at home in Monroe.

Millsaps PTA To Hear Panel Discussion

"Our Social Children" will be subject of a panel discussion at the monthly meeting of Millsaps P.T.A. to be held Thursday, January 11 at 7:30 p.m.

Questions answered will be "Do we give them too much too soon?" and "Are we pushing our children into the social whirl too soon?" These subjects and others will be discussed by the panel composed of Mrs. H. R. Wilhite, teacher; Mrs. Quinten McLemore, parent; Miss Susan Broomfield, student and Rev. A. L. New, Louisiana Baptist District Three Secretary. Each panelist will discuss the subject from his or her point of view.

Moderator will be Gene Hardin, principal of West Monroe junior high school.

All parents and other interested persons are invited to hear the discussion.

Amy Hood, Edwin Dewees Exchange Vows In First Methodist Church

In a candlelight ceremony Friday, December 29 at 7:30 p.m. in First Methodist Church of West Monroe, Miss Amy Hood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hood of West Monroe became the bride of Edwin Dewees, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dewees of Homer.

White magnolia leaves interspersed with gilded nandina foliage banked the choir rail behind the altar on which rested numerous candles. Centering the altar was a large brass urn overflowing with white carnations, gladioli, gilded leaves and greenery, and flanked by branched candelbra holding white tapers. White candles encircled by gilded nandina were placed in the windows and were lighted by the ushers preceding the ceremony.

Reverend Earl Emmerich performed the double ring ceremony following an organ prelude by Mrs. Jack W. White, who also accompanied Mrs. J. Norman Coon Sr., as she sang "Melody of My Love," and "The Wedding Prayer."

MRS. EDWIN DEWEES

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of antique ivory satin, highlighted with appliques of Alencon reembroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. A lace motif accented the bodice with scalloped Sabrina neckline and long sleeves formed lily points over the hands. A front panel of the skirt which extended in a chapel train in back, was enhanced with seed pearls and lace appliques. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a double tiara of Alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a small testament covered in white stain and surmounted by a single white orchid, from which cascaded satin ribbon streamers.

Mrs. R. J. Frasier of Oil City, sister of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor. She wore a slim skirted frock of gold satin with bodice overlaid with gold lace. The dress was styled with long fitted sleeves and square neckline. She wore gold slippers and pillbox hat banded in white carnations and carried a gold satin muff to which was attached a pale yellow orchid.

Dressed identically to the honor attendant were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Howard Lewis Jr. and Miss Mary Coon. Candles at the altar were lighted by Mrs. William Norris III and Miss Linda Atkins, who were also dressed identically to the other attendants with wrist corsages of white carnations.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Annie Laurie Caldwell, wore a dress of gold peau de soie, with deep gold underskirt, styled with rolled collar and bouffant skirt. A corded sash of gold velvet encircled the waist and her headdress was a bandeau of gold velvet and white flowers. She carried a nosegay of white and gold mums. Lee Lenora Caldwell, as flower girl, was dressed identical to the junior bridesmaid and carried a basket of flowers tied with golden ribbons.

Mr. Dewees served as best man for his son and groomsmen were Whitty Hood, brother of the bride and James Banks of Minden. Ushers were Joe Ross and Wayne Banks of Minden.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hood wore a lavender chiffon gown with small hat of lavender-hued sequins and a white orchid, touched with lavender. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink brocade silk frock with small pink hat and a white orchid corsage.

Following the exchange of vows a reception was held in the church parlors. Covered with an embroidered cloth the bride's table held a central arrangement of white chrysanthemums and gilded fern, flanked by white candles. Mrs. J. W. Hightower and Miss Maibel Hood alternated at the punch service and Mrs. George Bennett served petit fours. The wedding cake was served by Mrs. J. Norman Coon Jr. and Miss Carolyn Gallaspy. Guests were registered by Mrs. Dale Drost.

For travel when the couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans, the bride was wearing a magenta wool jersey suit with matching pillbox hat, black accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. They will be at home in Natchitoches. The bride, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hawkins of West Monroe, graduated from West Monroe high school and is presently attending Northwestern State College. Mr. Dewees was graduated from Homer high school and will graduate later this month from Northwestern State College.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Colin Urban and Miss Annette Urban of Alexandria; Mrs. Pearl Brown, Mrs. F. E. Wilderson, Mrs. Geraldine Shaw, of Homer; James Henderson of Shreveport; Major and Mrs. George Bennett, Miss Debbie Bennett, Eddie Bennett of Alamagordo, New Mexico, Mrs. R. L. Edge, Becky and Claudia of St. Louis and Robert Sewell of New Orleans.

MR. AND MRS. CARSON PRIDGEN

Miss Ashley Johnson, Carson Pridgen Are Wed

First Nazarene Church of West Monroe was scene of the wedding of Miss Ashley Ellen Johnson, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Johnson of Monroe, to Carson Pridgen, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pridgen of Natchitoches, which was solemnized December 29 at 7:30 p.m. with the bride's father officiating.

Rev. Johnson was assisted in the ceremony by Rev. Ray Davis of Bossier City.

Branched candelabra entwined with ivy formed a semi - circle at the altar in front of which were twin baskets of white stock and lemon leaves combined with fern, white satin bows and streamers. Flanking the candelabra were twin arrangements of ivy trailing to the floor. A single candle arose from the center of each arrangement. White satin bows marked the family pews.

A prelude of organ music was presented by Mrs. J. W. McClung, who also accompanied Robert H. Ferrington as he sang "Whither Thou Goest," and Twelfth of Never," preceding the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer," as the couple knelt for prayer.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her uncle, R. L. Willett, and given in marriage by her father. Her gown featured a moulded bodice of nylon over taffeta with scoop neck etched with lace identical to lace in the skirt. Long sleeves tapered to lily points over the hands and the full length bouffant skirt of white nylon mist worn over hoops swept back at the waist to butterfly folds on each side revealing a wide three - tiered lace panel down the back. Her veil of illusion fell fingertip length from a crown of tulle petals and pearls. She carried a white Bible on which rested a purple throated white orchid, encircled by satin orange blossoms and leaves, showered with seed pearls and white satin streamers.

Mrs. Shelby Wilhite, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a street length gown of emerald green taffeta, styled with scoop neck accented by shoulder bows, short bell sleeves and full skirt. Her headdress was of illusion petals clustered to form a bandeau with short scalloped illusion veil. Satin shoes and headdress matched her dress and she wore short white gloves and carried a cluster of mirror - lure balls surrounded by silver leaves and mirror - lure spikes and poufs of green lacelon.

Miss Paula Jenkins, Bossier City, the maid of honor, wore a jade green dress styled identical to Mrs. Wilhite's and carried a bouquet of silver mirror - lure spikes with white iridescent leaves. Junior bridesmaid, Miss Priscilla Walker, cousin of the bride, was dressed identical to the maid of honor in apple green taffeta.

Flower girl was Miss Sharon Boyles, who wore a full length frock of mint green taffeta with tulle overskirt. She scattered silvered ivy leaves from a silver flower basket tied with green lace ribbon.

Harold Pridgen, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and groomsmen were Charles Pridgen, brother of the groom and Noel Keith Johnson, brother of the bride. Ushers were Rollie Allen Jr. and George Johnson, who also served as candlelighters.

The bride's mother was wearing a dress of peacock blue with black accessories and a corsage of silver mirror lure flowers and buds, tied with white satin ribbon.

A reception was held in the church parsonage following the exchange of vows. The table, covered with a lace cloth over green was adorned with green candles in silver holders. The cake decorated in white rosebuds and pale green leaves with lily of the valley rested on a mirror, surrounded by silvered ivy leaves. Mrs. R. H. Ferrington, Mrs. Robert Yelverton and Mrs. R. L. Willett cut and served the wedding cake and the punch bowl at opposite end of the table was presided over by Mrs. Rollie Allen Jr. Miss Marlene Smith presided at the guest registry at both the church and reception.

The reception room was decorated throughout with silvered ivy leaves and green candles. Appropriate music added to the occasion. Rice bags were presented the guests by Ann Walker and David Whitman.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a black and rust sheath with black accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. They will make their home in Monroe.

Mrs. Pridgen graduated from North Caddo High School in Vivian and attended Northwestern State College in Natchitoches. Mr. Pridgen graduated from Natchitoches High School and also attended Northwestern.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson of Winnsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferrington, Vivian; The Rev. and Mrs. Ray Davis, Bossier City; Mrs. Earl Cartwright Jr. and Earline, Linda and Earl Cartwright III, Mrs. Donald McGough of Tallulah.

FORTHCOMING marriage of Miss Ida Elizabeth Crawford to Clyde Fitz Swanson Jr. is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Edward Crawford of Winnfield. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fitz Swanson, also of Winnfield. The ceremony will be performed Friday, January 26 at 6 p.m. in the Winnfield First Methodist Church.

Colvin-Wooldridge Vows Exchanged In Candlelight

Historical Boeuf Prairie Methodist church near Ft. Necessity was scene of the wedding of Miss Mary Sue Wooldridge and Juston Henry Colvin Jr. on Saturday, December 23 at 4 p.m. The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Wooldridge of Ft. Necessity and Mr. Colvin's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Juston H. Colvin Sr., of Winnsboro.

The Rev. Lamont Rouse performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of white chrysanthemums and greenery interspersed with branched candelabra holding white cathedral tapers. In front of the altar and entwined in the chancel rail were white chrysanthemums and a white satin bow.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. C. L. Moore Jr., who also accompanied Mrs. W. M. McLemore Jr., who sang "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," and "The Lord's Prayer," as the couple knelt at conclusion of the ceremony on the prie dieu.

Candles were lighted by Thomas Burk McDuff and Earnest Baccarini.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Fred Adams Childress. She wore a gown of magnolia bridal satin fashioned on princess lines, with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves tapered to lily points over her hands. The skirt extended into a chapel train. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom and she carried a bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids with lily of the valley in a crescent design.

Miss Burma Lee Dyer of Cheneyville and Miss Betty Jean Beall were the bride's attendants. They wore identical gowns of royal blue styled with scoop necklines, fitted bodices and full skirts. They carried colonial bouquets of white carnations with royal blue streamers.

Miss Lynn Wiggers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Wiggers, was flower girl and was dressed identical to the other attendants.

Mr. Colvin served his son as best man. Groomsmen - ushers were Herman Bonner Wiggers Jr., Frank Ray McCormick Jr., Hollis Thomas Rogers Jr., Thomas Burk McDuff and Ernest Emile Baccarini.

For the occasion the bride's aunt, Mrs. F. A. Childress, wore a powder blue model with a lace bodice and panel skirt and a shell pink cymbidium orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue satin sheath gown with matching accessories and a cymbidium orchid.

At a reception following the ceremony the bride's table was covered with a linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums in which reposed two love birds. Assisting with the hospitalities were Mrs. Joel E. Penton, Mrs. H. B. Wiggers, Mrs. Billy R. Sanders, Mrs. James E. Wooldridge and Mrs. J. C. Martin. Presiding at the guest book was Mrs. Frank R. McCormick Jr., sister of the bridegroom.

For travel when the couple left for Hot Springs, Ark., on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a shrimp pink suit with harmonizing acccessories and the orchid from her bouquet. They are making their home at Ft. Necessity.

The bride is a graduate of Ft. Necessity high school and Louisiana State University where she was a member of Delta Zeta social sorority. Mr. Colvin was graduated from Winnsboro high school and Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe.

MR. AND MRS. TOMMY RAY NOBLE

Miss Merilann Ferguson, Mr. Noble Exchange Vows

Baskets of white gladioli and greenery with four branched candelabra holding white tapers on either side of an ivy-entwined arch formed a setting in First Baptist church chapel at Crossett for the wedding of Miss Merilann Janet Ferguson and Tommy Ray Noble. Rev. B. G. Hickem officiated at the double ring ceremony on December 23 at 4 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurl Ferguson of Crossett and Mr. Noble is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Noble, Hamburg.

Mrs. Deanna Tinnell, accompanied by Miss Susan Etheridge, organist, sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "O Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer" at conclusion of the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white winter lace with scalloped pannier overskirt of white bridal satin. The lace bodice was styled with portrait neckline embroidered with pearls and sequins and the bracelet length sleeves were complemented with short white gloves. At each scallop of the full skirt there was a small satin bow accenting the insertion of reembroidered lace. Her waist length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a coronet of pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of white split carnations atop a white Bible.

Miss La Fran Ferguson, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a red velveteen dress styled with scoop neckline and bell skirt with a pillbox hat to which was attached a circlet of net. Red gloves and satin shoes completed her costume and she carried a cascade of red poinsettias showered with red ribbons. The bridesmaid, Miss La Fran Billott of Hamburg was dressed identically to the honor attendant.

Serving as best man was Darrell Streeter of Hamburg and groomsman was Joe Frank Byrd of Crossett. Ushers were Don Noble of Crossett and Charles Tremor, Hamburg.

Mrs. Ferguson chose for her daughter's wedding a sheath of brown lace with matching accessories and corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a jade green sheath with black accessories and carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table, covered with white net over taffeta was centered with a mass arrangement of red poinsettias and greenery. A memory candle graced the guest book table.

Those assisting with reception courtesies were Mrs. Gene Godwin, Mrs. Bobby Owens, Mrs. Joe Frank Byrd and Miss Bonnie Lear, all of Crossett; Mrs. Ruth Hundley, Miss Wanda Ruple and Miss Lillian Hendricks of Monroe.

For a wedding trip to Vicksburg, Mississippi, the bride was wearing a green knit suit with brown accessories and a white carnation corsage. Upon their return the couple will be at home in Crossett where both are employed.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rentz of Minden; Mrs. Ruth Hundley, Miss Wanda Ruple, Rodney M. Johnson, Miss Lillian Hendricks, Miss Dianne Gulledge, Mr. and Mrs. Billy E. Vail, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Craft, all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Maxwell of Hodge; Mrs. Addie Rentz, Ruston; Mr. and Mrs Coy Ferguson, Springhill and Miss Sharon Newsom, Stillwater, Texas.

MRS. B. K. MILLER JR.

Miller-Nelson Nuptials Read In Area Church

Vows uniting Miss Martha Ann Nelson and the Rev. B. K. Miller Jr. were solemnized December 20 at 5:30 p.m. in the Winnsboro First Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nelson Jr., of Winnsboro and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Miller of Sicily Island.

The Rev. Clarence Young, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony in a setting of green and gold. Candelabra holding tall tapers formed a background for a center altar arrangement in a crescent design.

Mrs. C. L. Moore Jr., organist, accompanied Mrs. Eleanor Davis, soloist, and also played traditional nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, etched with Alencon lace, embroidered with seed pearls. The skirt extended into a chapel train. Her veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white Japhet orchids, atop a white Bible, from which fell a rope of pearls.

Miss Ann Miller, maid of honor, wore a frock of green peau de soie, styled with bell - shaped skirt. Her headpiece was of green velvet leaves and feathered carnations and her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, gift of the bride. Misses Dewanna Bryant and Rosemary Nelson, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their dresses of Nile green peau de soie were styled identical to the honor attendant's and they also wore pearls. All attendants carried bouquets of feathered carnations, pearlized grapes and sprays of holly.

Miss Barbara Nelson of Monroe, served as flower girl. She wore a frock of green brocade taffeta and a bandeau of green velvet leaves and feathered carnations. Candles were lighted by Mark Doughty and Bobby Nelson.

Billy Milligan served as best man and groomsmen were Charlie Gorris and Charles Miller. Serving as ushers were Tom Causey, Sherwood White, Mickey Slaughter and Melvin Hawthorne. Jim Nelson was ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a green silk sheath with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Miller, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gray brocade sheath with complimentary accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

A reception following the ceremony was held in fellowship hall of the church where Mrs. Linda Wells of Ruston, presided at the guest book. The table was covered with a pink imported linen cloth with ecru lace medallions and centered with an arrangement of white Fuji chrysanthemums and candles. The tiered wedding cake and crystal punch bowl were at opposite ends of the table.

Mrs. Elmo Blackmon, Mrs. K. C. Kinard, Mrs. C. W. Jones Jr. alternated at the punch bowl and Mrs. Leslie Ledbetter, aunt of the bride, of Ruston, served the cake.

For a wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains the bride was wearing a blue wool suit with otter accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home in Hico. The bride graduated from Winnsboro High School and is now a junior at Louisiana Tech in Ruston. Mr. Miller graduated from Sicily Island High School and Louisiana Tech and is now attending Baptist Theological Seminary in New Orleans.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Variety Of Designs In Flower Displays

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Evergreen Garden Club of Monroe, of which Mrs. I. M. McLain Jr. is president, displayed flower arrangements on the T.V. and Garden Center Show last week. The types of designs including line, line-massed, and massed, brought out the new year theme.

A new idea for the program was introduced on this show — starting out the new year this club has set the pace to be followed by the other club's shows later on.

The arrangements were judged at the T.V. station just before the show came on. The judge then commented on the results of the judging — constructively. This is what the clubs have been wanting. They feel that this constructive criticism by one who knows (an accredited flower-show judge) will aid them in learning more about the art of flower-arranging. This judging had been done before about two years ago, but, done at the Center. The clubs were inspired to work harder toward perfection when they knew a judge would be point - scoring their arrangements. We hope that all who saw this program will agree that this is a delightful way to bring flower arranging to you.

JUDGE

Our Fifth District judge who served as judge and commentator for this show was Mrs. P. A. Colvin of Monroe. Mrs. Colvin is a member of the Monroe garden Club and has taught flower arranging. To begin her program Mrs. Colvin defined a flower arrangement as "The art of organizing the elements used according to the principles of design, to attain beauty, simplicity, expression and harmony."

These principles of design are proportion, balance, rhythm, scale dominance and contrast. As Mrs. Colvin showed each arrangement she reviewed before the viewing audience how these principles of design had been applied by the individual arrangers to their design.

The top - scoring blue ribbon arrangement was made by Mrs. I. M. McLain Jr. Mrs. Colvin brought out that all of these arrangements would rate the blue ribbon. In this case Mrs. McLain's point scoring was higher than the others. So, congratulations, Mrs. McLain. Also, congratulations to the other three ladies for scoring high enough for a blue ribbon also. The arrangements were not judged against each other, but, toward the score of 100 points which is (perfection). It is impossible to obtain the 100 mark since this is perfection and is just what the arranger strives for.

Mrs. McLain used iris leaves in a tiered fashion to form the vertical line of her arrangement. These were placed in a tall green compote ceramic container. Three loquat leaves were placed lower in the design to form the background for the next placement of five small white decorative mums in a slight zig-zag line. For a filler at the base or focal area of the design she used a rosette of variegated pittosporum. Quite simple, yet very pleasing and beautiful to look at.

The next design was made by Mrs. Roy Riley and Mrs. D. W. Tillman. They created a line-massed arrangement using three tiered aspidestra leaves (which had been painted with a flat white paint) for the tallest placement or primary line. For a filler they used a lovely new plastic (almost transparent) fern and frilly shrub. The flowers used were three purple artificial dahlias and one bud. These were placed within the line vertically with the larger dahlia at the base followed by the others graduating to the bud which was placed high in the design. The container was a deep purple glass urn-type vase which blended perfectly with the color of the dahlias. It was so refreshing for the new year.

SCENE

Mrs. McLain chose a scene for her second arrangement. This was a combination of clipped pine, which formed the crescent line, and loquat leaves used low in the design to give weight and balance near the focal area. For the main interest she placed a mother deer and her two babies within the center of the design as though they were prancing through the woods. Snow was sprayed over the entire scene which gave the feeling of the first January snow fall. This would be an ideal arrangement for the den or the child's room.

Mrs. Neal Collins used a piece of driftwood from the gulf which formed a natural crescent design. She painted the wood with black indelible ink. A perfect container for her crescent (massed) line. Within the line of the wood she first placed clipped pine for the main crescent line. This line was filled in with white (alba plena) camellias with their leaves for filler. In the focal area she placed two artificial white orchid iris. A few light green loquat leaves were clustered around these to accent them. This would be lovely for the large den mantle or the large coffee table.

Thanks to these ladies from The Evergreen Garden Club, and, to Mrs. Colvin, for judging and commenting (constructively) on these lovely arrangements. This is the way we learn, and, we do want to learn more and more about the art of flower arranging.

Next week Mrs. G. C. Porter, president of Twilight Garden Club of Monroe, will bring you a most interesting program on ceramics. Mrs. Porter has taught this art for some time and I know you are in for a real treat. So, be sure to watch — next week.

Ball Shaped Plants Plop To Surface

By KAY TATEISHI

SAPPORO, Japan (AP)—On a sunny day the ball-shaped fresh water plants lazily plop to the surface of placid Lake Akan, get their supply of air, and sink again to the lake bottom.

Known as "marimo" or "ballweed," the strange, agile botanical spheres are found only in one remote corner of Hokkaido's Lake Akan, where they attract thousands of visitors annually.

The rare fresh water plants, which make the elevator-like descent several times a day, are dark, sponge-like with a velvety green color and range in size from a green olive to an unripe orange. They were discovered by Dr. Kingo Miyabe in 1897.

SHOCKED

Shocked by careless tourists pilfering the animated plants from Lake Akan and afraid they might become extinct since they were not multiplying, the Japanese government has tried to protect them since 1921. They finally were designated a botanical "national treasure" in March 1952.

Taking the plants from the lake or possession of them is now barred by law.

The decree making them state property spurred the unscrupulous to blackmarket the priceless plants. The government in 1955 issued a nationwide appeal begging marimo owners to return their prized plants to Lake Akan.

The response was a sentimental and sensational success. Marimo owners headed by the Japanese prime minister turned in their plants to government agencies, which had them flown back to Hokkaido.

The rare ball-weeds were admired for their rich color, shape and agility. Some were treasured as weathervanes. Many persons believed the marimo, whenever they plopped to the surface, were forecasting good weather.

Actually their appearance is a sign the weather is already good. Sunlight affects the buoyancy of the marimos through the process of photosynthesis by which plants convert light energy into oxygen and food.

At night the marimos stay on the bottom. On sunny days they surface. When it's cloudy, they linger in between.

"Some 2,000 marimo, discounting the feeble and sick, were returned home because of the appeal," said Yoshishige Todoroki, deputy chief of the Hokkaido prefectural government's tourist section.

PROTECTION

The prefectural government, Todoroki said, spent 1.3 million yen—$5,000 dollars—to ensure their protection. Experts erected special enclosures to keep sightseeing boats from churning over the beds. Measures also were taken to protect them from typhoons, thoughtless tourists and thieves.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

This week's winner of a Tailor Tailor Trix pressing board is, Mrs. Ralph J. Stewart, Royal Oak, Mich., who sends this suggestion.

"Whenever I have a blouse with a 'slit' on the side, or a slit or pleat in a skirt, I sew a hook from a hook and eye set, just above the opening. This prevents the garment from ripping open from the constant strain and pull on the fabric."

POCKET PROBLEMS

"Dear Eunice,

Being the mother of 4 boys, my sewing is not the 'glamour' type, but rather patching and mending. Since they all got new shirts for Christmas, perhaps you can help me with one of my biggest headaches, TORN POCKETS. Among the top repair jobs are replacing buttons, and knee patches."

Mrs. M.R.

Dear Mrs. M.R.:

I think there is a rather simple solution to your "pocket" problems. Baste a strip of muslin across the top of the pocket, on the WRONG side of the shirt. This strip of muslin should be about two inches wide and one inch longer than the pocket. From the RIGHT side of the shirt, machine stitch over the previous stitching, from the top corner down about two inches. Use a rather small machine stitch and double stitch at the corners. This added piece of fabric under the pocket will do wonders in preventing the pocket tears.

As to replacing buttons: May I suggest you sew them on with a shank, in other words, not too tight or close to the garment. I would use button-hole twist for sewing on these buttons, or else heavy duty thread. Many of our readers have also suggested using ELASTIC thread, you may also try this.

When sewing "knee patches" on jeans, it is best to use the press on type of patches. After the patches have been pressed on, machine stitch close to the outer edges. The machine stitching will not show and will prevent curling up and pulling off in the washer and dryer. When machine stitching any small, hard to get at place, turn this part of the garment wrong side out. In this way, the presser foot will fit nicely in the narrow area since there will be nothing pulling it out of position from under the presser foot.

CUTTING FUR

You are really on your "toes"! Thanks to all of you who immediately wrote me about the recent column on handling fur.

It was on omission on my part when I neglected to tell you to use a RAZOR BLADE when cutting the pelt. This is absolutely necessary and important in order to avoid cutting the hairs of the fur. Since you have marked your fur on the "pelt" side, you would also cut from this side.

USE NEEDLES

"Dear Eunice:

"In pinning a pure silk taffeta fabric recently, I noticed pin marks, even though I had used the finest silk pins available, as you suggested. These marks don't even come out in pressing. Can you give us any help on this?"

Mrs. F.G.

Dear Mrs. F. G.:

Often a very fine pure silk taffeta or satin will show pin marks more readily than any other fabric. We have figured out a solution. Use No. 9 or No. 10 needles instead of pins and remove them just before machine stitching. These will completely avoid any marks because they are much finer than the finest pin.

While we're on the subject, I might add another tip or two. Be sure and use a new sewing machine needle for machine stitching any silk fabrics. Use the finest needle you can buy and don't sew over pins. Also, when doing any basting, use SILK THREAD. the thread marks will not show if you have to press over bastings.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY:

Underlay: This is usually a piece of fabric placed under other pieces to give the effect of a slot seam. An underlay could also be a separate piece of fabric applied in a pleat.

If you need help with bound buttonholes, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for "Bound Buttonholes." Address Eunice Farmer in care of Monroe Morning World.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Chinese Fir Is Misnamed

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The large prickly conifer that we grow in the south and call "Chinese fir" is not a fir at all but a Cunninghamia. James Cunningham for whom it was named was a doctor with the British East India Company in China. He discovered this beautiful conifer on the Island of Chusan in 1701. Linnaeus who named so many of our plants might very well have named the camellia plant for James Cunningham instead of for the monk, Camellus, because it was Cunningham who actually sent the first dried specimens of camellias to England. Camellus probably never saw a camellia. Linnaeus just named it in his honor.

TALL TREES

All through ancient Chinese art, you will see the tall trees of Cunninghamia, with their luxuriant long prickly leaves in two rows like double - edged combs. We can hardly call the wide leaves needles as we do in other conifers. Not many conifers keep their leaves or needles five years as Cunninghamia does, either, but it is a member of the pine family just the same.

Cunninghamia gets to be a forest tree 150 feet tall at home in China. Some of us who have planted specimens of this tree in our foundation plantings have found this out after a few years and been forced to cut it down and use it for Christmas decorations! In the background or as a free - standing specimen, however, Cunninghamia is a striking tree. It can be maintained as a very large evergreen shrub for 1 to 20 years and then allowed to grow to its full size.

WELL SUITED

Cunninghamia is well suited to the southern states. It suffers from the extreme cold in northern regions. Like the gingko tree, Cunninghamia is a member of a long lost tribe of plants, the fossils of which have been found over large areas. In his travels in China, the famous "Chinese Wilson," late keeper of the Arnold Arboretum at Boston, found extensive forests of our Cunninghamia. In 1904, he visited an area in the Tung Valley where Cunninghamia wood that had lain buried for two or three hundred years was being dug up or washed up. Such wood was highly valued for coffins, and a coffin made of it, he said, would bring as much as 400 to 1,000 ounces of silver because it was practically indestructible.

The lumber from the tall Cunninghamia trees which Wilson found growing in China in the red sandstone regions was the most valued of all their timbers for building purposes. The bark of the trees was used for roofing, and the wood for all kinds of interior work in the houses of the Chinese.

STUDENTS GET FIRST LOOK

STRATFORD, Con. (AP)—Student spectators hereafter will be ahead of —instead of behind—regular audiences at Shakespeare productions in the Festival theater.

The first two productions of the upcoming summer season, Part I of "henry IV" and "Richard II" are to be displayed when the school audience program begins in April. Previously, productions of preceding seasons have been revived for showing in the widely popular scholastic project.

HULA LESSONS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Hula dancing "graduation" ceremonies are a tradition on Matson line cruises to Hawaii.

Passengers take lessons during the trip from San Francisco. On the last night before getting into Honolulu, they do their stuff as the highlight of a floor show before other passengers.

Sounds Work Brings Flow Of Finances

NEW YORK (UPI) — The odds are more than 4 to 1 that the record player in your home has an automatic changer produced by a Scottish-born engineer who went into business 28 years ago with $1,500 and now is a yacht-owning multi-millionaire.

The company is Birmingham Sound Reproducers, Ltd., with several plants in the British Isles and Australia and a branch in New York.

The guiding genius behind the company is Dr. Daniel McLean McDonald, chairman of the board and managing director, an honor engineering graduate of Glasgow University who later became a doctor of medicine "as an exercise for the brain."

During the economic crisis of 1932, McDonald decided to risk going into business for himself. He set up shop on a country side street in Old Hill, Staffordshire, England, to produce custom-built hi-fi and other electronic equipment.

RISK DECISION

This was many years before the hi-fi and stereo fads developed, but his business prospered. When World War II came, the army wanted to put him on duty as a medical officer, but the admiralty won his services as a manufacturer of weapons for defense against enemy bombs and mines.

After the war, McDonald returned to the production of audio equipment. With the advent of the long-playing record, Decca Records asked him to develop a low-priced record-player for the British market. McDonald began mass production of record players, drawing upon some American techniques, and put them on the market around the world.

The company expanded rapidly and now makes components for about 70 per cent of the hi-fi sets sold in Canada and a larger proportion of those in use in Britain. McDonald estimates that more than 25 per cent of the packaged monaural and stereo hi-fi sets and radio-TV-phono combinations made by major U.S. manufacturers contain his equipment.

AVID READER

Birmingham Sound Reproducers became a public corporation three years ago. Its profits have soared from $66,000 in 1949 to $3,881,000 in 1959. Assets total $13,140,859. McDonald's personal earnings in the last eight years have totaled $25 million.

McDonald is an avid reader in medicine, religion and philosophy and recently has become a student of the drama, particularly of the plays of Chekov. He is writing an economic history of great Britain because he has been unable to find a book to answer his questions in this area.

EXTENSION NEWS

All America Rose Roster

By AUDREY DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to add a few roses to your garden, perhaps you'd like to consider the list of All America rose selections for 1962 which includes King's Ransom, Christian Dior, John S. Armstrong and Golden Slippers. King's Ransom is a sparkling yellow hybrid tea with long slender buds, flower averaging five to six inches across, are borne in great abundance above shiny dark green foliage.

The open blooms are extremely resistant to adverse weather conditions. Christian Dior, the crimson red color of this hybird tea is overlaid with iridescent scarlet and the color remains steadfast throughout the life of the flowers. Bloom is abundant and continuous. Plants are vigorous. This rose is exceptionally good as a cut flower.

John S. Armstrong as a dark velvety red grandiflora boasts a former All American winner. Charlotte Armstrong is one of its parents. Its color does not fade and flowers are borne in clusters on long strong stems.

GOLDEN SLIPPERS

Golden Slippers is a brilliant true orange floribunda with small pointed buds of bright red, orange and gold. Flowers are are borne in large clusters in great profusion and are small to medium in size with 18 to 25 petals.

Duet and Pink Parfait were the 1961 All American roses.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, want a plant that is easy to grow, does not have any disease, or insects do not attack, the nandina is the answer and I must remind you that there is a dwarf form now on the market. Ask your nurseryman about this variety.

It is a dwarf form of the common nandina which never grows more than about 10 inches in height. It thrives even in full shade and is always neat without pruning and is of easy culture.

January and February are an excellent times to work up and prepare flower beds and also to work up and fertilize around trees and shrubs. Remember, if you have azaleas in the bed, mulch them instead of cultivating as the feeder roots are near the surface of the soil. A mulch will conserve during summer months and will also help keep down weeds.

GLOVE FASHIONS

Gloves go to all lengths this year in presenting a pretty fashion point according to our clothing specialist, Miss Fae Roark.

Length of glove is described in terms of buttons from the base of the thumb to glove top. Starting with the briefest glove of all the one which stops short at the wrist, gloves continue from two button to 20 plus, with each glove playing its own smart role. The very short glove wears a young and jaunty air. The eight button glove is a staple in your wardrobe but 10-12 to 16 button lengths are increasingly important.

Crushed in luxurious folds, longer gloves have become a beautiful and important accessory for costumes with any sleeve length and for any time.

On very formal occasions with a bare armed gown, only opera (reaches to middle or upper arm) or shoulder length is correct.

For other occasions, there's no one answer. Use your own good fashion taste, but the one thing to avoid is too short a gap between sleeve and glove that looks unintentional as if the sleeve had shrunk.

SOMETHING NEW

Cloth patterns are being made of batiste or other lightweight fabrics that could be used as lining or underlining for the garment cut out by it.

Another new in clothing construction is pattern lay - outs. The pattern unfolds to be a complete lay - out instead of a separate pattern pieces to be placed for a lay out.

Patterns for the physically handicapped are now available. A tailored blouse and wrap around skirt pattern was developed by the USA. One pattern company has already developed some of the patterns.

A THOUGHT

If someone were to pay 10 cents for every kind word you ever spoke about people, and collect five cents for every unkind word, would you be rich or poor.

APPROVES ACQUISITION

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Glidden Co. announced that the acquisition of a 25 per cent stock interest in a major Japanese paint firm, Sekisan Kako Kaisha, Ltd., has been approved by the Japanese government.

It's a small wonder!

Half of the fun of growing up is pretending to do the things big people do. Most of us have experienced this personally. For their size, it is always amazing that these little people seem to accomplish things long before expected.

The same is true for those little ads that appear usually in the back of the paper. They are the ones that do Herculean tasks, far beyond our fondest expectations.

Take our suggestion; place a profitable, inexpensive want ad today; see for yourself why News-Star —World Want Ads are described as "a small wonder!"

Judith Baker Is Bride Of Mr. Keeth

MRS. CHARLES RAY KEETH

Miss Judith Lynn Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baker of Crossett became the bride of Charles Ray Keeth, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Keeth of Shreveport, in a ceremony solemnized at 6 p.m. Friday, December 29 at the Crossett Church of Christ.

Ed Sanders of Bossier City, performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of white chrysanthemums and huckleberry against a background arrangement of four seven-branched candelabra holding white tapers. Nuptial music was taken from recordings of the Harding College A Capella Chorus.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white silk peau de soie with empire lines and a bodice of reembroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls. A single strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom, accented the Sabrina neckline. The bell-shaped skirt was styled with a soft polonaise drape with obi sash from which extended the square cathedral train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was attached to a pearl encrusted pill box. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis surrounding a white orchid atop a white Bible.

Miss Kerry Hardcastle of Pangburn, Arkansas, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Dianne Camp Garner of El Dorado and Miss Hannah Ware of Crossett. They wore gowns of emerald green acetate on princess lines with bell skirts and carried colonial bouquets of white blossoms.

Miss Terri Baker, sister of the bride, acted as flower girl. She was dressed in a mint green peau de soie frock with overskirt of nylon organdy and carried a basket of white flowers.

Jim Keeth attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Bill and Jerry Keeth, cousins of the bridegroom and Dennis Earl Baker, brother of the bride. Candles were lighted by David Baker, brother of the bride and Robert Dennis Baker, her cousin.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Baker chose a sheath dress of ice blue silk with scoop neckline and three - quarter sleeves. Matching lace formed inserts at the bodice and a front panel of the skirt. She wore matching blue shoes and hat. Mrs. Keeth, mother of the groom, wore a gown of rose beige tiered lace with satin trim, matching shoes and a hat of rose beige feathers and pearls.

A reception was held in the Pine Room of the Rose Inn Hotel. The bride's table was covered with an embroidered white cloth of nylon over white net and satin and was centered with a white cherub candelabra with an arrangement of white carnations and five tapers. The tiered wedding cake and silver punch bowl were at opposite ends of the table and presided over by Miss Jolene Pendergrass and Mrs. Don Sullivan. A serving table, similarly covered held a central arrangement of white carnations in a footed crystal compote. The guest book was presided over by Miss Martha Madden at a table on which rested a white memory candle adorned with lily of the valley and pearls in poufs of tulle.

After a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Monroe where both are students at Northeast Louisiana State College.

In a candlelight setting Miss Linda Lee Lightsey became the bride of Billy Ray Hendrix on Wednesday, December 20 at 7 p.m. in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lightsey of Kilbourne. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Hendrix, also of Kilbourne.

Rev. Roger White performed the double ring ceremony beneath an arch entwined with ivy and flanked by baskets of white gladioli, pompon chrysanthemums and fern. From the center of the arch hung two wedding bells tied with white satin bows. Branched candelabra holding tall white tapers completed the background setting for the wedding which was attended by members of the two families and a few close friends.

Appropriate nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Don Murray, organist, who also accompanied Mrs. Roger White as she sang "Whither Thou Goest." Candles were lighted by Glynn Lightsey, brother of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of white silk organza and lace, styled with scoop neckline, fitted bodice with a shirred cummerbund and full gathered skirt. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of pearls featuring a large tear drop in the center. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Betty Sue Fryer served as maid of honor and wore a gown of sky blue silk faille, styled with scoop neckline and gathered skirt. Her headpeice was of matching material, edged with three rows of blue net ruffles and she carried a bouquet of white carnations, tied with blue ribbon.

Serving as best man was Melvin Ward.

Mrs. Lightsey chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of beige crepe with which she wore green accessories and a matching corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a printed navy crepe ensemble with a corsage of white carnations.

A green and white theme was carried out in all details of the reception which followed the ceremony. An arrangement of ivy and white candles centered the buffet and the bride's book was placed on a small round table decorated with a memory candle. Guests were invited to register by Miss Sylvia Lightsey, sister of the bride. The bride's table covered with a white linen cloth had for its center arrangement the bride's bouquet, surrounded by tall white candles. Two wedding bells were suspended above the table. The wedding cake in green and white was served by Miss Shirley Kay Roberts and lime punch by Miss Donna Edwards, cousin of the bride.

When the couple left for a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a black and white jersey dress with black accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Monroe where both will continue studies at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Mississippi Solons Hoist Storm Signs

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Three factors—the state's financial condition, a bill to investigate kickbacks to public officials and disunity in Gov. Barnett's forces—raised storm warnings for the coming week in the state legislature.

The Senate gave an indication of what is to come last week when it got in a squabble over parliamentary procedures on a resolution to keep Negroes out of the galleries.

Sen. George Yarbrough of Red Banks, president pro tempore of the Senate and a Barnett floor leader, withdrew his motion for immediate consideration of the resolution after strong protests and called for "peace and harmony."

On the financial scene, Barnett has maintained that existing taxes and other sources of money are enough to finance a $283.8 million budget for 1962-64. But recently released state tax figures do little to support his optimism.

Tax collections increased an average of almost $9 million yearly between 1955 and 1960, but the 1961 increase over 1960 amounted to little more than $4 million.

Last month every major tax produced less revenue than in December of 1960 and the December total collections were down more than $100,000 over a year earlier.

The sales tax revenues, regarded as the best single indicator of business activity, increased only .42 per cent in 1961 over 1960. The increase in 1960 over 1959 was 3.46 per cent, while the 1959 increase over 1958 was 13.89 per cent.

Several lawmakers, feeling that Barnett was putting the bee on their back by advocating teacher pay raises with no tax increase, supported a move by Rep. Jesse Chaffin of Prentiss County.

Chaffin's resolution, which failed 42-40, called on Barnett to outline how he expects to get teacher pay raises in view of the tight financial situation of the state.

A bill calling for a special investigating committee to look into alleged kickbacks to county supervisors passed the Senate and head for uncertain fate in the House.

Rep. Jerry O'Keefe of Harrison County, chairman of the Temperance Committee and a strong backer of legalized liquor, has indicated he will attempt to tack an ammendment on this bill.

Police Blame Bootleg War For Slaying

TUPELO, Miss. (UPI) — Authorities held an ex-convict Saturday in connection with the predawn slaying of James William (Jamie) Grubbs, 33, a reputed Lee County bootlegger.

Sheriff Frank Carter said two alleged eyewitnesses identified J. W. Riley of Bissell as the man who shot and killed Grubbs in front yard of a Lee County rural home about an hour after midnight.

Officers believed the shooting stemmed from an apparent bootleg war which began in the area last September. At least two past attempts have been made to harm Grubbs, who owned Grubbie's place about five miles south of Shannon, south of here.

Carter said the shooting occurred at the home of Bowlin Kidd who lives about a mile west of Shannon.

Bill Miles, a reporter for the Tupelo Journal, said he received an anonymous telephone tip about 12:10 a.m. and was told, "go to Grubbie's place if you want a good story. He is going to be killed."

Miles said he asked the caller if there had been any shooting yet and the caller replied, "not yet" and hung up. Miles said he then called Carter who went to Kidd's home and found Grubbs wounded with a shotgun blast in the stomach.

Grubbs died about 2 a.m., Carter said.

Miles said Grubbs "had a reputation for being a bootlegger."

The bootleg battles began last September, apparently over who would control the county's liquor business.

Carter said Grubbs home was "shot up" last fall and later a gunman in a speeding car fired several shots into Grubbie's place. One of Grubb's employes reportedly returned the fire.

Carer said Riley had been charged with a recent safe burglary in New Albany and was out of jail on bond.

Store Bandit's Shotgun Blast Grazes Clerk

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — An aging grocery clerk was grazed by a shotgun blast Saturday when he went for a gun to prevent a predawn holdup.

Roy Fulton, 72, was reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital after the shooting. Police said the shotgun blast grazed his head.

Fulton was standing at the rear of the store when three Negro gunmen, one wearing a Halloween mask, entered and leveled a shotgun at another clerk, Emery Black, 62.

Fulton slipped over to a cabinet where a pistol was kept, but was spotted just as he got the gun. He said he managed to get off a shot but the Negro with the shotgun fired at him.

The holdup men, all described in their 20s, grabbed $90 from the cash register and fled.

Local Man Dies Funeral Rites Scheduled Today

LEGISLATURE SESSION

Solons To Face Funds Problems

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Tough realists in Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' administration are beginning to put their minds to the agonizing financial problems ahead should a Tidelands settlement remain out of reach.

The 1962 legislature will be a political spectacle in more ways than one, and money is likely to be the main show.

Budgets are being prepared now, although only a trickle have been submitted so far to budget officer Homer Russell and commissioner of administration James S. Reily.

The deadline for budgets is Jan. 15.

With tax raises currently regarded an almost hopeless task, in view of the two-thirds majority vote required, the governor and the legislature will have to do a lot of hard thinking.

That is what is beginning to take shape now—just in case. Gov. Davis already has told the people his administration is not counting on any Tidelands settlement to get by.

The hopes are still there and what happens in Congress may give a glimpse of the chances for a Tidelands settlement.

Politicians of any faction will tell you, privately, that while everyone talks about economy and belt tightening in troubled times, when the choice has to be made between cutting back state services or finding more revenue—the public balks at losing any services.

And, the public is certain to bristle at any general tax raises, called for while a million-dollar mansion is being built.

Even the segregation question wasn't powerful enough to put through a sales tax raise last year.

While there is no official confirmation, new ideas are beginning to float around on how to obtain more money.

One of them which definitely has been discussed, with no action whatsoever so far, involves homestead exemptions.

Both former Govs. Earl K. Long and Robert Kennon at one time advocated getting the state out of the property tax field and turning it over entirely to local government. But politics being what it is, nothing came of it.

There were reasons. Homestead exemptions are involved. In the current year, the state will refund about $35 million in taxes to parishes for homestead exemptions.

This year, the property tax relief fund, which provides the money for these refunds, is expected to have surplus of at least $17 million. Into it will go some $42 million in state income taxes, $7 million in alcoholic beverage taxes, ad $3 million in public utilities taxes—for a $52 million total.

A key fact to remember is that while the state constitution calls for homestead exemptions up to $2,000 from state and local property taxes, the same constitutional provision in effect says the exemptions apply only according to the amount of funds available in the property tax relief fund.

The idea more than once has been mentioned in the past that the legislature could simply divert into the state general fund the taxes now dedicated to the property tax relief fund, and the heavy expense of the homestead exemptions would be eliminated. A simple legislative majority vote could do it.

Other ideas have been to divert just part of the taxes now going to the property tax relief fund, when House values were a lot closer to that figure than they are now.

While neither Davis nor his leaders have given their views on this, some in the capitol long have considered the homestead exemption refund process unrealistic in the light of modern incomes and much higher average home values.

Any action along these lines would mean one way or the other home owners would have to ante up more.

State leaders would be extremely cautious about any move to boost industry taxes, in view of efforts being made to build the state's economy through attracting new industry.

Any move for more money, if attempted, would step on someone's toes.

Any move for more money, if attempted, would step on someone's toes.

The reason is, the state tax of 5.75 mills is dedicated to old building authority bond issues, the Toledo Bend project, public schools and Louisiana State University.

Always in the minds of some state officials are such facts as these:

While Caddo Parish taxpayers this year will pay $9,666,000 of their total $12,007,000 property tax bill, with the state granting only $2,341,000, in homestead exemption refunds, Jefferson Parish taxpayers will pay out only $7,359,000 of their $12,841,000 property tax total—with the state making up the balance of $5,482,000.

Leader Fans War Fervor In Indonesia

PAREPARE, Celebes, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno fanned Indonesian war fervor over Dutch New Guinea Saturday but told his people to "be patient just a little longer."

His counsel to be patient was taken to mean he still has hopes of winning the disputed territory by negotiation.

Sukarno, addressing a mass rally at this strategic south Celebes port, repeated his promise to take over New Guinea this year, however, and said he already had chosen the Papuan natives of the territory who will govern the 700,000 population.

He said he could not disclose the name of the new governor, however, because he was still in New Guinea and might be punished by the Dutch.

Sukarno already has proclaimed Dutch New Guinea a province of Indonesia and given it the name of West Irian.

Speaking from the same platform were two Papuans, J. Dimara and Fritz Kirikeo, and two chiefs of the Indonesian armed services.

"We don't need to wait any longer to attack the Dutch in West Irian," said Dimara, a Papuan nationalist.

"We are united in our great struggle to free West Irian," declared Kirikeo, a student in the Netherlands. "No one will be able to stop us."

In his appeal to Indonesian patriotic sentiment, Sukarno declared: "We are the fifth biggest nation in the world and our strongest asset is spirit. We can be patient just a little longer because I am certain our red and white flag will fly over West Irian this year."

New Statement Of Faith Gets Council's Okay

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The World Council of Churches approved a new "statement of faith" during its third assembly here. It is:

"We confess Jesus Christ, Savior of men and the light of the world; Together we accept His Command; We commit ourselves anew to bear witness to Him among men; We offer ourselves to serve all men in love, that love which He alone imparts; We accept afresh our calling to make visible our unity in Him; We pray for the gift of the Holy Spirit for our task."

Ferriday Club To Meet Soon

FERRIDAY (Special) — The Concordia Parish Cowbelles will meet Tuesday, January 16, for a dutch treat luncheon to be held at Cornett's Cafe.

State and parish dues will be collected at this meeting and topic of the program will be "The Beef Promotion."

Katanga Asks Clarification On Advisers

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—The question of Katanga's employment of foreign advisers and soldiers appeared Saturday night to be the chief hurdle in this seceded province's return to the Congo.

Even this point did not seem to be giving U.N. representatives in Katanga too much concern.

Jean Nawezi, press secretary of the Katanga Assembly, told newsmen the Foreign Affairs Commission Thursday decided to recommend ratification of the first seven points of President Moise Tshombe's agreement at Kitona to end his 17-months claim to independence from the Congo.

These points included the controversial first article of the Kitona Pact in which Tshombe agreed that the Congo's fundamental law, or provisional constitution, applied to Katanga.

Nawezi said, however, that the commission members were having difficulty with the eighth and final point and that they wanted U.N. representatives to sit in with them to clarify it.

This was the point in which Tshombe agreed all U.N. resolutions on the Congo applied to Katanga.

"We know that the resolutions require all foreign mercenaries and advisers to quit Katanga but we would like to have it all spelled out to us by a U.N. official," Nawezi said.

He explained that the commission felt U.N. resolutions cut across the Congo constitution which "definitely allows the provinces of the Congo the choice of their own technicians and advisers and there is obvious difficulty in accepting both the constitution and the U.N. resolutions."

U.N. sources confirmed that a request for clarification of U.N. resolutions had been received.

Monroe Woman Succumbs; Final Rites Set Today

Mrs. Lutha W. Miles, 82, a resident of Monroe for the past 50 years, died in a Monroe hospital around noon Saturday following a lengthy illness.

Funeral services will be held in the Mulhearn Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. George W. Pomeroy officiating, assisted by the Rev. Ernest Halloway.

Burial will be in the Riverview Cemetery under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Mrs. Miles was a native of Vienna and a member of the First Methodist Church of Monroe.

Survivors include one son, Douglas J. Miles, New Orleans; and two grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Earl Brimberry, McVea Oliver, Victor Davis, Jack Knowles, Glenn Walker, and Bert Williams.

Stahr To Speak At Ceremonies For Middleton

BATON ROUGE (AP) — U.S. Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr., a man with a distinguished background as an educator, lawyer and soldier, will be the main speaker at Thursday's convocation honoring Louisiana State University's retiring President Troy H. Middleton.

The farewell ceremonies honoring Middleton are sponsored by the university faculty, students, administration, alumni and board of supervisors. Gov. Jimmie H. Davis also has set aside the day for the state to honor Middleton.

Stahr will arrive at Ryan Airport here from Fort Caffee, Ark. His schedule also calls for him to fly to England Air Force Base at Alexandria and to visit Fort Polk.

The honorary degree of doctor o laws will be conferred on Secretary Stahr and President Middleton at ceremonies.

Stahr, sworn in as secretary of the Army last January, was formerly president of West Virginia University, dean of the college of law and provost at the University of Kentucky, and vice chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh.

Tower Says Liberals Big U.S. Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., told conservatives Saturday to leave demagoguery and name-calling to the liberals.

He also said that to be effective politically, conservatives must work within the framework of an established party—and at the precinct and block level.

Tower, the first Republican senator from Texas since the reconstruction era, received an ovation from some 500 conservatives gathered here for a political action conference sponsored by Human Events, a Washington newsletter.

He told a luncheon meeting that the nation is experiencing a resurgence of conservatism and ascribed this in part to what he termed the increasing political sophistication and maturity of voters.

"We must appeal to their reason," he said. "We can't get our message across by shouting slogans and calling everyone who disagrees with us Communists."

Tower credited the liberals with having been smarter politicians than the conservatives, but he said, "We make a mistake when we resort to the same emotionalism and demagoguery they do."

With only a passing reference to "the socialistic schemes of the New Frontiersmen," Tower said the real threat to the nation comes not from known Communists but from liberals who are "too visionary and too Utopian."

He said the most effective thing conservatives can do is to elect to Congress persons who represent their own convictions.

Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., also told the group the conservative cause can't be advanced by "reckless charges against those with whom we disagree."

Like Tower, he said conservatives should work through an established party. But Rhodes went a step further and said conservatives could be effective in politics only by working through the Republican party.

While Tower did not go that far, he said the Democratic party is owned by the liberals "lock, stock and barrel."

Rhodes urged a firm stand against appeasement of the Soviet bloc, called the U.S.S.R. an overrated opponent, and said foreign aid is being used in Africa and elsewhere to bolster Communist regimes.

Washington Ball Chairman Set Directs Event

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — Cecil Middleton, DeRidder businessman, has been named chairman of the Lovely Louisiana Tourist Association's planning committee which will direct activities for the annual Mardi Gras Ball in Washington on March 3.

The ball, highlight of Washington's social season, will be staged around the theme of "Lovely Louisiana" and is being sponsored this year by the LLTA.

State Senator Sylvan Friedman, president of the association, also said A.S.E. (Barney) Barneet, Lake Charles banker, will serve with Middleton as vice chairman for the planning work.

Congressman T. A. Thompson of Ville Platte, Washington chairfor the affair, said both Middleton and Barnett will pick their committee members in the near future and draft detailed arrangements with the help of key advisors across the state.

In a joint statement concerning the appointments, both Thompson and Friedman said that the tourism theme "will give Louisiana an unequaled opportunity to advertise its magnificent tourist attractions in a setting which will attract national attention. It is through the assistance of such men as Cecil Middleton and Barney Barnett that we hope to make this Mardi Gras ball the best ever held."

Booster Singing Convention Set Today At 1:30

A Booster Singing convention is scheduled to be held this afternoon at 1:30 p.m. in the Missouri Pacific Booster Hall, on Ouachita Avenue.

Booster singing sessions are held regularly each first Sunday afternoon monthly.

Today being the first Sunday in the new year, will mark the 25th year this convention has met each month. In the past the first Sunday in June and November of each year have been the only exceptions to the rule because of the state convention held on those days.

The singing organization held its first session in January of 1937. At that time the late Sidney A. Moss was serving as president of the group.

Garland May is presently serving as head of the group.

Several singing groups are expected to attend today's session of Booster singing.

The Barnet Quartet, of Crossett, Ark., Curtis Doss and Quartet, the Robinson Quartet, Robinettes, Inspirational Quartet, Rhymaries Quartet, Southern Quartet, and many other leading song directors are expected to be present at the convention.

In the past few years many of the nation's top singing groups have appeared at the Booster convention including the Blackwood Brothers Quartet, Stamps Quartet, and Hartford Quartet.

State Commissioner of Agriculture Dave L. Pearce and Edgar Pearce of Baton Rouge are expected to join the session, along with Otis Deaton, of Newsome, Tex.

Officials of the organization are issuing invitations to everyone to attend today's session of Gospel singing.

Meet Monday

The regular January meeting of the Ouachita Parish Association for Retarded children will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the First National Bank auditorium.

William Harris, president, will preside.

MISSISSIPPI FUGITVE

Officials Probing Story Of Convict

LYNN, Mass. (AP) — Law enforcement officers held a lenghty inquiry in police headquarters Saturday in efforts to assembly the facts in the case of Kimble Berry, 24, wanted as a fugitive from a Mississippi prison.

Meeting in private Saturday afternoon, with police stenographers present, were Berry, his mother Mabel, two police inspectors who have been working on the case, and assistant district attorney of Essex County John J. Jennings. An FBI man also was reported at the session.

The meeting was suggested by Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack who said the facts are wanted by his Mississippi counterpart Joe Patterson. Patterson sought the facts in the event the Mississippi Legislature asks for them.

Berry was arrested at the request of Mississippi authorities after he told Lynn police he had been given a 10-day leave of absence from prison at Parchman, Miss., to retrieve $500,000 from the robbery someone else committed.

He said he was given a loaded gun and a $7,000 Cadillac for the mission. Berry said he was frightened away from a bank in Keiser, Ark., where the loot allegedly was kept, and drove to the home of his brother in Lynn.

Berry's mother left her home in Greenville, Miss., to join her son in Lynn. She said she was hounded in a restaurant where she worked. She added she was told that if her son returned South "the $15,000 he was promised won't be enough—he'll get $25,000 and can keep the Cadillac."

Lynn police have placed the car in a garage. Berry said he sold the gun while enroute north because he had no money.

Acting police chief Thomas P. Costin presided at the inquiry. Facts uncovered will be given to Atty. Gen. McCormack.

Berry's counsel, Frank E. Riley Jr., said before entering the conference room he will appeal for his client's full pardon. He said:

"My client has more than paid for any of his past troubles. He has cooperated 100 per cent with Massachusetts authorities. He ran directly to probation authorities here.

'After I heard his accounts of prison life in Mississippi and the way he was induced into this scheme, I am satisfied no one would ever want him to go back to that state and its prison.

'Let Mississippi clean its own house and keep its own troubles down south. I am interested only to see justice done for my client."

Mississippi prison authorities said Berry was given a routine 10-day Christmas leave and that they requested his arrest when he overstayed his leave.

Papers granting the leave were taken from the police safe and brought to the inquiry room.

GOP Leaders To Attend Meet Next Weekend

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) —The Oklahoma GOP is ready to be host to party leaders attending the Republican National Committee meeting here next Friday and Saturday, State Chairman Henry Bellmon said Saturday.

"Plans for the most important Republican meeting ever held in Oklahoma are in the final stages," Bellmon said.

More than 200 Republican leaders from across the country are expected, including national committeemen and state chairmen. Bellmon said their sessions here will help break the Democrats' 54-year control in Oklahoma.

A campaign already is under way to elect Oklahoma's first Republican governor, three congressmen and a U.S. senator in 1962—probably the most ambitious goal ever set by local Republicans. Rep. Page Zelcher, Enid, now is the lone GOP member of Oklahoma's congressional delegation.

Principal speakers during the committee meeting will be William E. Miller, national Republican chairman, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif.

STEVE CANYON

MILTON CANIFF

STEVE IS SHUFFLING PAPERS IN THE PENTAGON, BUT IN POTEET'S WORLD AT MAUMEE, THINGS ARE POPPING IN CAMPUS POLITICS...

I WANT A FULL REPORT ON HOW MANY OF THE FRATERNITIES WILL SUPPORT OUR TEKKIE FOR SNOW BALL QUEEN...

WELL, I TOLD MY JERRY THAT IF HE DIDN'T LINE UP HIS HOUSE, HE'D GET NO KISSIN' TILL EASTER!

BRAVE GIRL!

I READ ABOUT SOME GREEK WOMEN WHO DID THAT ONCE...

BUT LOOK WHAT HAPPENED TO GREECE!

GIRLS! STAY ON THE SUBJECT! —NOW WHO IS THIS MISS LATTE LAVACCA ON THE LIST OF QUEEN CANDIDATES?

SOME FRESHMAN FROM THE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT ACROSS THE RIVER!..WE DON'T NEED TO WORRY ABOUT HER

THEN, AS THE CAMPAIGN GETS INTO HIGH GEAR, SEVERAL INTERESTING THINGS HAPPEN... CLOSING TIME IN THE LIBRARY...

HERE ARE SOME BOOKS WITH THE NAME OF MISS LATTE LAVACCA, AG. SCHOOL, IN THE FLYLEAF!

THESE KIDS ARE SO CARELESS! SHE'LL PROBABLY NEED THOSE BOOKS TONIGHT! TOO LATE NOW!

AND A PAIR OF GIRL'S GYM SHOES TURN UP IN THE LOST AND FOUND DEPARTMENT...

"L. LAVACCA, AG. SCHOOL"! SHE SURE HAS TINY FEET!

THEY'LL BE BIG ENOUGH TO WALK OVER HERE ON—AND CLAIM HER PROPERTY!

AFTER SEVERAL SIMILAR INCIDENTS IT IS CLEAR THAT MISS L. LaV. GETS AROUND, HOWEVER CASUALLY! BUT WHEN THE PUBLICITY COMMITTEE FOR THE SNOW BALL PHONES HER SPONSORS IN THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE...

WE'LL NEED A PHOTO OF YOUR CANDIDATE FOR ADVANCE NEWSPAPER RELEASES

FRANKLY, I'M EMBARRASSED! WE ENTERED LATTE IN THE CONTEST BECAUSE SHE'S SO POPULAR...

BUT WE DID NOT ASK HER PERMISSION—AND NOW SHE WON'T ALLOW US TO SEND HER PHOTO!

WELL, DON'T BLAME US IF YOUR GIRL GETS NO PUBLICITY! WE TRIED!..

YES, YOU DID! AND, AS WE SAY OVER HERE ON THE COMPOST CAMPUS, 'BY GUM, WE'RE GRATEFUL'!

BUT POTEET HAS NO PART IN ALL THIS... DEPLEDGED FROM HER SORORITY, STEVE GONE —AND CARROT BUSY WITH SOME PRIVATE BUSINESS OR OTHER, THE LONELY GIRL HAS NOTHING TO DO EXCEPT STUDY AS THE QUEEN CAMPAIGN BEGINS TO PICK UP STEAM...

Hanna-Barbera's YOGI BEAR

WHAT A BEAUTIFUL DAY TO BE ALIVE!!

I WONDER IF YOGI IS UP YET?

YOGI BEAR

ANYBODY HOME?

GOSH, YOGI... IT'S TIME FOR BREAKFAST... AND YOU'RE STILL IN BED... IS SOMETHING WRONG?

MEASLES, BOO BOO... I'VE GOT THE MEASLES!

MEASLES? HOW CAN YOU TELL, YOGI?

I'VE GOT LITTLE RED SPOTS ALL OVER MY STOMACH!!!

BUT, YOGI... A FEW RED SPOTS DON'T ALWAYS MEAN YOU HAVE MEASLES... WHY, IT COULD BE LOTS OF THINGS!

MAXIMUS, MADE UP AS BRAND, GETS RID OF THE GUESTS BY REPEATING THE INSULTING THINGS BRAND SAID ABOUT THEM.

BRAND'S AWAKE! QUICKLY, MAXIMUS! ... BEFORE HE SEES YOU!

TOO LATE... HE'LL BE THROUGH THAT DOOR IN SECONDS. YOU'D BETTER LEAVE, MARY... THIS MAY NOT BE PLEASANT!

BAM! BAM!

YOU NEEDN'T POUND ON THE DOOR ANY LONGER, BRAND. YOU CAN COME OUT NOW.

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE? WH....!!

Y... YOU'RE ME! WH... WHAT... WHO ARE YOU?

CAN'T YOU GUESS, BRAND? DID YOU THINK YOUR THEFT WOULD GO UNNOTICED?

M... MAXIMUS?!!

COMMON DECENCY PREVENTS ME FROM PUNISHING YOU IN PROPORTION TO THE TROUBLE YOU'VE CAUSED ME. I'M CONSIDERING THE INCIDENT FORGOTTEN.

WAIT A MINUTE! WHY ARE YOU SO FORGIVING?! YOU KNEW I HAD THE CASE... WHY DIDN'T YOU CALL THE POLICE?

I WARN YOU, BRAND. COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS! LEAVE WELL ENOUGH ALONE!

...AND THE DISGUISES!! SANTA CLAUS, ME... WHY? WHAT ARE YOU HIDING? IT'S MORE THAN THE MAKE-UP, ISN'T IT? THERE'S A SECRET THAT WOULD MAKE ME AS GREAT AS YOU...!!

LET GO OF ME! I TRIED TO LET YOU OFF EASILY, BUT YOU WON'T HAVE IT, WILL YOU? ALL RIGHT!

YOU STILL ENVY ME, BRAND? YOU'RE PATHETIC!... TO CHOOSE HORROR WHEN YOU DON'T HAVE TO! IT REQUIRES A SPECIAL GIFT! I'LL SHOW YOU WHAT YOU'RE TRYING TO COMPETE WITH!!

THE SMALL PRINCESS HAS VERY SHARP EYES!

ANY IDEAS, PUNJAB?

IT WAS OF THE FOREIGN BUTCHER'S TYPE! FRESH! PROBABLY A LANDING LAST NIGHT!

HM-M! WELL, LET'S GO SEE ABOUT THIS! YOU STAY HERE, ANNIE!

I CAN HANDLE IT, SIR! NO NEED FOR YOU TO TAKE CHANCES!

FORGET IT, "PARTNER"! I'LL LEAD OUT! YOU AND THE BOYS HANDLE FLANKS AND SUPPORT!

I'M AFRAID FOR HIM, PUNJAB! LOOK HOW CARELESSLY HE CROSSES THAT OPEN MEADOW!

WHEN THE SAHIB WARBUCKS SEEMS MOST CARELESS, THEN IS HE MOST DEADLY!

OH, NO! HE DOESN'T SEE THAT GUY AT ALL!

WAIT, SAHIB JOHNNY! OBSERVE A MASTER AT WORK!

WELL, YOUR REFLEXES SURE HAVEN'T SLOWED DOWN! HOW'D YOU GUESS HE WAS BEHIND YOU?

EASY! I SAW HIS EYES IN THE BUSHES AS I PASSED BY!

BOUND TO BE MORE! WHY WASTE TIME LOOKING FOR THEM? HE'LL TELL US ALL ABOUT IT, UP AT THE CASTLE!

OH, BUT YOU WILL, LITTLE PIG!

BAH! I TELL NOTHING!
